BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Once more the atmosphere of official Washington and of business and labor circles is surcharged with the confidence that recovery "is just around the corner," if not already in our midst.

Whether it is the real thing this time, or only just the old mirage, only time will tell. But certain it is that events of the last two or three weeks have served to raise new hopes on what appears to be a more substantial foundation than hitherto.

Concurrently with a pickup in industry, which has created an optimistic feeling among business men, there has taken place a reconciliation between the President and organized business which both parties view as a turning point in the economic readjustment foreshadowing better times.

Chamber of Commerce Busy.

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States today swung into their announced drive to stimulate recovery, holding conferences on coöperative effort with James A. Moffett, federal housing administrator, and Donald Richberg, the President's chief recovery aid.

It was indicated that the chamber will undertake to mobilize business and banking behind the government housing program, which Mr. Moffett said contemplates a 3 billion dollar volume of building construction, reviving the capital goods industries and furnishing employment for an estimated 3 million men.

Big business units, it also was disclosed, will take the lead in an organized movement to bring about a widespread renovation and reëquipment of manufacturing plants. Mr. Moffett urged this step as a means of giving an immediate impetus to reemployment. He estimated that the big industries have not less than 200 million dollars in accumulated depreciation charge-offs that could be expended at once in modernizing, repairing, and improving plants rapidly becoming obsolete. A number of large business enterprises already have undertaken such plant reëquipment on a large scale.

Would Buy Much Equipment.

"Through such action," said Mr. Moffett, "almost overnight a large amount of immediate employment would be afforded, as well as furnishing an outlet for durable goods, which, in turn, would give impetus to the government's modernization and repair program.

"If the fullest use is made of the possibilities of modernizing and building homes within the next year there should be no reason why at least 1½ billion dollars could not be put into each of these efforts, with the employment of 3 million men, since men at work on building jobs put others to work supplying materials."

The American Federation of Labor's November survey of business notes a shift in business sentiment to the optimistic side either concurrently or following pickups in soft coal, steel, electric power, and textiles production, also in building construction since the middle of September, the production and freight shipments index rising three points above last year.

Indicates No Inflation.

"The administration," says the review, "has sought coöperation of business men and bankers and has answered some of their chief fears by indications that it is not counting on currency inflation changing the value of dollar or extravagant federal spending to bring recovery, but rather on increasing employment in profitable business enterprise. Business executives have responded with a defi-

Willard Mack, Playwright' Actor, Dead

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 19.—[Monday.]—[Special.]—Willard Mack, 56 years old, veteran actor and writer of many New York stage hits, died early this morning of a heart attack in his Beverly Hills home.

WILLARD MACK.

For the last five years Mack, who was almost as well known for his marriages with celebrated actresses as he was for his own stage successes, had been writing scenarios and directing motion pictures.

In his colorful stage career the playwright married first Maude Leone, famous stage beauty; then Pauline Frederick, the stage star, and third Marjorie Rambeau, known both on the stage and screen.

Married a Fourth Time.

Mack's last marriage was to Beatrice Banyard, also an actress. He married her in Denver in 1922 at a time when his name was being linked with that of Peggy Hopkins Joyce. Two years later Miss Banyard left him in New York.

Mack was one of the most prolific of the modern stage and screen writers. Some of his most noted plays were "Madame X," "Caught Short," "That Casey Girl," several "Ziegfeld Follies" and "What Price Innocence." He also acted in and directed the last named play.

Started in Stock.

Mack was born in Cedar Rapids, Ia., in 1873 and his real name was Charles W. McLaughlin. He began his stage career by playing with stock companies in San Francisco, Cal., and in 1913 he had his first New York rôle as leading man in "Kick-In."

From that time he either wrote or acted in a long succession of stage hits. More than forty plays came from his fertile pen between 1913 and 1928 when he left New York to go to Hollywood. There he gave up most of his acting to direct and edit scenarios.

DOCTOR KILLS SELF BY POISON AFTER A BRIDGE GAME ROW

New York, Nov. 18.—A bridge game quarrel was blamed today for the suicide of Dr. Maurice E. Marlow, 32, house physician at the fashionable Hotel Barclay, who swallowed an overdose of morphine at 4:30 a. m. after locking himself in a room of his apartment.

With other physicians and their wives he had attended a bridge party Saturday evening at the home of friends. During the affair, other guests said, Dr. Marlow arose from the table, stalked out, and returned to his apartment.

His wife, the former Nancy Isham of Watertown, N. Y., followed with a group of six or eight friends and overtook him at the apartment elevator. All rode up to the Marlow apartment together. The doctor excused himself and went to his room.

When Dr. Marlow failed to return, his wife and her companions broke open the door and found him unconscious on the floor. Assistant Medical Examiner Robert Fisher announced that death was due to morphine poisoning.

BRIEF, FURIOUS ELECTRIC STORM DAMAGES CITY

Of brief duration, but of unusual intensity for so late in the fall, an electrical storm accompanied by heavy rain struck the city at 8:30 o'clock last night. Two chimneys fell on the west side and lights in Winnetka were extinguished for an hour.

A bolt of lightning struck the chimney atop a three story flat building at 2045 Washington boulevard. Fred H. Schurman, 2037 Washington boulevard, was showered with débris, but escaped injury. Apparently the same bolt also destroyed the chimney on the building at 2049 Washington boulevard, used by the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium as a dispensary.

Three transformers of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois in Winnetka were put out of commission for an hour, throwing the residential and most of the business district into darkness. A high wind accompanied the downpour in the northern suburbs. Lights along Michigan avenue from the river to Roosevelt road when two circuits were damaged.

Several automobiles on highway 81, two miles north of Kewanee, Ill., were overturned last night by a miniature tornado.

Chemist Killed in Completing Big Discovery

On the threshold of receiving acclaim for perfection of a discovery in organic chemistry of great importance to industry and commerce Dr. Erich von Gebauer-Fuelnegg, 32 years old, associate professor at Northwestern university and consulting research chemist, died yesterday at the Passavant hospital.

Death was caused by his inhaling hydrogen chloride, which seared the lining of his lungs. The accident occurred last Thursday in the research laboratories of the Marbro Products company at Gary during the course of an experiment in connection with his discovery. The concern manufactures paper products.

The accident, according to E. M. Kratz of Ogden Dunes, Ind., a research associate of Dr. Gebauer, was due to his haste in attempting to transfer a quantity of hydrochloric acid used in the production of hydrogen chloride from one container to another.

Improves at First.

Dr. Gebauer was placed in an oxygen tent at Passavant hospital. During the first day Dr. Herbert Barker, who attended him, believed his condition improved, but he grew rapidly worse on Saturday and died Sunday.

Officials of the company, where Dr. Gebauer had been conducting his research work for two years, were reluctant to discuss the nature of his discovery. It was explained, however, by Dr. Gustav Egloff, member of the board of directors of the Chicago Chemists' club, of which Dr. Gebauer was a vice president.

"The discovery was that of a rubber fabric as transparent as window glass," Dr. Egloff said. "Its great advantage is that it is impervious to water and will not decompose over a long period of time. The invention was practically complete and the company was ready to proceed with commercial production. Many patents had been applied for."

Broad Training in Europe.

Dr. Gebauer was born in Prague, Czechoslovakia, and attended several European universities, being granted his degree of doctor of philosophy by the University of Vienna. He taught for one year at Princeton university as an exchange professor and in 1928, also under an exchange arrangement, he came to Northwestern university as assistant professor in organic chemistry.

Dr. Gebauer lived at 2661 Lawndale avenue, Evanston, with his wife, Mrs. Marie von Gebauer-Fuelnegg, and a daughter, Margaret Mary, 15 months old. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the Graceland cemetery chapel.

EXPECT MILLION TO JOIN IN FETE FOR MUNDELEIN

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Led by Cardinal Hayes of New York and the Most Rev. Amiet Cicognani, apostolic delegate to the United States, more than 100 Catholic archbishops and bishops of the country, together with high ecclesiastics from other lands, began converging on Chicago yesterday to honor Cardinal Mundelein on the 25th anniversary of his elevation to the rank of bishop. Cardinal Hayes will arrive on the Century at 8:45 this morning.

The culminating service of the cardinal's jubilee will be held at Holy Name cathedral tomorrow morning in what Catholic leaders assert will be one of the most colorful religious ceremonies ever held in Chicago. It will be surpassed, they say, only by the regal splendor of the field mass at Soldiers' field in 1926 at the time of the Eucharistic congress.

Radio to Carry Service.

Although a throng estimated at 1,000,000 persons assembled for the Eucharistic congress mass, through national radio hookups, the committee in charge of the coming celebration consider it probable that an even greater throng will participate spiritually in Tuesday's solemn votive mass of thanksgiving. Loud speakers will be placed at vantage points about Holy Name cathedral for the benefit of those unable to gain entrance to that edifice.

Arrangements have been completed for the accommodation of as many as possible within the cathedral. The committee, headed by Bishop Bernard J. Sheil and William D. O'Brien, has stated that there are about 2,000 sittings in the edifice, but that these largely will be occupied by the host of visiting dignitaries, clergy, and representatives of many regular orders, in addition to the many civic leaders.

Many Church Notables Arrive.

Earlier arrivals of this notable gathering of ecclesiastics include Archbishop Edward J. Hanna of San Francisco, who is a guest of the Most Rev. Joseph Morrison, rector of Holy Name cathedral. The Most Rev. Leopold Ruiz y Flores, exiled Mexican prelate, yesterday became the guest of De Paul university. Bishop Joseph M. Preciado of Colon, Panama, also arrived yesterday. Headquarters of the visitors has been established at the Drake hotel. A luncheon in their honor will be held at the Drake following the service.

When, more than a year ago, it was learned of the coming anniversary ceremonies, both lay and clerical leaders suggested that a great purse be raised for presentation to Cardinal Mundelein at the time of his jubilee. But the cardinal halted this plan and suggested a spiritual offering, asking that all activity be confined to that of Christian devotion. Therefore, during the year, missions were held in practically all churches with thousands returning to strict practice of their religion, while throngs were converted to the Catholic faith.

Became a Bishop in 1909.

Cardinal Mundelein was elevated to the episcopate as the bishop of Loryma on Sept. 21, 1909. On the anniversary of that date he was in Rome, where he celebrated his jubilee before the altar of St. Peter's cathedral. While in Rome Pope Pius embraced the Chicago cardinal and congratulated him for the deeds he had wrought since leaving New York's east side to enter the priesthood.

But the pope did not speak his appreciation of Cardinal Mundelein in words alone. So great was the shower of favors received from the pontiff's hands that Cardinal Mundelein told his people that Chicago is now the most highly favored and privileged of any of the great episcopal areas of the Roman Catholic world.

Long List of Achievements.

Cardinal Mundelein's achievements are regarded as being of world-wide significance. Since he ascended the archiepiscopal throne in Chicago 18 years ago he has directed the erection of 600 edifices. These include 119 buildings for educational purposes, 40 hospitals, homes and orphanages and the $10,000,000 seminary at Mundelein.

In addition to these constructive enterprises, Cardinal Mundelein has established 87 new parishes and many monasteries and chapels. Another institution he set up is the Catholic Charities.

Other important agencies to be set up in his eventful 18 years are the Big Brother movement and the Catholic Youth organization. Cardinal Mundelein also built the new $1,500,000 Propaganda college in Rome.

Jump to Death Climaxes Gay Football Party

Mrs. Nellie Ablin, known as Nell Walker, 26 years old, a former show girl, leaped to her death last night from the eighth floor of the Commonwealth hotel, 2757 Pine Grove avenue, during a gay celebration of the day's victory of the Bears, Chicago professional football team.

Her leap to death in the street below was the second tragedy of the kind within five days. The other death was that of Lucille Nolan, 21 year old night club hostess, who jumped last Wednesday from the 17th floor of the Medinah club of Chicago.

Miss Walker, before her eight story leap, dramatically attracted the attention of passersby by screaming as she stood in the window. Her falling body narrowly missed two persons.

These, unlike Frank [Broadway Jones] Lawrence and Miss Dorothy Lawler of Oak Park, who fled from the disordered Medinah club room last Wednesday after Miss Nolan had flung herself from the window, were waiting horrified in the apartment.

Tells Story of Tragedy.

They included Miss Walker's sister, Mrs. Thelma Walker Smith, 23 years old; Lucille Moyse of 820 Grace street, Mrs. Alice Bennett, former Detroit night club hostess, and Mary Frances Smith, 5 year old niece of the dead woman.

The women told of having been celebrating the 10 to 9 victory of the Bears over the Giants in New York. They said Miss Walker was especially happy because "she had a sweetheart on the Bears team."

After the radio reports of the game had ended Miss Walker dispatched a telegram of congratulation to Bernie Masterson, former University of Nebraska star.

Then, the other women told police, Miss Walker insisted on having a celebration, opened a bottle of liquor and became intoxicated.

Just before she took the fatal leap through the window she became hysterical and Miss Moyse, who is a trained nurse, gave her a shower bath. Then Miss Walker donned a pair of black pajamas, apparently more composed.

Mrs. Bennett, who lived in the apartment with Miss Walker, was especially solicitous over her roommate's condition because the latter had been brooding over her estrangement from her husband, Irving Ablin, employé of a loan company, living at the Leland hotel in Aurora, and a cousin of Dave [Cock-eyed] Ablin, night club operator.

Read Plunge Story Avidly.

Miss Walker had been inordinately interested in the news reports of Miss Nolan's tragic plunge from the Medinah club and, Mrs. Bennett told police, once before had tried to climb through the window.

However, Miss Walker talked calmly enough with her little niece and after a few minutes Mrs. Bennett and the others ceased to watch her.

A second later, before any one realized her intent, Miss Walker climbed into the window, screamed, and leaped.

In the investigation of Miss Nolan's similar death plunge, Coroner Walsh was reported to be too ill yesterday to discuss his plans for the conclusion of the inquest.

At the same time, accompanied by two sisters, the body of Miss Nolan arrived at her family home in Rogers, Ark. There the party was sorrowfully met by the dead girl's parents.

DU PONT URGES LIMIT ON ALL PROFIT IN WAR

Favors Control of Munitions Export.

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Elimination of all excessive wartime earnings must be rigorously applied to every business and every individual in the future, Lammot du Pont, president of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., urged today. He also urged federal control over the export of munitions.

Mr. du Pont set forth these and other recommendations at the request of Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman of the special senate committee investigating the munitions industry. The committee brought out testimony last September that during the world war the du Pont company received orders totaling 1 billion 245 million dollars and paid dividends totaling 458 per cent of the par value of its original stock. The company has been the principal supplier of explosives to the government since revolutionary war days.

The two considerations which must be paramount in any satisfactory national policy on munitions are that adequate national defense must be assured and the maintenance of peace must be encouraged and fostered, Mr. du Pont wrote in his letter to Senator Nye.

Frowns on U. S. Monopoly.

To attempt to make the manufacture of munitions, or even of ordnance, a governmental monopoly is impracticable because of the tremendous scope of the problem, he contended, and would "weaken, and if carried out far enough cripple, our national defense."

"Two objections to private manufacture of munitions in general and ordnance in particular are raised—excessive war profits and abuses attending the trafic in arms," Mr. du Pont wrote. "These we shall try to deal with in turn.

"We subscribe to the view that excessive war profits should be eliminated. There is a popular demand, which is sound and just, that in the event of any such future national crisis as a major war the entire capital and productive resources of our country should be subjected to the national need, without the prospect of extraordinary compensation.

"The national policy should be based on the principle that in a time of national emergency, when the country's man power is being mobilized, its material resources should be mobilized also."

Urges All-Inclusive Plan.

A practical plan for putting this principle into effect must be "all-inclusive in scope, extended throughout the whole fabric of our economic structure," he wrote. It must "employ every motive to insure speed, efficient operation, low costs, elimination of waste, conservation of materials, saving of labor."

"Elimination of excessive earnings must apply to every business and every individual," he said.

Conceding that this offers a problem of immense difficulty, and that "the dangers of such a radical departure from normal economic habits may not be appreciated," Mr. du Pont urged that to it "should be applied the wisest minds of financiers, business executives, military experts, statesmen.

"There is still available for this study the experienced judgment of the men who successfully conducted America's efforts in the world war," he pointed out.

Now Time to Act.

Mr. du Pont said that the time for drafting such a plan is now, when no immediate danger threatens, and not when hostilities are imminent, for impromptu measures "would surely be ineffective." He urged congress to name an agency to work out such a plan.

Taking up the international arms trafic, Mr. du Pont asserted that it could be done away with only by international agreement between all the producing nations, about twelve in number. He said he did not want to give his opinion as to whether abolition of the trafic, "which would tend toward the fixation of the status quo of oppressed and unarmed peoples," is desirable.

"If the United States alone were to forbid the export of munitions, our national defense would be impaired because such a policy of isolation might prompt reprisals and make it difficult or impossible in an emergency for this country to obtain essential materials from abroad," he warned.

"In any case, the question would arise, what constitutes munitions of war," he continued. "Numerous harmless articles of peace time commerce, the trade in which should not be inhibited assume in war time greater military significance and strategic importance than many articles of ordnance. Prohibition of the trafic in arms might not be effective, and it would encourage illicit dealings."

Urges Government Control.

Mr. du Pont advised that the international munitions trade "should be subjected to strict governmental control, preferably by international agreement," and suggested that the United States immediately should take steps to initiate its own policies in this respect.

"We suggest legislation permitting the export of arms from this country only after the vise of orders by a federal government order or commission as the congress may determine," he said. "If this commission made objection, shipment would not be permitted. Moreover, such legislation should require that, upon consummation of an order, full information must be reported to the commission, including the amount and description of goods, their destination, and the complete financial settlement of the transaction.

"Such a system of control, while permitting legitimate sales of arms for indispensable demands, would eliminate any abuses that may exist in the business, and would prevent improper sales where arms are desired for unlawful purposes."

Mr. du Pont asserted that no prudent nation could afford to be unarmed in the world today and that modern wars "are increasingly liable to be won or lost before the actual outbreak of hostilities." He held that for the United States to be prepared for war would help maintain peace.

"Strong But Forbearing."

"A strong but forbearing America is the greatest guarantor of peace," he wrote.

In the last war more than 25,000 industrial plants were devoted to munitions making, he said, and a policy of nationalization would require the expansion of government arsenals twenty times.

The cost would be colossal, ordnance appropriations would have to be increased over a hundred fold, operation would be extremely difficult if not impractical, the effect might be provocative," he wrote.

'ARREST 'SOLVES' ONE MURDER AND 101 OTHER CRIMES

As a result of the arrest of Billy La Forest, alias Hank Boni, 9212 Drexel avenue, Assistant State's Attorney Charles T. Myles announced yesterday that one murder, 84 burglaries, 14 automobile thefts, and three shootings had been cleared up.

La Forest, 26 year old café entertainer, was brought back from Williamsport, Pa. He had been traced through a picture taken of him when he was struggling through a "walkathon" at a south side dance hall a year ago. He had been implicated in the murder of Peter Zawed, owner of a delicatessen at 214 West 119th street in a holdup on Sept. 2, by the confession of Joseph Kortvely, 17 years old, 9225 University avenue.

Kortvely, arrested on an automobile theft charge, gave police the locations of a number of stores which he said he and La Forest and Joseph Bukovitz, an ex-convict, had robbed. He said that La Forest and Bukovitz killed the delicatessen owner while he sat outside in a car.

Police learned that La Forest had been a contestant in the walkathon, obtained pictures of the contestants, and then watched all mail delivered to La Forest's home. Eventually a letter came from Williamsport. They sent the picture to police in the Pennsylvania city, and La Forest was arrested. Yesterday he denied all crimes charged against him.

INSULL JURYMEN EXPECT TO 'GO FREE' THIS WEEK

After seven weeks of virtual imprisonment, jurors in the trial of Samuel Insull and 16 co-defendants for using the mails in a scheme to defraud looked forward yesterday toward release some time this week, as both government and defense counsel prepared for final moves in the case.

Last week's sessions ended Saturday at noon on the order of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson after motions of defense lawyers for directed verdicts of acquittal for six defendants were overruled. The defendants were Samuel Insull and his son, Samuel Insull Jr., Charles B. Stuart, C. T. MacNeille, Frank K. Shrader, and Harold L. Stuart.

On resumption of the trial this morning the judge will make a ruling on similar motions for the 11 other defendants. After that the government will begin its final summation of evidence. According to United States Attorney Dwight H. Green, his assistant, Forest E. Harness probably will require three hours for the prosecution's closing arguments. The eight defense attorneys then will be heard, beginning likely tomorrow. Some time later in the week the case is expected to go to the jury.

I SHALL REMAIN AT MY POST, NAZI BISHOP DECLARES

Defies Efforts of Foes to Oust Him.

BERLIN, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller opened a new phase of the Protestant church conflict today with the rallying call "I shall stay by my post as long as I can stand."

Lending support to the reichsbishop was the belief that Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler would receive the Nazi German Christian representatives this week. Evidence that the opposition still fights, however, was contained in a report that Bishop Julius Kuehlewein of Baden, once a stanch friend of Mueller, had left the German Christian camp for the confessional synod.

Quotes Wounded Man.

"Once during the war I was under bombardment when I saw a wounded man. I told him to report for first aid. He replied 'I shall stay by my post as long as I can stand.' These are the words I use today to announce my decision to remain as reichsbishop."

Hitler's dictum giving both camps a free hand was viewed as entirely without good results.

The Mueller group remains in possession of the official machinery enabling it to inflict disciplinary measures on the recalcitrant pastors.

Here Are the Issues.

The issues which have divided the Protestant church into two warring camps briefly are these:

FIRST—The German Christians insisted the leader of the unified church should enjoy the confidence of Hitler, and elected Mueller, friend of der fuehrer. The opposition protested the election as illegal because the national synod was packed with Nazis when the vote was taken Sept. 29, 1933. They regarded the previous election of Friedrich von Bodelschwingh as binding.

SECOND—The German Christians held that the church, like the state, must be reorganized on a leadership principle. The opposition held that the very essence of the reformation was that the authority of the church must proceed from the bottom upward. The German Christians tried to pledge all ministers to obedience. The opposition held that the individual minister was responsible to Christ alone.

THIRD—The German Christians insisted that the same racial theories that have been applied in the state must be applied in the church, that non-Aryans were not to be tolerated in church office. The opposition held that all races were equal before God.

Hitler Promises to Abide by Decision of Voters in Saar

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 18.—Whichever way the Saar votes next Jan. 13 Germany will abide by the decision, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler solemnly promised Jean Goy, deputy for Paris, and Robert Monnier, Paris municipal councilor, in a recent interview published for the first time in Sunday's edition of the newspaper Matin.

Hitler received Goy and Monnier as representatives of French war veterans and, using one of his favorite remarks, assured them that the men who fought in the world war knew better than to let themselves be dragged into a new conflict. Besides, he said, the Frenchman and the German so well know what a tough fighter the other is that there is no reason for a new test. Then can get along in peace now, he said.

Cites French Worries.

Goy is an ardent nationalist who took an active part in the February street demonstrations against the government. He told Hitler that Frenchmen are worried about Germany's rearmament and her drive to regain the Saar.

He drew this answer from Hitler: "There ought not to be any misunderstanding between our two countries. Present difficulties arise from the Saar problem.

"Your press lets it be supposed that we are preparing a putsch. It is absolute madness to think that Germany will try to trouble the forthcoming plebiscite by force and I formally declare that we will formally bow before the result, whatever it is."

Goy asked him about Germany's territorial desires, and Hitler asserted that the Alsace-Lorraine question is closed.

Seeks No New Territories.

The reichsfuehrer said that the new Germany did not think like the old, and wanted no territories on the west where there are 237 inhabitants per square kilometer. [A linear kilometer is five-eighths of a mile]. This fact, he said, would only aggravate Germany's situation.

"On our eastern frontiers certain problems have another character," Hitler said, thus giving an indication that Germany might like a bit of land in the east. "But the pact we signed with Poland proved Germany's sincere will to maintain good relations with that great neighboring country."

The dictator made an appeal for direct French-German conversations to arrange armaments, after remarking that France has armed "while declaring that we refuse to disarm."

He said that he wanted no war which killed off the elite and profited only the munition makers.

Inhabitants of the Saar will vote Jan. 13 on whether to return to Germany, join France or remain under the jurisdiction of the league of nations.

JEWS AND ARYANS SEEN AS WAGING ECONOMICS WAR

GOSLAR, Germany, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Walter Darre, Nazi minister of agriculture, expounded the theory today that Germany is a battleground between the Aryan and Jewish conceptions of economics, and that the result of the battle will determine which will triumph in the world.

Speaking at the closing session of the second national convention of the nutritive guild before thousands of assembled peasant leaders from Germany and Europe, he said:

"The economic conception of two diametrically opposed races is struggling for the supremacy of our people. The fundamental error of the liberal or Jewish theory of economics is the claim that economics is something governed by its own laws, independent of such super-economic conceptions as blood, race, nation and fatherland.

"A further fundamental error is its contention that personal advantage is the motive power of all economic undertaking. Against this we pose the Aryan conception of the privacy of blood in all questions of life, including economics. We assert that the ethical conception of labor for the common weal must constitute the motive power for all our actions."

MOTHER 6 WEEKS; NAMED KILLER.

Clark, S. D., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Lulu Mills, 38, mother of a 6 weeks old daughter, has been found guilty by a jury of the death of her husband last June 2. She will be sentenced Saturday for second degree manslaughter. She testified that her husband was accidentally killed when he tried to stop her from committing suicide.

Berlin Bans Book on Saar Picturing French Riots

BERLIN, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The government today banned from further circulation in its present form the 334 page "Saar Book," issued originally as a Saar propaganda instrument. Exception was taken to the concluding section of the volume which, on alternate pages, showed pictures of Negroes dancing with white women, assertedly from France, and scenes of French squalor and riots which were contrasted with photographs of German workers' conditions showing clean streets.

POLAND SPURNS INFLATION IN WAR ON DEPRESSION

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Nov. 18.—Economic conditions in Poland are improving slowly but definitly and the country will be able to overcome the depression without resorting to artificial measures such as an inflation or deflation according to Prof. Wladyslaw M. Zawadski, minister of finance. He is guiding the budget of the government through parliament.

Zawadski declared that while he could not criticize governments which had adopted such methods to overcome their difficulties, Poland would not adopt such a course because it meant the destruction of savings. The policy of balancing the budget through increasing real revenues and decreasing real expenditures, he declared, has justified itself. The populace, he added, has shown it has complete faith in the zloty and savings deposits had increased 25 per cent during the last year.

"Banks Have Improved."

"Savings accounts in foreign currencies held in Polish banks have practically disappeared and the banks have improved their position tremendously compared with a few years ago," Zawadski said.

The minister declared that the budget deficit for the coming year would amount to 150 million zloties [about $28,575,000]. One third of the deficit will be covered by treasury reserves and the remainder will be raised by credit operations. During the last year, he said, the Polish money market had absorbed 500 million zloties [$95,250,000] worth of Polish bonds.

With the exception of items covering national defense, pensions, and foreign debts, the government has reduced expenditures. Zawadski reported that 40 million zloties [$7,620,000] in new taxes must be raised during the coming year. He proposed to raise this sum chiefly through an increase in the direct and indirect taxes on sugar. In order to avoid reducing the expenditures of the ministry of education the government proposed to impose another small tax on apartments, which would bring in 18 million zloties in additional revenue.

No Mention of War Debt.

Reporting the government's investments would be covered by internal credit, the finance minister said that the last year had revealed that Poland's credit was good abroad and that she could borrow on favorable terms. During the course of his speech nothing was said of the war debt to America upon which Poland has defaulted.

COUPLE PERISH ON LONELY ISLE WITHOUT WATER

Die on Beach as Vessels Sail By Them.

BULLETIN.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Acting on descriptions furnished from Los Angeles, Manuel Rodriguez, master of the tuna clipper Santo Amaro, who found two bodies yesterday on Marchena island, tonight wirelessed that he had identified the larger body as that of Arthur Wittmer, German adventurer. The other body, Rodriquez said, "probably is that of a woman," with the possibility that it may be that of Alfred Rudolph Lorenz of Paris. Near by was a bundle of infant's clothing, tending to indicate the body is that of Mrs. Wittmer.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 18.—(AP)—The story of a couple's desperate efforts to stave off death from thirst came to Los Angeles today following the finding of the bodies on lonely Merchena Island in the Galapagos archipelago.

The bodies of the shipwrecked adventurer and his woman companion were discovered by an American fishing boat lying on a chalk white beach at the foot of rugged, towering gray lava cliffs.

In the clothing of the man was a German passport issued to Alfred Rudolph Lorenz of Paris. There was nothing to identify the woman, who was slight of stature and blonde. They had been dead for several days.

Try to Signal Ships.

Rescue from death of thirst had eluded these wanderers in search of surcease from the cares of a busy world. They had tried to signal passing ships. The man had erected poles in the lava cracks of the cliffs, flying strips of his clothing in frantic efforts to make their presence known. There is no water on the island.

News of the tragedy was flashed here by wireless. A letter in the man's white shirt, addressed to Capt. G. Allan Hancock, Los Angeles oil operator and explorer, indicated, Capt. Hancock said here that the couple may have been a Mr. and Mrs. Wittmer, whose home was in Germany.

Capt. Hancock said the Wittmers lived on Charles Island, another in the Galapagos group in the Pacific, and had a 14 year old son and a baby of 2 years.

Lived Near Nudists.

The crew of the American fishing boat, the Santo Amaro, said the man was heavy set and slightly bald. Capt. Hancock said this description fits Wittmer, who, with his wife, resided near the German nudists, Dr. Frederick Ritter and Dora Koervin, on Charles Island.

Lorenz, Capt. Hancock said he was advised in a letter recently received from Dr. Ritter, was planning to leave Charles island for Germany. Baroness Bonsquet von de Wagner and an Ecuadorian named Phillipson at that writing, had "vanished to the south seas," which would leave Ritter and his mate as the only inhabitants of that volcanic island.

"There was a hint of scandal in Dr. Ritter's letter which deepens this mystery," said Capt. Hancock. "He wrote: 'We will hope you come once more to the island. Then I will tell you what I cannot write, because I have no proof for it.' I cannot even guess what Dr. Ritter alluded to in those lines, but I plan to leave for the islands late this week with a party of scientists of the Smithsonian institution."

The mysterious disappearance of Baroness de Wagner adds another chapter to the series of colorful episodes that have come from the old convict settlement of Charles isle. Dr. Ritter, Berlin dentist, and Frau Koervin, wife of a Berlin business man, left their native land together five years ago, renouncing marriage ties, to seek a Garden of Eden in the Pacific. Dr. Ritter is a raw food faddist and Frau Koervin became a disciple.

They have been at Charles island four years, but two years ago Baroness de Wagner showed up at the island with three men, Phillipson and Lorenz among them, from South America. The baroness, a dark eyed beauty who attired herself in silk shorts, with a revolver dangling from a silk cord at her belt, announced herself as the empress of the island.

Sailor Tells of Kidnaping.

Many stories came from the island of her fierce, lashing temper. A Norwegian sailor, returning here, said she kidnaped him upon his arrival and held him prisoner for a night. Another story was to the effect one of her male subjects was shot to death. Still another said she extended an invitation to Vincent Astor when he visited the archipelago in 1933 in his yacht. Astor did not leave his yacht, however.

There were reports the Ecuadorian government had taken steps to deport the baroness, but she promised to mend her ways. There were stories of ill-feeling between her and the Wittmers, however, and last year it was reported a "mysterious woman" threatened to make them leave the island in a raft.

Other reports came from Charles island that the "empress of Eden" had placed a shipwrecked honeymoon couple adrift in a small boat.

BRIDESMAIDS AT WEDDING OF ROYALTY

LADY MARY CAMBRIDGE. LADY IRIS MOUNTBATTEN. PRINCESS ELIZABETH.

Thrill for Society

LONDON, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Society has been thrilled by the announcement winsome Princess Elizabeth, 8 year old granddaughter of the king and queen of England, will be bridesmaid at the wedding Nov. 29 of her "Uncle George" and Princess Marina of Greece.

Also among the ten bridesmaids will be Lady Mary Cambridge, 10 years old, and Lady Iris Mountbatten, 14 years old. Lady Mary is a daughter of the marquess and marchioness of Cambridge. Her father is a nephew of Queen Mary. Lady Iris' father, the marquis of Carisbrooke, is a cousin of King George.

FARMER SELLS HOGS AND BRINGS THE BACON HOME

Alfred Boss raises corn and hogs near the town of Coggon in Linn county, Ia. He sold a shipment of hogs in Chicago last Saturday, pinned the roll of bills to an inside vest pocket, and went to the Illinois Central station to wait for a train to take him home.

A personable appearing stranger took a seat beside Mr. Boss, made a few remarks about the weather and crops, commented on the price of live stock, and then introduced himself as Hiram Wilkins, a Dubuque county farmer. Mr. Winkins, it appeared, had also just sold a shipment of hogs in Chicago.

"It's nearly an hour till train time," remarked Mr. Wilkins, "and I'd like to have a look at the loop. What do you say?" Mr. Boss thought it was a pretty good idea, and if Mr. Wilkins would wait until he made a phone call he would be glad to join him.

A few minutes later, in response to the phone call, Sergt. Joseph Hanlon of the detective bureau appeared and took Mr. Wilkins to the detective bureau, where he was identified as Frank Randolph, 50 years old, 6556 Northwest highway, who, police say, has a long record as a confidence man.

Mr. Boss arrived home yesterday with his money still pinned inside his vest.

MIDGET CONVICT TURNS OUT TO BE WHITE ELEPHANT

Stateville penitentiary's new midget convict, 51 inches tall, is proving a white elephant to prison officials. Albert Tiesta, 26 years old, 526 North Springfield avenue, Chicago, dressed in at the big house last week—or tried to. The smallest convict uniform in stock fit him like a tent so the prison tailor began hastily to snip out appropriate garb for him. Tiesta is taking meals in his cell until carpenters can construct a high chair to enable him to dine at the regular mess table. When he elected to go out for football officials decided he would make a good cheer leader, since he was a newsboy in Chicago until his recent arrest. Convicted with three other young men, Midget Tiesta is serving a sentence of one year to life for raping two women.

HIS LANDING GEAR BROKEN, HE MAKES IT ON ONE WHEEL

Cleveland, O., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Soon after Ray Brown, chief pilot for the General Tire and Rubber company, took off from Akron airport today he tuned in for a weather broadcast and heard:

"Calling Ray Brown. Your landing gear is gone. Calling Ray Brown. Your landing gear is gone."

Brown, who was en route to Columbus, considered landing in Barberton lake, but rejected the idea. He circled Akron airport while a rescue crew and an ambulance took up positions on the field, then made a skillful landing on one good wheel, which collapsed under the strain.

The plane slid along on its fuselage but was not badly damaged.

TELEVISION NOW READY, BUT TOO COSTLY, IS VIEW

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Television is scientifically perfected and ready to be put in practical operation, but is not commercially feasible because of the cost involved, says C. D. Wagoner of the General Electric company, in Norfolk to assist in the radio broadcast tonight for the benefit of the Byrd party in Little America.

The ultrashort wave—the band under 10 meters—is used in television, and this eliminates practically all static interference and gives a fidelity of signal far superior to anything attainable at present over the regular broadcast band, he said.

RENT COLLECTOR IS FOUND SLAIN; POCKETS LOOTED

Robbers were believed responsible for the death of Chancy Frank Spearin, 59 years old, 6128 Ingleside avenue, collector for several real estate companies, whose body was found yesterday morning lying in the mud in the rear of 3030 Vernon avenue, the clothes soaked with rain. The right side of his head was crushed.

The pockets of his clothes had been emptied of everything but a few pennies and some papers which led to his identification.

Saturday he spent most of a $62 check received from the C. H. Ewing company, 160 North La Salle street, one of his employers, to purchase a suit and overcoat. However, his wife declared he may have been carrying additional money received from other companies. Her last word from him was at 10 o'clock Saturday night, when, she said, he telephoned he would not be home until he had made one more business call.

Besides his widow, Spearin is also survived by a son, Harold, a radio engineer and student at the University of Chicago. Spearin was a reporter on the old Chicago Record, his widow said. Later he was head of the press relations and signature departments of the Corn Exchange bank before entering the real estate business.

Kills Wife, Son-in-Law; Fails to End Own Life

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Charles B. Crowther, 61, was lodged in jail here today following the slaying of his wife and son-in-law, Marvin Belger, at a party. An attempt by Crowther to end his own life with the same gun failed.

RECOVERY FAST BECOMING FACT, OFFICIALS FEEL

Hopes Rest at Least on Better Foundation.

"The business world is in a better position to go ahead than at this time last year. Bank deposits have increased at an unprecedented rate and are now 29.7 per cent above March, 1933; business men could finance a major production increase by drawing on their accounts, with very little recourse to loans—an unusually strong position. Buying power of workers and farmers is higher than it was at this time last year.

"Debts are being paid off, bills met more promptly. Department store sales in October were 11 per cent above last year, sales of chain stores 20.6 per cent higher [18 chains]. Factory production in a number of lines is not large enough to supply present demand, which means that operations must soon be speeded. Those closely in touch with business state that planning for spring production will be on relatively the most ambitious basis since 1930."

Reconciliation Big Item.

Overshadowing all other developments since the election is the reconciliation between organized business and the President sealed by the National Chamber of Commerce in the last two days. Both moderated their attitude toward each other and found a common ground for cooperation.

Although the great captains of industry took an important part in devising the NRA chiefly because of its suspension of the anti-trust laws, the business community on the whole has not been sympathetic to the New Deal. What with the radical aspects of the President's program and the uncertainties created by currency tinkering and other experimentation, business men have been unwilling to risk ventures in which there was no assurance of profit but a strong possibility of loss.

Business men were notably opposed to the New Deal in the election. But the outcome of the election wrought a change in their viewpoint. They were brought face to face with a popular verdict that, barring some catastrophic event, presages the reëlection of Mr. Roosevelt in 1936; face to face, therefore, with six more years of Roosevelt and at least six more years of the New Deal unless it should be brought to an end by national bankruptcy, which none more fervently than business men hope the country will be spared.

Face More Radical Congress.

Moreover, they were brought face to face with a new congress more radical than the old which might easily run to legislative excesses that would make the New Deal manifestations to date seem conservative by comparison. The only check on such excesses would be the executive veto.

In the shadow of such a menace Mr. Roosevelt suddenly, in the troubled eyes of business men, began to take on the outlines of a palladium of such liberty as they thought they had left. They rushed into the arms of the President, who manifested a willingness to meet them half way. Organized business accepted the New Deal, in principle at least, and undertook to encourage the revival of industry under the conditions imposed by the new economic dispensation.

On his part the President veered toward the right, steering a course calculated to reassure business, dispel uncertainties, and encourage the revival of private enterprise. If this peace compact endures, the President and organized business will be found working together to bring about in the next few months those evidences of recovery which would be the best guarantee of averting radical legislation by the new congress.

Started Before Election.

This rapprochement between the President and business had begun to manifest itself even before the election in the reconciliation between the executive and the bankers in their annual convention. And both before and since the election the President has been taking steps calculated to lull fears of the New Deal in the business man's breast.

The treasury charted a course of orthodox government financing, including the refunding of the public debt which allayed fears of immediate inflation of the currency. The treasury also removed all restrictions on transaction in foreign exchange, transfers of credit and export of currency other than gold certificates, which action was interpreted as an indication that the administration is not contemplating such further devaluation of the dollar as would precipitate a flight of capital.

ECONOMY LEAGUE SETS UP BUDGET THAT BALANCES

Urges Roosevelt, Congress to Limit Expense.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—The National Economy league, in a petition addressed to President Roosevelt and to congress, today presented a definite program for balancing the federal budget in the coming fiscal year.

Holding that "sustained national recovery must be accompanied by a balancing of the budget," as in England, the league proposed drastic reductions in government expenditures and additional taxes totaling 935 million dollars. The league's proposed budget would balance income and expenditures at 5 billion 435 million dollars for the year commencing July 1, 1935.

Follows Plea by Industry.

This demand for a truly balanced budget comes on the heels of a suggestion earlier in the week from the federal finance committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce. This committee also proposed substantial reductions in the government's emergency expenditures, and suggested that the amount of any deficit be limited to outlays for direct relief expenditures. This deficit, the committee declared, could be met out of the large amount remaining in the general fund, and by use of net payments to the treasury by the RFC and other government lending agencies. Thus, the committee pointed out, there would be no increase in the national public debt.

Both the economy league and the committee of the commerce chamber stressed the great incentive to business and security to investors which would follow the courses proposed.

Each agency, however, proposed the immediate halting of the public works expenditures, confining future outlays to projects already begun. Opposing the "spending for spending's sake" policy of the administration, the chamber's committee said "such a policy fosters as much unemployment as it 'relieves.'"

RECEIPTS.
[In Millions of Dollars.]

Although proposing, in the interests of a balanced budget, that 935 millions of new taxes, above those of the present year, should be levied, the league did not suggest any methods of raising the new taxes.

See People Willing to Pay.

"We affirm, however," the league's petition stated, "the willingness and ability of the American people to pay the required additional federal taxes, provided they are convinced that the new taxation will be accompanied with a reduction in expenses and will result in a truly balanced budget and the dissipation of the existing threat to the welfare of all."

The finance committee of the National Chamber of Commerce opposed the levying of any additional taxes in 1936. The committee held that the burden of taxation—federal, state, and local—is at present more than can adequately be supported by the national income. The direct and indirect effects of the tax burden, the committee declared, "are to place a deadening hand upon business."

Woman, 32, Stabs Father in Defense of Mother

Michael Brostko, 50 years old, 1101 North Hermitage avenue, was in a serious condition at the county hospital last night from a stab wound inflicted by his daughter, Jeanne, 32 years old. The daughter told the Racine avenue police that she stabbed her father with a butcher knife while trying to protect her mother, Mary, whom he was beating.

'SCRAMBLED' CITY HOMES ARE HELD KEY TO RECOVERY

Find 78,000 Families Living with Others.

Scrambled households—those in which families have doubled up for the sake of economy—were revealed yesterday as one of the keys to economic recovery in a housing census conducted by the University of Chicago.

The survey, made under the direction of Richard O. Lang, member of the university's social science staf, shows that in January of this year nearly 78,000 families were living with other families in the city.

Considered Key to Recovery.

Although real estate operators, constructors, and all those associated with the building trades have known in a general way that the stagnation in their industry has been caused by the doubling up of families, the report gives the first positive light on the extent to which Chicago's recovery depends on the unscrambling of these households.

With the return of normal earning capacities, real estate men conjectured, about 70,000 of these families would return to single homes and thus bring about a housing shortage.

This shortage would in turn cause a boom in real estate values, a boom in apartment rentals, and a boom in all the trades, contracting, plumbing, painting, decorating, and others connected with housing.

City 7.5 Per Cent Scrambled.

An especially interesting section of the report, which showed that the city as a whole has a percentage of 7.5 doubled up families, is devoted to the relative ratios of "doubling up" in sections of Chicago. The range of scrambled families ran from 3.7 per cent to as high as 24.6 per cent.

Chicago's housing ultimately, according to a survey presented yesterday to the Chicago Association of Commerce by Roger Babson, noted economist, will have to accommodate a population greater than any other city in the world. A survey of graphs of large cities has led Mr. Babson to conclude that in 1980 the city will pass the 10 million mark.

France Arrests Financier for Fraud in New Scandal

PARIS, Nov. 18. — (AP) — Charles Levy, who rose in three years from a post of clerk to the position of one of the wealthiest men in France, was arrested today on charges of embezzlement. The arrest grew out of the collapse of Levy's 10 companies, and followed that of his cousin, Joseph Levy, in a series of swift moves by the cabinet of Pierre Etienne Flandin to clean up financial scandals. Companies he formed with his cousin floated more than a billion francs in bonds.

ROOSEVELT SETS TVA AS MODEL FOR ALL STATES

Extends Utility Control; Raps His Critics.

At Warm Springs

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt arrived here at 9:58 p. m. after riding 1,709 miles since he left Washington Thursday and went immediately to his cottage on the grounds of the sanitarium he founded for infantile paralysis sufferers. The cottage will be the fall White House until the President leaves for Washington, Dec. 4.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Anniston, Ala., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—The death knell of private enterprise in the power industry was sounded this morning by President Roosevelt in two militant speeches which brought the Tennessee Valley Authority phase of the "Roosevelt revolution" into sharp relief for the first time.

Pulling no punches, the President came out flatly for public ownership of utilities in the sleepy town of Tupelo, Miss., chopping off his sentences with clenched teeth he announced in effect that the TVA is no longer an experiment, but a model for the whole country.

Attacks "Obstructionists."

Four hours later at Birmingham, Ala., maintaining his belligerent attitude, the President extended an invitation to private enterprise to join in the TVA program while the water is warm, his call to overthrow "obstructionists" was viewed particularly significant in that it was given in the industrial center of the south.

"What you are doing here is going to be copied in every state of the Union before we get through," the President told an audience of 30,000 in Tupelo, the first city to contract for TVA power.

In Birmingham he said the TVA must receive "growing interest and approval," and "wholehearted support and coöperation." He said he was speaking particularly of obstructionists.

After his definition of a new federal utility policy and the blunt challenge to "obstructionists," President Roosevelt found time to declare that "all is well with the country and we are coming back."

The President dropped his rôle as a tourist of the Tennessee valley at Corinth, Miss., last evening when he threw down a challenging gage to private enterprise. He said private interests must meet the low competitive rate of the TVA or give up.

Salesman for Paternalism.

Obviously bouyed by the acres of people who have turned out to see him during his three day tour which carried him to Norris, Wheeler, and Wilson dams, President Roosevelt came out as a salesman for the 300 million dollar venture into paternalism.

The outspoken stand for public ownership at Tupelo made the countenance of Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, chairman of the TVA, beam. The doctor later said he was afraid the President "would not push hard until he saw the TVA go" but the speech set the signal of "full speed ahead."

Another member of the presidential party characterized the Tupelo and Birmingham speeches as "something to give the utility boys a hangover headache in the morning." He added that both speeches although extemperaneous "were studied and deliberate."

Talks of Heavy Industries.

In the course of the Birmingham speech the President said:

"I well understand the problem of the heavy industries, such as iron, steel, and coal—industries upon which you so largely depend. They are matters of the keenest concern to the whole administration.

"The great program of public works now in full swing calls for vast quantities of the iron and steel and other capital goods which this area produces.

"Definite improvement has already made its appearance as it has in the coal industry. The success of the NRA coal code appears not only in the more orderly mining of coal, but also in the more steady employment and the bigger pay envelopes of the thousands of miners who were in sore straits before the government acted.

"But, of course, for you who live in the economic area of the Tennessee valley, the Tennessee Valley Authority must continue to receive your growing interest as it receives the growing interest and approval of so many other communities. The whole project can succeed fully only if it has the wholehearted support and coöperation of the people of the area. I particularly bespeak of the people of Birmingham an active coöperation with the Tennessee Valley Authority.

"I am aware, of course, that a few of your citizenry are leaving no stone unturned to block and harass and to delay this great national program. I am confident, however, that these obstructionists, few in number in comparison with the whole population, do not reflect the views of the overwhelming majority of the people of Birmingham or the other cities where they reside."

In referring to the TVA at Tupelo, he said:

"We recognize that there will be a certain amount of—what shall I say—rugged opposition to this development, but I think we recognize that the opposition is fading as the weeks and months go by, fading in the light of practical experience."

The President cited "for the benefit of the press" that the consumption of TVA power for residence purposes since March has risen from 41,000 to 89,000 kilowatts. He said that he understood "in spite of various fairy tales" the power system in Tupelo was still paying taxes to the municipality."

PRESIDENT'S TVA SPEECH

Tupelo, Miss., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—The text of President Roosevelt's speech delivered here today follows:

"Senator Harrison, Gov. Connor, Mr. Mayor, my friends:

"I would not make a speech to you today because we are assembled on this glorious Sunday morning more as neighbors than as anything else.

"I have had a very wonderful three days and everywhere that I have gone the good people have come as neighbors to talk with me, and they have not come by the thousands—they have come literally by the acres.

"This is the first time in my life that I have had the privilege of seeing this section of the state of Mississippi. Many, many years ago, when Pat Harrison and I were almost boys, I got acquainted with his stamping ground down on the gulf. Today I am especially glad to come into the northern part of the state.

Recalls Campaign Visit.

"Two years ago, in 1932, during the campaign, and again in January, 1933, I came through Kentucky—through the Tennessee valley—and what I saw on those trips—what I saw of human beings, made the tears come to my eyes. The great outstanding thing to me for these last three days has been the change in the looks of people's faces.

"It has not been only a physical thing. It has not been the contrast between what was actually a scarcity of raiment two years ago or a lack of food two years ago—the contrast between that and better clothing and more food today—but it's a something in people's faces and I think you understand what I mean. There wasn't much hope in those days. People were wondering what was going to come to this country. And yet today I see not only hope but I see determination—knowledge that all is well with the country and that we are coming back.

"I suppose that you good people know a great deal more of the efforts that we have been making in regard to the work of the Tennessee Valley authority than I do because you have seen its application in your own counties and your own towns and your own homes and, therefore, it will be like carrying coals to Newcastle for me to tell you about what has been done.

Will Follow TVA Example.

"But perhaps in referring to it I can use you as a text—a text that may be useful to many other parts of the nation, because people's eyes are upon you and because what you are doing here is going to be copied in every state in the Union before we get through.

"We recognize that there will be a certain amount of—what shall I say?—rugged opposition to this development, but I think we recognize also that the opposition is fading as the weeks and the months go by, fading in the light of practical experience.

"I cite certain figures for the benefit of the gentlemen of the press who have come hither from many climes. I am told that from March of this year, when you started using TVA power, the consumption of power for residential purposes has risen from 41,000 kilowatts to 89,000 kilowatts, an increase of 126 per cent. I understand that from the financial point of view, in spite of various fairy tales that have been spread in other parts of the country, your power system is still paying taxes to the municipality. That is worth remembering. Furthermore, that as a whole it is a remarkable business success.

Instructing Business Men.

"I talk about those figures first because it has been so often wrongly alleged that this yardstick which we are using could not be applied to private business and because a government yardstick receives so many favors that it is let off from paying this and paying that and paying the other thing. Well, we are proving it in this Tennessee valley that by using good business methods we can instruct a good many business men in the country.

"And there is another side of it. I have forgotten the exact figures and I can't find them in this voluminous report at this moment, but the number of new refrigerators that have been put in—that means something besides just plain dollars and cents. That means a greater human happiness. Electric cookstoves and all the other dozens of things which, when I was in the navy, we used to call 'gadgets'—we are making it possible, all of us working together, to improve human life through the introduction of things that aren't especially new so far as invention is concerned, but things which are becoming more and more necessities in our American life in every part of the country.

Talks of New Homes.

"And I have been interested this morning in seeing these new homesteads—not just the buildings, not just the land that they are on, not just the excellent landscaping of the trees among which those homes have been set, but especially the opportunities that those homes are giving to families to improve the standard of living.

"And finally, my friends, there is one thing about all that you are doing here in Tupelo, that they are doing in Corinth, that they are doing in Athens, and Norris and the various other places where accomplishment can be seen today—aye, the most important thing of all, I think, is that it is being done by the communities themselves. This is not coming from Washington. It is coming from you. You are not being federalized. We still believe in the community, and things are going to advance in this country exactly in proportion to the community effort.

For Rugged Communities.

"This is not regimentation—it is community rugged individualism. It means no longer the kind of rugged individualism that allows an individual to do this, that, or the other thing that will hurt his neighbors. He is forbidden to do that from now on—and it is a mighty good thing. But he is going to be encouraged in every way from the national capitol and the state capitol and the county seat to use that individualism in coöperating with his neighbor's individualism so that he and his neighbors may improve their lot in life.

"Yes, I have been thrilled by these three days—thrilled in the knowledge not only of practical accomplishment, but thrilled also in the belief—the deep seated belief on my part—that the people of this nation understand what we are trying to do, are coöperating with what we are trying to do, and have made up their minds that we are going to do it.

People to Bear Burden.

"And so, in saying 'good-by' to you for a short time—because I am coming back—I ask all of you, throughout the length and breadth of the Tennessee valley and those areas which form an economic portion of that valley—I ask you all to remember that the responsibility for success lies very largely with you—confident that you are going to give to the nation an example which will be a benefit not only to yourselves but to the whole one hundred and thirty millions of Americans in every part of the land."

BARE PROPOSAL FOR U. S. RADIO STATION CHAIN

Official of TVA Presents Plan to Commission.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Arthur E. Morgan, chairman of the Tennessee Valley authority, recently announced that the TVA had not urged or favored governmental administration of radio stations. His statement followed widespread protests against the testimony of Floyd W. Reeves, director of personnel for the TVA, before the federal communications commission, testimony which Dr. Morgan says was "misinterpreted."

The text of Mr. Reeves' testimony has now become public, and it discloses that his opening remarks were these: "In the few specific recommendations that I shall make I am representing the Tennessee Valley authority."

List of Recommendations.

Mr. Reeves' "specific recommendations" were as follows:

"[1] That the United States government own and operate a national system of radio stations, giving full time coverage over the entire country through suitable allocation of frequencies;

"[2] That these frequencies be allocated with a view to as little disruption of present commercial broadcast facilities as possible;

"[3] That the mechanical operation be financed by the federal government;

"[4] That the control of programs be under the direction of a committee representing the foremost nonprofit national educational and cultural agencies, these agencies to be designated by the President of the United States;

"[5] That these facilities be available to nonprofit organizations, including governmental departments, for educational and cultural programs."

Speeches Would Be Free.

Under the last recommendation of Mr. Reeves the speeches of all cabinet officers and agents of all departments of the government obviously could be broadcast at will, over the government radio at the public expense, regardless of the political or propagandistic nature of the addresses. The public utterances of the major figures of government are now broadcast, free of charge, by the national chains of the commercial companies, but this is entirely discretionary with the companies.

"Those opposed to plans of this type," Mr. Reeves testified, "have argued that educational and cultural agencies, such as universities, have not found it possible to produce programs of a type such that large numbers of people enjoy listening to them. In a measure this has been true, but it in no way condemns the plan proposed.

"There never has been a real opportunity to develop such programs. An organization nation-wide in scope is necessary to develop such programs in order to have available always the best talent. Furthermore, supervision and administration of the type suggested will make it possible to utilize some of the best talent that has been developed in commercial radio, as well as the best talent from other sources."

HUEY LONG TO RUN FOR PRESIDENCY ON THIRD PARTY IN 1936

Baton Rouge, La., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Huey Long plans to run for the presidency in 1936 on a third party ticket.

The senator from Louisiana regards himself as the "kind of a president this country needs," and hopes to sweep himself into the White House on an anti-Roosevelt platform.

He hopes to perfect a model government in his native state that he can take before the nation as an example of what he would do with the national administration.

He does not give serious consideration to the probability of the Republicans returning to power in 1936.

Long's political play is to the young voter.

"I don't care nothing about the old fogies and mossbacks," he said. "I am for the plain, honest thinking man and the generations that are coming."

DENIES CHICAGO GANG IS RUNNING NEW YORK STRIKE

Published reports that Chicago gangsters and racketeers have taken over the New York union of elevator operators and ordered a strike called there this morning are absolutely unfounded, according to Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan. He advised New York authorities of this fact last week, it was learned yesterday. The New York police sent him a list of "ten Chicago gangsters" alleged to have taken over the union.

Examination of records at the bureau of identification disclosed that none of the men had Chicago records, Chief Sullivan said. The heads of all squads operating from the detective bureau, as well as district station captains, were questioned, but no one had ever heard of the men, either as gangsters or racketeers, or in any capacity.

"As for the statement that the men are headed by a former Capone henchman," declared Chief Sullivan, "I haven't the slightest idea who he might be. At any rate, New York has enough gangsters for such activities without calling in Chicago men."

POLICEMAN ERRS BEFORE MIKADO; TRIES HARA-KIRI

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Nov. 18.—Disgraced and ruined, Police Inspector Shigehei Honda, 42 years old, turned today to hara-kiri, Japan's atonement for abject humiliation.

The inspector's sin had brought consternation in the nation's highest circles. It precipitated a government investigation and may cause a cabinet crisis.

Emperor Hirohita, who was touring Gunma prefecture, arrived with great ceremony at Kiryu, center of the silk industry. His visit was to be a gala event. Cheering thousands lined the streets. The route of the emperor's tour, laid out to bring him to Nishi technical college, where he was to receive Minister of Education Matsuda, was carefully planned.

But fate was not kind to the inspector, and at a street intersection he took the wrong turn. In his car he led the royal procession through streets in which the guard was not considered adequate. Although nothing happened, the schedule was disrupted and Emperor Hirohita arrived too soon at Nishi college. Minister Matsuda, not expecting his ruler so early, was resting. The minister also was not properly dressed to be received by the mikado. Hirohita had to wait twenty minutes.

Inspector Honda, bowed with grief, went home.

He donned his dress uniform, seated himself before the family shrine, and slashed his throat. At a hospital physicians tonight said the inspector may recover.

Home Minister Fumio Toto, charged with responsibility for all police matters, intends to resign, it is reported. He and Premier Admiral Keisuki Okada conferred this afternoon and will name a committee, headed by the privy councillor to consider punishment for those responsible.

WALLACE EASES CORN-HOG LIMIT FOR NEXT YEAR

Farm Benefits to Reach About 150 Millions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—A sharply reduced corn-hog production control program for 1935 was announced today by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

Compared with the production control plan in effect this year, the 1935 program shows a curtailment in every detail. Corn acreage is to be cut only 10 per cent next year as against 20 per cent this year. Hog production will be cut 10 instead of 25 per cent.

Plan Lower Benefits.

Farmers will be paid only 150 or 165 million dollars in corn-hog benefit payments next year, compared with approximately 306 millions this year. This reduction results from the curtailment in the program. The corn and hog processing taxes, however, will continue at their present rates.

A 1935 corn crop of roughly 2 billion 357 million bushels is probable under the reduction ordered by the AAA. The AAA plan calls for raising both corn and hog production to 90 per cent of the 1932-'33 average production.

The corn-hog program brought one drastic innovation in AAA control practices in that it stipulated that acreage retired from corn production may be used for other crops. In the past acreage retired by the AAA had to be left idle.

AAA officials expect the 1935 program to bring one of the first real tests of the crop curtailment theory. Farmers, attracted by high prices, may refuse to sign the AAA contracts.

AAA Explains Plans.

In its official announcement the AAA explained its plans for benefit payments next year as follows: in part:

"If producer participation in the 1935 program is about the same as in 1934, the total adjustment payments are expected to run between 150 million and 165 million dollars.

"For complying with the hog adjustment provisions of the new contract, the participating producer will receive a hog adjustment payment of $15 per head on the number of hogs represented by the 10 per cent adjustment.

Same Rate of Payment.

"In terms of the adjustment itself, the 1935 hog payment rate is the same as during the last year. In 1934, contracting producers received $5 per head on 75 per cent of the two year base; this was the equivalent of $15 per head on the 25 per cent of the adjustment.

"The corn adjustment payment will be made at the rate of 35 cents per bushel of yield estimated for the number of acres by which the corn land area is kept below the 1932-1933 average."

CHARGE BOLIVIA AND PARAGUAY BROKE COVENANT

League Chaco Report Hints at Penalties.

GENEVA, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Paraguay and Bolivia were informed today in the report of the league of nations' Chaco consultative committee that by engaging in war they have broken the covenant of the league.

The report hinted without actually saying so that the league may be forced to impose penalties on the warring South American nations. By laying down their arms and accepting the committee's peace plan, it was intimated, this possibility could be averted.

The committee's carefully prepared report was published as news came from the Chaco boreal that Paraguay had won sweeping victories by the capture of Bolivia's long coveted Fort Ballivian.

League Assembly to Meet.

Referring to a breach of the covenant through resorting to warfare, the report said the league assembly [which is to meet Tuesday in special session to consider the Chaco war] was asked to record its hope that the belligerents would accept its recommendations.

A solemnly couched warning was addressed to the belligerents in the preamble of the section which provided for creation of an advisory commission to follow the execution of the recommendations.

The text agreed to by the Chaco committee for submission to the special assembly provided first for cessation of hostilities and measures of security, and placed particular emphasis on the desirability of obtaining the coöperation of the United States and Brazil.

In connection with cessation of hostilities a neutral commission is to be set up consisting of six members.

Provides Neutral Zone.

The commission is to determine what measures will be taken to insure and maintain cessation of hostilities in accordance with certain rules. Paraguay and Bolivia would order their troops to cease all hostilities within a period of six days from the date on which the secretary-general of the league notifies them that the recommendations of the assembly have been accepted by both parties.

Within ten days from the cessation of hostilities the two armies facing one another would bring their advance lines back toward the main bodies for at least fifty kilometers from the front and so create a neutral zone at least 100 kilemeters [62 miles] in width.

Morton Downey and Wife Are Parents of Daughter

New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—A six pound daughter was born today to Morton Downey, the singer, and his wife, the former Barbara Bennett. Mother and child were reported as doing well. Mrs. Downey is the sister of Constance and Joan Bennett, actresses, and the daughter of Richard Bennett, actor. The Downeys have two older children, Michael, 4, and Sean, 2. The baby will be named Lorelle Ann.

12,000 BRITISH FARMERS REVOLT AGAINST TITHE

Fight Bailifs Trying to Seize Property.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 18.—More than 12,000 British farmers have pledged themselves to disobey the law which requires them to pay tithe—a special charge levied on farmers and landowners, the proceeds of which go mainly to support the clergy of the Church of England.

Thousands of warants for distraint on agricultural stock, implements, furniture and other possessions of farmers have been issued during the last few months. Not one in ten can be executed.

Bailifs Work Overtime.

In East Anglia, for instance, nearly 1,500 "tithe orders" have been issued. Court bailifs are working overtime, and judges are refusing to issue further orders against farmers until those already existing have been carried out. Violent measures on both sides are the rule. Midnight raids by bailifs to carry off cattle, sheep, and farm implements are combated by hosts of infuriated farmers and workers armed with sticks and guns.

Trenches are being dug across farm approaches. Barricades are being thrown up, and gates are being buttressed by three trunks. On several farms wire fences have been electrified.

When New college, Oxford, recently sent lorries to seize the goods of ten farmers they were intercepted by farmers' autos. The cars blocked the roads to the farms and the bailifs were forced to return to Oxford.

Usually only after fierce struggles are seizures made. Forty policemen were needed recently to seize three bullocks.

Goods Up for Auction.

The distrained goods are usually put up for auction, and often such a sale is merely a farce. At an auction sale in the home counties sheep were bought by the farmers' friends at 2 cents each, haystacks at 35 cents apiece, and $2,000 worth of furniture went for $7. At another sale the goods were knocked down to an unknown bidder. The auctioneer was saved from the fury of the crowd by the police.

The revolt has become so serious and widespread that a royal commission was appointed to inquire into the question of tithe payments.

Tithe simply means a tenth. The rule that a tenth part of every man's possessions should be dedicated to sacred uses was part of early Jewish law. It was not enforced as an obligation by the early English Christian church, which depended on the free-will offerings of the people. But by the end of the fourth century the custom of tithe giving was firmly established as a religious duty.

Failure to observe it was punished by excommunication.

As time went on every one but the farmer managed to get out of this tribute by the simple process of refusing to pay. When Henry VIII. pillaged the monasteries at the "dissolution" he transferred the privileges of tithe owning to his friends. That is why today there are many lay tithe owners as well as ecclesiastical ones.

Silver Cargo Found Safe; Delayed by Motor Trouble

Ossining, N. Y., Nov. 18—(AP)—Motor trouble, not hijackers, was responsible for the disappearance of a ten ton truck transporting 19,000 pounds of silver sludge from Rochester, N. Y., to Irvington, N. J., it was learned today. Police found the truck stalled here, its load intact. The value of the sludge was estimated to be between $10,000 and $20,000.

STOP THAT COLD
THE FIRST DAY!
A cold once rooted is a cold of danger! Trust to no makeshift methods. A cold, being an internal infection, calls for internal treatment. A cold also calls for a COLD remedy and not a preparation good for a number of other things as well.
Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is what a cold requires. It is expressly a cold remedy. It is internal and direct—and it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, combats the cold germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and grippy feeling and tones and fortifies the entire system. Anything less than that is inviting trouble. Get Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine at any druggist, 35c and 50c. Ask for it by the full name and accept no substitute on any pretext.

PILES Relief at Last!
No more torture! Walk, sit and sleep in comfort. Go to the stool without dread. For Pazo Ointment absolutely puts an end to Pile suffering of all forms—Blind, Itching, Bleeding and Protruding!
Pazo does the three things necessary. (1) It soothes—relieves the soreness and inflammation. (2) It heals—repairs the torn tissue. (3) It absorbs—dries up the excess mucus and reduces the swollen blood vessels which are Piles.
The method of application makes Pazo doubly effective. Special Pile Pipe attached to tube permits application high up in rectum so all parts are thoroughly medicated. Thousands say Pazo saved them the need of a painful operation. Thousands say it is the only thing that ever gave them anything like real relief! AL TEARNEY, 'KING OF NIGHT CLUBS' IN DRY DAYS, DIES

Funeral for Sportsman to Be Tomorrow.

AL TEARNEY.

Al Tearney, once Chicago's chief night life impresario, is dead. His dusk to dawn activities during the prohibition era, in which he became a glamorous if notorious figure, earned him the title of "King of the Night Clubs." And his rule, through political pull, was regal, utterly disregarding most of the laws on the statute books in the conduct of his night clubs.

The death of Albert R. Tearney early yesterday as workaday folk strolled past his home at 5036 Drexel avenue on their way to church was the antithesis of his life. The man who had seen violent death in his cabarets and who had fought his way to wealth died of heart disease. He was 57 years old.

Prominent in Sports.

The colorful night club figure was prominent in many phases of sporting life. At one time he was president of the Three Eye Baseball league, and two decades ago he was city alderman from the second ward. It was while he was alderman that his only serious brush with the law occurred, aside from numerous padlockings of his cafés by the government.

After the city prosecutor refused to prosecute, complaints of citizens finally brought Tearney to trial. He was fined for selling drinks in his saloon at 336 East 35th street after the closing hour of 1 a. m.

The Steve Kelliher Shooting.

One of the most notorious cases with which he was associated was the shooting in 1923 of Steve Kelliher, president of the Chicago Theater Janitors' union, in Tearney's place on 35th street. The labor leader was shot to death by "Dapper Dan" McCarthy, business agent of the Plumbers' union. McCarthy, after Tearney and thirty other sporting figures testified, was exonerated by a coroner's jury.

Tearney's last venture was the starting of a night club at Wabash avenue and 7th street in 1932, shortly before the return of legal beer. Here again he ran into difficulties, and yesterday the state of his finances was still a mystery. Many of his friends believe he died wealthy.

Services will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow in St. Ambrose church, 47th street and Ellis avenue, with burial in Holy Sepulchre cemetery. Tearney is survived by his widow, a daughter, three sisters, and four brothers, one of whom is a professor in Louisiana State university at Eaton Rouge. His father was the late Judge Michael Tearney.

MOTHER'S DESIRE TO SEE SON PUTS HIM BEHIND BARS

An aged mother's wish to see her son, William Pabst, 33 years old, suspect in a $2,500 bank robbery at Cumberland, Ia., last spring, resulted in his capture and detention in a detective bureau cell last night. Iowa authorities had watched his mother, Clara, at her home in Council Bluffs, Ia., for months. Then Saturday she bought a bus ticket for Chicago. They trailed her, and with the aid of Patrick J. Coughlin of state's attorney's police, arrested Pabst in his home at 4922 Winthrop avenue, where he was living with his wife, Ella.

VILLAGERS' GUNS BLOCK SEIZURE OF WATER PLANT

Midlothians Rebel at PWA Prospect.

A water war broke out last night in Midlothian, and several members of the Midlothian Garden and Water association resorted to an armed defense of the power pump and well that supplies their homes with water against the efforts of the village authorities to take over the system.

The village trustees want to buy the water system for the nominal price of $1—to satisfy a condition set up by Secretary of the Interior Ickes for granting a Public Works administration loan of $40,000. With that sum the trustees plan to expand the village water system so as to supply the entire community.

County Police Avert Tronble.

An agreement to sell the Garden system to the village for $1 was reached at an alleged "rump" session of the association held on Saturday night. Acting on the agreement, Thomas Burnhardt, the village policeman, drove up to the well yesterday to replace the association's lock on the pumping plant with one belonging to the village.

He was met by a half dozen association members who had not attended the "rump" session and who were determined to block the transfer. Policeman Burnhardt wanted to palaver, but diplomatic negotiations were brought to a speedy end when Mrs. Tenelle Jage, secretary-treasurer of the association, told him to leave, resolutely backing up her demand with the display of a revolver. County highway police, who were called, averted trouble.

System Supplies 86 Families.

There are four separate water systems in Midlothian, one of which is owned by the village. The Garden association is a nonprofit association that supplies about 86 families in the Midlothian Garden subdivision.

Several reasons are cited by members of the association to explain their opposition to the sale, among them being the fact that Mrs. Ida Woerheidt and not the association owns the well that supplies the water.

More than 200 in Cast

Junior members of the National Council of Jewish Women and others in a cast of more than 200 will present a "Council Capers" revue for benefit purposes in the Auditorium theater, 56 East Congress street, at 8:30 p. m. Dec. 1. Proceeds will go toward aiding all the philanthropies of the organization, it was said yesterday at the headquarters, 185 North Wabash avenue.

NEGRO ESCAPES FURY OF 2 MOBS; DIES IN CHAIR

Huntsville, Tex., Nov. 19 [Monday]. —(AP)—Dallas White, Negro, who survived one suicide attempt and the fury of two mobs following the slaying Sept. 17 of Jesse Andress, Devers, Tex., farmer, was electrocuted at the state penitentiary here early today.

Angry men who twice sought to obtain custody of White at the Liberty jail were turned back by officers. He cut his throat, but recovered.

Genevieve Tobin, Actress, Recovers After Crash

Montecito, Cal., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Genevieve Tobin, 27, motion picture actress injured yesterday with her mother in an automobile accident, was reported in a favorable condition today. The car in which Miss Tobin was riding with her mother, Mrs. Genevieve Tobin, 50, skidded from the wet pavement and careened into a palm tree. Both women suffered fractured shoulder bones and bruises.

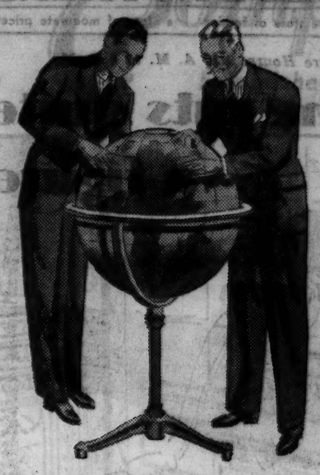
THE STORE FOR MEN



It's still a man's world at

THE STORE FOR MEN!

The Largest Men's Store in Chicago Exclusively for Men!

Yes, gentlemen, few are the things today that a man can really call his own.

For women have invaded practically every stronghold heretofore sacred to the male. They've gone into politics. They hit a golf ball with the accuracy of a Jones. They take their turn in the barber's chair. And the average man has the feeling he'd like to get away from it all—if he only knew where to go

To the great multitudes of men who yearn for the "good ol' days" we simply take this opportunity to remind them of a perfect haven of refuge—The Store for MEN!

Here you'll find no women's dress sections to confront you on your way to choose a suit. No hosiery and handbag displays to worry you as you select a half dozen new shirts and ties. No lingerie or fur departments to distract you while you're studying the fit of your overcoat. For while it is linked with the main store of Marshall Field & Company in scope and service The Store for Men is definitely "a separate store in a separate building" and there isn't a piece of women's merchandise on the whole six floors.

Actually, here under one roof, men of all ages can find anything they want from cuff links to canoes. They can browse around to their hearts' content and be served courteously by an intelligent, understanding male sales staff. They can order lunch in The Men's Grill—a dining room reserved exclusively for them. And while we appreciate the women—bless 'em—who shop for men, and are pleased at their allowing us to help them, we nevertheless are quite puffed up to be

14 MORE COUNTY TAX RATES FOR 1933 ANNOUNCED

Townships' Bills Will Be Lower than in '32.

Tax rates for 1933 for fourteen more Cook county townships, including two which lie within the city of Chicago and two others which take in sections of Chicago, were made public yesterday by County Clerk Sweitzer. The new rates reveal that the tax bills for governmental services rendered last year will be lower than those for 1932.

Property owners may determine their tax rates by adding to the basic rate of the township in which they live the other school, park, and bond district rates, depending on where they reside. An exception is River Forest township in which the rate of $6.46 is applicable to all property owners throughout the township.

How to Compute Bills.

In Jefferson and Rogers Park townships, lying within Chicago, a park district rate is added to the basic rate. In those parts of Stickney and Worth townships, which lie within Chicago, the taxpayer must add also the city and the school board rates to the basic rates.

Comparison of the basic rates for 1932 and 1933 for Jefferson and Rogers Park show a reduction of $1.22 in each of these two townships. The 1932 basic rate for Jefferson was $6.74, and for Rogers Park was the same. The basic rates for each for 1933 is $5.52.

Individual tax bills then can be computed after the whole tax rate is known by multiplying the assessed valuation of the taxpayer's property by the rate and then placing the decimal point two places to the left as the bills are calculated for each $100 of assessed value.

Rates by Townships.

HERE'S THAT FEDERAL 'HORSE SENSE' TEST; TRY IT ON YOURSELF

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—In the government's recent "horse sense" examination, which cost 900 treasury department employés their jobs, there was an "observation" test, consisting of a photograph of several men in a room. Its appearance contributed largely to the failure of 75 per cent of the employés, former members of the prohibition bureau, to pass the examination designed by the civil service commission.

[If you want to test your own "horse sense," turn immediately to the back page, study the "observation" picture for 5 minutes, and then spend no more than 30 minutes answering the following questions:]

Each examinee was given five minutes to study the picture and thirty minutes to answer these among 25 questions:

1. Name at least two items indicating the season of the year.
2. What articles of clothing, not being worn, are shown?
3. Do these articles of clothing appear to belong to the same man? Why?
4. How many pictures are shown on the walls of the room?
5. Which man wears the darkest colored suit?
6. Could the bareheaded man reach his hat from his position in the picture?
7. How many of the men are standing?
8. Which man is shown farthest from you?
9. Are there enough chairs for the group?
10. Which, if any, of the men presents a full face view?
11. Is the man wearing the stiff straw hat as near to the door as the man without a coat?
12. What electrical fixtures are shown?

Pipe tobacco made by the Wellman Process and Rough Cut as Granger is, does not clog the pipe but stays lit, smokes longer, slower and cooler.

We believe this process is the reason for Granger being milder.

We know it adds something to the flavor and aroma of the good, ripe White Burley Tobacco that cannot be obtained in any other way.

We wish, in some way, we could get every man who smokes a pipe to just try Granger.

WOMAN IS KILLED AS AUTO CRASHES INTO STREET CAR

3 Others Escape in Cicero; Toll Rises to 1,097.

Miss Marie Karnosky, 24 years old, 1316 South 49th avenue, Cicero, was killed early yesterday when an automobile in which she was riding with another girl and two youths crashed into a 52d avenue street car at Cermak road in Cicero.

Laddie Novak, 20 years old, 1901 Blue Island avenue, driver of the car; Bernard Good, 20 years old, 3112 55th court, Cicero, and Miss Angeline Panza, 21 years old, 1429 49th avenue, Cicero, Miss Karnosky's companions, were uninjured.

Novak told police he and Good had met the girls in a tavern at 1537 Madison street, and were driving them home when the crash occurred. His vision was obscured by rain, Novak said. He was held for the inquest.

Death Toll Reaches 1,098.

Miss Karnosky's death and four others brought the toll of trafic fatalities in Cook county this year to 1,098. The other victims:

Mrs. Anna Ptack, 25 years old, 2305 High street. Killed when an automobile in which she was riding skidded and crashed into an iron lamp post at Lincoln avenue and School street. Peter Schletter, 2310 High street, was seriously injured.

Dr. William Lyon, 46 years old, 7343 Madison street, Forest Park, a chiropractor. Died in Holy Chross hospital after being struck by an automobile at Western avenue and 58th street as he stepped from his car to aid another motorist whose car had struck a safety island. Edgard Buckland, 31 years old, 6616 Ingleside avenue, cab driver, also was struck by the same car, which was driven by Steve Brestic, 21 years old, 5204 South Richmond street. Brestic, and Steve Butler, 44 years old, 6015 South Halsted street, whose car had struck the safety island, were held.

James Shakelaris, 60 years old, 8157 South Chicago avenue, a chef. Died in the Jackson Park hospital of injuries suffered Nov. 3 when he was struck in front of his home by a car driven by Carl Sandstrom, 44 years old, 7015 South Michigan avenue.

Eric Danielson, 40 years old, 2800 Washington boulevard. Died in the Washington Boulevard hospital of injuries suffered earlier when he was hit by an automobile at Washington boulevard and California avenue. Michael Demilio, 23 years old, 844 North Lawndale avenue, driver of the car, was held.

George L. Sweeney, 45 years old, resident manager of the Hotel Wacker, 109 West Huron street, was killed yesterday when his automobile plunged through a guard rail on highway 41, three miles south of Richfield, Wis., and hurtled down an embankment.

Woman Killed in Joliet.

Miss Marcella McGrath, 47 years old, of 205 Bridge street, Joliet, was killed yesterday when she was struck by an automobile while crossing the street in front of St. John's Catholic church in Joliet on her way to attend early mass. A companion, Miss Barbara Grath, 68 years old, 511 North Hickory street, Joliet, received a skull fracture.

The driver of the car, Arthur Walker, 35 years old, 810 North Raynor avenue, told police rain and darkness prevented him from seeing the women.

FUGITIVE GETS ANOTHER OF HIS USUAL "BREAKS"

Peter Kacznarek, 32 years old, who escaped on Friday from the Bridewell, enjoyed the fortune which has systematically attended him in his efforts to elude punishment. He got more than a 24 hour start on the police, and even last night the detective bureau had received no official word of his unceremonious departure.

Kaczmarek, alias John Davies, alias Davis, squirmed through a ventilator shaft from the first to the fourth floor of the Bridewell Friday and fled across the roof. With him vanished Lewis E. Moury, 39 years old, 3111 South Halsted street, an ex-convict.

By breaking jail, jumping parole and manipulating court appeals, Kaczmarek has evaded or reduced many periods of incarceration, notably here and in California.

His latest disappearance became known to Bridewell officials at 6 p. m. Friday. By direction of Superintendent Joseph Carmody, routine "stop orders" against the records of Kaczmarek and Moury were filed in the detective bureau on Saturday, but no mention was made of the escape.

DEALERS PUSH FIGHT ON SALES TAX LAW TODAY

Meet as Legislature Reconvenes.

When the general assembly convenes in special session at 4 p. m. today in Springfield to consider extension of the 2 per cent retailers' occupational [sales] tax, the mercantile division of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce will be winding up its campaign in opposition to the present tax setup at a massmeeting of central Illinois merchants in the Inman hotel at Champaign.

J. T. Meek, director of the mercantile division, is scheduled to speak at the Champaign meeting. Meanwhile the legislative division of the merchant group, under the direction of O. L. Wilson, will be active at Springfield in efforts to convince the legislators that to reënact the tax in its present form would be unjust to retailers and unfair to consumers.

Explains Demands to Chamber.

"What we want," said Mr. Meek in a printed statement sent out yesterday, "is not centered in opposition to the tax as a tax, nor do we deny the need of some such tax at this time. Neither is our opposition political in any sense of the word.

"What we must do is defeat the reënactment of the present bill and carry on until a new bill can be presented containing two vitally important features.

"These features are provisions making it mandatory that the tax be passed on by every merchant and providing a way for merchants selling merchandise priced under 25 cents to collect the tax or its equivalent.

"Without such changes the mercantile interests of the state will be forced to retrench to the limit, will have to dismiss employés, curtail advertising and otherwise act like any business man who finds any semblance of profit taxed away in a law wherein the entire burden of taxpaying and collecting is thrust upon him.

Dislike Awaiting Amendments.

"We want to kill this bill and, if the administration wants it, see a new bill introduced in January equipped with the provisions so vitally necessary as outlined. We see no sense, and a deal of danger, in the blind reënactment of the present bill with only a suggestion of a promise that the amendments will come in January."

Joining the state commerce body in its program, according to Mr. Meek, will be independent merchants from all over the state and trade associations representing very nearly all of the 96,000 merchants in the state.

RUSH PAVEMENT REPAIRS IN LOOP BEFORE WINTER

Nearly 500 men were sent into the loop yesterday by the city bureau of streets to patch pavements before the winter weather prohibits further repair work. Nine gangs in all were busy in all sections of the loop in an effort to get the streets in condition in one day.

"We have to do the loop work on Sunday because of heavy trafic during the week," said Patrick J. Donovan, assistant superintendent of streets. "We made a survey of the work that was necessary, figured the number of men we needed to complete the job in one day and sent them all in early Sunday morning."

PROSPECTS.

Many Americans can hardly know what they are waiting for or even expecting. They are hoping for a way out but without knowing where to look for the door. If there were no planned society, people would hope for or even expect a natural business pick-up, trusting to the natural forces and the human ingenuity which in times gone by have taken up loose ends and woven them back into the ordered pattern.

With the planned society well on the way of administration and execution, the uncertain prospects offer three or four shadowy possibilities. One is that natural forces and human ingenuity will prevail in time in spite of the strange elements introduced by the New Deal. This hope would base itself on the thought that if men have not been able to prevent depressions and hard times they will not be able to prevent the recovery from them and the return to good times.

The New Dealers naturally include in the prospects a probability that the governmental procedures will start the recovery, step it up, and be responsible for the return of prosperous farming, reemployment, the return of purchasing power, and of profitable industry. This hope lacks foundation in experience. The planned society has been operating in most major provisions for nearly a year. It has either been in effect or it has been trying to get started. Although there are individuals who privately are better off because of it, the great obstacles to recovery have not been moved.

The planned society has as yet failed to function as its planners propose that it should and promised that it would, and, more than that, it is evident that it itself is an obstacle in the way of natural recovery. In the hopes of the planners the two would have joined. Instead of that, a natural antagonism has been revealed.

There remains among other prospects one which cannot be ignored until it has been escaped, and that is the creation of even worse conditions by persistence in government methods which work in reverse. The planned society is one thing beyond dispute. It is expensive. Pro and con, the accountants get different figures for the expenditures, Mr. Morgenthau always seeking the bright side, but the public debt has gone to nearly 28 billion dollars, including expenditures, authorizations, and anticipated uses, and the estimate for next year is that it will be 35 billions.

If this continues, it is playing money desperately against time. The point at which the public debt will become dangerous and threaten a procession of fresh misfortunes is not immeasurably beyond the peak anticipated for 1935. People who have had experience with wildcat currencies, which may be one consequence of impaired public credit, know that misfortune is a mild word to describe the economic results. Such currencies are the final liquidation of errors and follies. The generation which passes its troubles through that solvent is likely to be thoroughly chastened.

FOOTBALL REACHES THE EAST.

It would appear that the old conservative, restrained eastern universities, including Harvard or even led by Harvard, are about to go really collegiate in football. Yale, Princeton, and Harvard have made considerable of their ability to take their football or leave it. Western college rhapsodies were regarded as a bit on the juvenile side and the theatrical ceremonies and exalted antics of the game were considered not for the ancient institutions of higher learning. This, according to a writer for a Harvard student publication, is changing. He says that corn belt visitors to the Harvard stadium might be pardoned now for mistaking Harvard for Ohio State.

Many Harvard alumni would be gratified if the visitor could be pardoned for mistaking not the cheering sections but the team on the field for Ohio State. With less reason, but still with enough, the Yale alumni might rejoice to have the comparison made on the field rather than in the stands. Princeton started west last year and is about as successfully collegiate as Minnesota, a modification of the old academic reserve which has caused no end of joy to the partisans of the Tigers.

Earl Blaik, the Dartmouth coach, formerly of West Point, told the writer for the student publication, "We rated Harvard the best dressed outfit Army faced." O, Eddie Casey, this is too much! In spite of the last four Saturdays, the Harvard players do not rate that remark. Each Saturday afternoon they do their darndest and if it isn't quite good enough it's not the fault of the spirit. Whatever team their schedule presents, it always turns out to be Minnesota, and even Illinois would not want to face a succession of Minnesotas. And Harvard men would much prefer that Army would give their team an Illinois rather than a tailor rating.

This is mostly aside from the point which was raised in the beginning, which is that the old schools show definite evidence of being about to take the game for all that is in it, with all the undergraduate trappings and colors, salutes, and gang singing of loyalty songs. The alumni may catch the spirit and begin firing the coaches every Monday morning. Unquestionably it is a good thing not to take the great college sport too seriously, but human nature has its limits even in the oldest institutions of higher learning, and if Yale and Harvard get tired of being pushed around, as Princeton did, they also may find in a couple of years an astonishing number of very able prep school players appearing mysteriously in the freshman class and a year later as whirlwind sophomores on the varsity squad. Notice of this may be regarded as at least intimated.

The Doumergue government in France fell because the premier desired a change in the national constitution. He proposed to enlarge the powers of the presidency. The French president was not to become the administrative head of the government, but he was to be more like the American President and less like the British king.

The French parliament rejected the plan as it had done several times in the past and once within the last decade, during the Millerand presidency. M. Millerand, too, believed that the stability of the government required a stronger and more permanent executive than the shifting political balance had provided. Partly because of this attitude he was not permitted to finish his term. Oddly enough, it was M. Doumergue who succeeded him.

For the present, then, the French government will continue to have a president who, though elected by political partisans in the chamber and senate, is still expected to hold himself aloof from partisanship. The realization has not always exactly matched the expectation, but, by and large, the French president has held himself above the battle. This may be explained in part by the circumstance that his powers are too limited to permit him much partisan activity, but in part, also, by the fact that the tradition of the office is a restraining influence.

It is difficult to imagine what our government would be like if our Presidents stood aloof from party politics. Washington wanted it so, but his successors have taken no such exalted—or as some might say, unpractical—view of the office. They have, without exception, regarded themselves as party leaders, committed to a party program and to the continuation of the party in office.

There is no hint of party government in our constitution, and in theory, at least, the President has no party responsibilities. In fact, the processes of nomination and election place him under heavy obligations, with the result that, even in times of national emergency, the President draws his administrative subordinates pretty largely from within the ranks of his own supporters.

Though the practice is familiar and brings no serious protest, the ideal of aloofness which Washington held has never really disappeared. It remains as a goal, perhaps unattainable, but at least worth preserving if only to mitigate the worst abuses of partisanship in administration. Certainly the French have benefited from having at the head of their state a man who is freed from partisanship and can speak unhesitatingly in the name of the whole country.

A SURVEY OF PAROLES.

Gov. Horner has asked the Chicago crime commission to undertake a preliminary survey of the Illinois parole system with a view to subsequent deeper investigation. The commission is not prepared to carry the inquiry through, but can get it started and develop leads.

The parole system has its defenders who can see only its usefulness, but other citizens who observe the return of paroled criminals to criminal life think the defects must outweigh the benefits. To justify the system the faults must be removed.

Many times the parole system has been only one of the means by which the combination of crime and politics accomplishes its purposes. Illinois in the past has offered notorious instances in which unscrupulous politicians have bargained for the release of vicious and dangerous men from whom they got not only fees but political support, both derived from criminal activities.

When the parole authorities are conscientious these evils are kept in check and the social injuries are largely due to honest mistakes in judgment. When men of low political morals are in authority the social damage done is intentional.

No law will be much better than the men administering it. That is particularly true of a law which permits the use of official judgment and discretion, as in the end almost any parole law must, but a survey of the working of the Illinois provisions and practices would be one of the useful things the state government can undertake.

Editorial of the Day

CITY MANAGERS.

[Grand Rapids Press.]

While the stamps of approval were being placed so liberally on men and issues Nov. 6, the city manager form of government came in for its share. Toledo, with its 290,000 population, adopted this type of local government by popular ballot, as did Schenectady, a city of 95,000. Also added to the growing list of 427 cities under city managers was the new adaptation of this administration to counties. Douglas county, Nebraska, in which the city of Omaha is located, voted to apply the county manager form to the 233,000 within the area and thus became the seventh county to join the list of the experimenters.

These cities, of course, are all trying the city manager-council type for the first time. Toledo, having flirted with the idea in 1928 and 1931 and turned down the proposed charters both times, finally took to heart the experience of those cities which had embraced it and decided to place itself under a city manager. Perhaps most significant, then, is the vote of those cities, previously under city managers, which put it up to their citizens whether to keep the city manager-council arrangement. Two Rivers and Kenosha, Wis., and Burbank, Cal., were the three communities with experience in the workings of the managership to whom the question was put. And in the three towns the vote was unmistakably in favor of retaining their present governments.

The vitality of the movement is refreshing to those who realize the inherent values of the city manager-commission or council type as opposed to the old aldermanic and mayor form of city government. Politics admittedly has not been weeded out of the new form, nor have all its weaknesses been corrected. Yet, as so many voters agreed at the last election, the fact remains that it is a logical development of the attempt to place our city governments upon a business basis.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE PRESIDENT'S THANKSGIVING proclamation says we should all work for "the betterment of mankind." This is disturbing—especially to our Pollyannas. Isn't this already the best of all possible worlds? People who have stood right up in meeting and said they didn't believe it was have been sharply rapped on the knuckles. Not me, of course. I have always held very firmly to the idea that this was the best of all possible worlds. Not a thing wrong, not a thing. Only I wish those speed demons would quit weaving circles around me in traffic and denting up my nice shiny fenders. Not that I'm finding fault, understand me. But maybe that's what is meant by "the betterment of mankind." If those weavers-in-and-out would go jump in the lake mankind would be much bettered. However, again I want to say that it's the best of all possible worlds. Yet I might add that people who butt in when I am making a cocktail and tell me how to do it right do give me a fearful pain in the neck. Yet, however, and still, this is the best of all possible worlds.

SOUVENIR.

The place was beautiful, and we were young.
I shall remember that when you are past
Remembering, when patient birds have sung
For you their sweetest aubade and their last.
You will recall, I think, the linen suit,
And arty restaurants where grimy spoon
Met greasy cup and seeds from ancient fruit
Clung cheerfully where former feasts were strewn.
O thane of bitter wisdom! You'll make end
Of thinking with those thoughts, and you'll be wise;
But I—being the weaker, and a fool—will send
My heart along that road where suns still rise
Above white dunes that never must be told
How two who loved them once are now grown old.

MARIAN SHUMAN.

THE GREAT SUCCESS of Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream" in its many revivals lately has stimulated a lot of the Holywood producers to instruct their English agents to hire that fellow Shakespeare at any price and set him to writing scenarios and continuities for the movies right away.

AND ALL THE ROYALTIES that the author of "Midsummer Night's Dream" must be pulling down will undoubtedly cause a lot of interest to be taken in him by the income tax bureau. Mr. Shakespeare is going to find himself in wrong with the government if he doesn't appear and tell how much money he's made out of that play. He'd better be careful, had Mr. Shakespeare. Look what happened to Al Capone! Bill, I'm telling you!

AND JUST AS IN southern California whenever there is a lull in conversation somebody brightens up and says, "Well, let's talk about the climate," so when there is any opportunity at all we ring in something about the Linebook of 1934. This seems a good chance, but, after all, we don't want to say anything about it, because the limited edition this year will probably be exhausted in a few short days, anyhow. So on second thought we'll not say a word this morning about the new Linebook which bursts out on Friday, Dec. 7. No, not a single world. Not even that advance orders should be placed with the Tribune Public Service office at No. 1 South Dearborn street, Chicago, Ill., and that it will cost, as usual, ten cents, one dime, the tenth part of a dollar, when purchased on the hoof, or two cents extra by mail in town and three cents extra when sent by post out of town. But we will not mention that matter now.

A SMALL BOY IN RUSSIA was taken out of a freight car nearly starved to death, yet the car was filled with caviar. A small American boy would starve, too, if he was left alone imprisoned in a freight car full of spinach.

A LADY IN PENNSYLVANIA is advertising for some gentleman to step forward and pay for a divorce from her present husband. Which, after all, brings to mind the great truth that while a divorce seems about as simple a matter as eating a hot dog sandwich and almost as general, at the same time it does cost money. But science is performing new wonders every day. Wait for the automatic nickel-in-the-slot machine, where all you have to do is to drop a coin and take out a divorce decree. Let us take united action at once. Write to your congressman today!

AFTER CAREFULLY FOLLOWING the evidence in the case, I have finally arrived at the conclusion that Insull securities were a perfectly good buy at the time, but that I wouldn't care to purchase any of them today, even by the bushel or in car lots.

GATES OF LUTHANY.

(For Francis Thompson.)

What matter that you scribbled verses on
Torn bits of salvaged paper in the dawn—

When bulging from the pocket of your coat
Was Homer, Blake. When the bright sun would float
An oriflamme above, then quite alone
As you lay curved upon a bench of stone
You reached into the place above your breast
For Eschylus the Greek, and then confessed,
The Hound would come, the Heaven-calling Hound
To free the "pillared battlements" you found.

What matter that you scribbled verses on

That Calvaried day when the great museum door
Closed on the plowed rock of your poverty,
You trod the royal region Elenore,
And found your way to Gates of Luthany.

What matter that you scribbled verses on

RACHEL MACK WILSON.

AH, AND NOW, NOW, NOW for the last lingering line. A soft line, soft and squashie. Squilly squashie. Squilling squashie through the nightie. Nightie night. Oh, Gertrude Stein, Stein, Stein, you've got me that way, that way, that way, too, too, too.

How to Keep Well By Dr. Irving S. Cutter

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Cutter will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual disease.

BLADDER INFLAMMATION.

DURING the eighteenth century probably no single disease condition attracted the attention of physicians to a greater extent than inflammation of the bladder. In many cases the cause was stone or gravel setting up inflammation and obstructing the outflow of urine. Benjamin Franklin, in writing to his friend George Whatley, said: "I must agree with you that the gout is bad and that the stone is worse." In that century the surgeon who could open the bladder and remove stony concretions had reached the height of his profession. A famous operation in early American surgery was performed by Philip Syng Physick upon Chief Justice Marshall for the relief of bladder disease. The bladder was opened successfully and numerous stones removed.

In acute attacks of inflammation of the bladder the urine is passed in small quantities, sometimes as frequently as every quarter or half hour. Unless there is rather prompt relief the symptoms may increase in severity and, in some cases, a small quantity of blood will appear. The urine usually appears cloudy and often shows the presence of bacteria and pus.

In addition to stone and gravel, cystitis may be caused by invasion of the bladder lining by the colon bacillus. This organism, a regular inhabitant of the intestine, appears in about 80 per cent of all cases. Other bacteria, especially from an infected kidney, may be found. Sometimes a tumor is responsible. Now and then it is brought on by some disease of the central nervous system.

The condition may appear in patients whose bladders have been entirely normal prior to the onset of infection. Other instances of infection occur in those patients who may have noticed a partial obstruction to the outflow of urine and who are never able to empty the bladder completely; a small lake of urine called residual always remaining in the dependent portion of the structure.

Patients with cystitis should be kept in bed and encouraged to drink large quantities of water or milk. The diet should be modified so as to exclude condiments, seasoning, and alcohol.

Much of the general management will depend upon whether the urine is excessively acid or alkaline. If the urine is highly acid, alkalis are indicated in sufficient quantity to convert the reaction from acid to alkaline and to maintain it in that condition.

If the urine is strongly alkaline, acid forming substances must be used. For this purpose sodium phosphate, sodium benzoate, or ammonium chloride may be given. In an earlier article the ketogenic diet was mentioned as a means of rendering the urine acid. This consists in reducing the amount of carbohydrates and greatly increasing the amount of fat in the diet. If the diet alone is not sufficient one of the drugs noted above may be added.

Under appropriate treatment pain and frequency usually subside quickly. If bacteria and pus continue to be present, however, the physician may find it necessary to irrigate the bladder with some mild antiseptic. There are also a few drugs that may be taken by mouth that have a tendency to render the urine sterile. Occasionally cystitis becomes chronic. The urine in these cases usually contains considerable pus and the patient complains of a certain amount of discomfort, although the acute pain may have entirely disappeared.

The bladder is exceedingly sensitive to too much acid or too much alkali. The sensitivity is greater in the presence of excessive alkali. Fortunately most cases of cystitis are simply and easily remedied by restoring the acid-alkali balance in the urine. Furthermore, changing the reaction of the urine may retard or stop the growth of irritating bacteria. If changing the reaction of the urine does not relieve the condition search for the cause must be made, as pus in the urine usually means disease in some part of the body other than the bladder.

LUNGS AND GAS.

C. G. writes: I am an arrested tuberculosis case. I live on a main thoroughfare. Would the gas fumes coming in the window have any ill effect on my lungs?

REPLY.

Probably not. Dust particles, however, should be avoided.

BRIGHT SCARS.

H. M. J. writes: I have a scar on my face that is always bright red. Is there any method by which the redness could be removed?

REPLY.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

NOT A CITIZEN.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—[Friend of the People.]—I came from Ireland in July, 1923, at the age of 18 years and married an American citizen in July, 1926. 1. Did I become a citizen by marrying one? 2. If not would you please tell me how to go about it and how much it costs?

E. N.

1. No: an alien woman marrying a citizen of the United States on or after Sept. 22, 1922, does not gain citizenship by virtue of such marriage.

2. The writer, being married to a citizen, may apply for naturalization without a declaration of intention (first paper). A preliminary application blank may be obtained at this office, room 718, new postoffice building. The cost will be $2.50 for a certificate of arrival and $5 to file a petition for citizenship. FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT.

District Director Immigration and Naturalization, Chicago District.

LIABILITY UNDER LEASE.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My husband, the signer of our lease, died six months before the lease expired. Can I, the widow, be held to this lease? A. B.

No, if you move out. Yes, if you stay in. But in either event the rent would be a valid claim against your husband's estate.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

TELEPHONE REFUND.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Could you furnish us with information regarding our old telephone numbers and exchanges? We have had a telephone for over twenty years and during that period have moved several times. Would appreciate any help you can offer telling us how we can find our old telephone numbers. M. J. S.

If your question arises in connection with the refund to coin box subscribers, all that would be necessary would be for you to send your present and past address to the telephone company. If your question arises on other facts, please send us those facts.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

REPORT TO POLICE.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—About a year ago I purchased a revolver from a customer in my store who needed money. I never carry this gun around, but keep it in my store and living rooms for protection. The other day a friend was looking at it and noticed that the number had been filed out. He told me I was liable to prison sentence for having this gun. What shall I do? H. J. F.

Take up the matter with the office of the chief of police in the city hall.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BERLIN.—When the Nazi party celebrated the anniversary of Adolf Hitler's ill fated "beer hall putsch" on Nov. 9 a woman was among those honored. Small, energetic, she is known throughout Nazi ranks as "Sister Pia." Her real name is unknown to the thousands who admire her. She is the only woman wearing the blood decoration of the Storm Troopers. It is awarded to Nazis injured while engaged in battle for the party cause.

Sister Pia was one of the first to join the Nazis. She hated the republic and in the early years after the revolution she spent her time trying to organize the Nationalists into the "Schutz und Trutzbund."

She was an eager canvasser. Riding on a street car in Munich, she buttonholed two men and tried to get them to join the movement. They asked her to attend a meeting which they believed would be still more interesting to her. One of the men was Hitler. She attended the rally.

To aid Hitler's movement she tramped the streets and put up posters behind the backs of the republican police.

She broke up communist meetings by heckling the orators. At one meeting Sister Pia was arrested. She had joined volunteers who fought against communists in Munich and was injured in a clash.

The judges, who hated the Reds as bitterly as she did, acquitted the injured woman.

Then she joined one of the free corps which were battling far upper Silesia against the Poles. Again she was wounded in a clash and the republic decorated her with the Cross of Courage. Later she organized first aid stations for Hitler's followers who were injured in street fights or in Munich's beer halls where political discussions were held.

She followed Hitler wherever he went. She marched with him and Hermann Wilhelm Goering through the Residenzstrasse in the Munich putsch. Bullets stopped them.

It is to the ministrations of Sister Pia that many Nazi leaders owe their recovery from injuries suffered in this battle.

The DEBUNKER

Stories that wheat found with Egyptian mummies has been planted and grown after thousands of years of entombment are unscientific. Innumerable attempts by scientific men to make mummy wheat sprout and grow have all failed, and there is not a single case of such growth that has ever been authenticated.

THE BUCKWHEAT PROBLEM SOLVED.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—I have noted the cry of distress from L. J. K. in today's Voice of the People. I sympathize deeply with him because I, too, have made an exhaustive study of the buckwheat cake of commerce and know what a snare and delusion it is.

In the fall of every year after the first freeze-up my thoughts invariably turn toward buckwheat pancakes, country sausage, and maple sirup. The kind of cakes we used to have at home. The batter was started with yeast in a stone jar and allowed to rise over night. What was left after breakfast furnished the basis for the cakes of the following morning, and what cakes remained were put back in the jar to dissolve in the new batch of batter. Those cakes were of a golden brown color; they were full of holes which formed a lacy pattern and which served to hold the melted butter and sirup as though they were put there for that very purpose.

L. J. K. will have to accept it as a fact that money cannot buy a real buckwheat pancake. The only way he can participate in an actual buckwheat pancake breakfast is to make the pancakes himself, and here is just exactly how he can do it:

First, he must purchase some fresh buckwheat flour—the kind that is ground between stones. (It's too bad that they don't advertise it.) Next he must take one cake of yeast (not the concentrated kind), a cake of dry yeast that looks as though it were made of cornmeal. L. J. K. probably will know the brand I mean. In the morning dissolve the yeast in just enough warm water to cover it. After it is dissolved put one cup of buckwheat flour mixed with one-quarter cup of wheat flour in a one gallon stone jar. Pour the dissolved yeast into it to make a thick batter. Set the jar in a place where the temperature is about 70 degrees, and let it remain there until just before going to bed that night. At this time add another cup of buckwheat flour and one-quarter cup of wheat flour, thinning it down with more warm water to a consistency a little thicker than he would use for baking cakes. Set the jar some place in the kitchen where it will not get too cold at night, preferably near but not on a radiator, and let it rise until morning.

While the griddle is getting hot thin down the batter to a rather thin consistency with buttermilk and place in a cup one-quarter teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of sugar, and one-half teaspoon of soda. Put just enough water on this to dissolve it and turn the mixture into the batter jar and stir vigorously with a long handled spoon for at least two minutes. After L. J. K. has lubricated the griddle with a piece of bacon rind he should be able to proceed in the construction of his buckwheats without further instruction. I might give one word of caution, however. He should not turn his cakes until little holes begin to appear around the outside edges. Now, if L. J. K. can procure some real country sausage and some thick maple sirup, or, if he prefers, sorghum, there is no reason in the world for his writing to Gertrude Stein.

After breakfast he should set the batter jar in a cold place until he wants to have pancakes again, at which time he can add more flour and follow the original process. He will find that as the batter ripens the flavor of his cakes will improve.

ONE OF THE TEN MILLION.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—I am the composite of ten million men and women past 40 who have lost all or part of their savings in the financial shell game of the frenzied twenties or in wrecked banks.

During my lifetime I have adhered to Franklin's philosophy of frugality, seeking to fortify contentment during my declining years.

Relegated to the ranks of this vast army of forgotten men and women, I am denied the privilege of earning a living by an unwritten age limit arbitrarily fixed at 40 by big business and industry.

While the New Deal has made ample provision for vigorous youth under 25 or 30 through the CCC and other alphabetical ventures, I am threatened with further distress by the probability of flat currency in final settlement of my maturing endowment policy. All this because I, Peter, am systematically and continually robbed to pay Paul, the chosen beneficiary of astounding federal extravagance.

The excuse is that unemployed youth may become dangerously militant and that it must be bribed to tranquility with sops gushed into the paternal trough through ever expanding channels.

On the other hand, "these old guys are helpless, pensive, and diffident. Ignore them or apply the Osler formula."

Have you the backbone to resist this assumption on the part of constituted authority? It will require the emphatic protest of ten million to correct this unjust discrimination.

Let it be done unanimously and at once.

COOKING SCHOOL OPENS ON NORTH SIDE TOMORROW

Galaxy of Entertaining Stars to Appear.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

The fourth annual Tribune cooking school will enter into its final week tomorrow in the Aragon ballroom, 1100 Lawrence avenue. Approximately 20,000 north side homemakers are expected to attend the four day sessions, bringing the attendance for the entire school to nearly 60,000 persons.

Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, home economics expert, will prepare on the stage her original recipes and will be introduced daily by Mary Meade, TRIBUNE cooking editor. Preceding the cooking lectures and again during the intermissions stars of radio, the stage and other entertainment fields, including many performers from THE TRIBUNE'S station, W-G-N, as well as members of THE TRIBUNE staf of women writers, will make personal appearances.

Many Stars on Program.

Phil Maxwell, master of ceremonies, yesterday announced the week's bill of entertainment. Tomorrow's program will start with community singing led by Carl Craven, with Leon Benditzky at the piano. John Burdette, Negro baritone, and his Cotton Pickers; George Olsen and Ethel Shutta and their vocal trio from the College Inn, Hotel Sherman; Bob Forsans, W-G-N tenor, and Robert Burns, baritone, and Pat Kennedy, tenor, will make special cooking school appearances. The Betty Jones School of Dancing will present several exhibition numbers, and Capt. Time Healy of the Ivory Stamp Club of the Air will speak.

Brief talks will be made by Rhea Seeger, TRIBUNE fashion editor, and India Moffett, society editor.

Sophie Tucker a Headliner.

On Wednesday Sophie Tucker, vaudeville star, will be a headliner. George Carlson will lead community singing, with Cathryne Bennett at the piano. From W-G-N will come the cast of the "Painted Dreams" drama and Ed Smith, announcer. Singers will include Ralph N. Sappe, tenor, north side winner in the 1934 Chicagoland Music festival; Kenneth Stevens, tenor, and Grace Holvershied, soprano. The Murray Browne dancers will perform and talks will be given by Eleanor Nangle and Bernice Cranston of THE TRIBUNE staf.

Quin Ryan, announcer and manager of W-G-N, will appear on the program Thursday. Other unusual entertainment providers will be members of the Dixiana Show Boat Players, Berenice Taylor, W-G-N soprano, and Mark Love, basso; Arthur Perrow Jr., baritone with the Chicago Grand Opera company; Edith Weigle, and Muriel Stafford of THE TRIBUNE staf.

On the final day Ted Lewis, vaudeville entertainer and famous band leader, will visit the school. Joe Rardin, radio's "one-man band"; Sara Corinne Mason, best woman singer in the 1934 Chicagoland Music festival, Lawrence Salerno, W-G-N baritone, and Capt. Tim Healy will make appearances.

Women writers from THE TRIBUNE will be Kathleen McLaughlin, woman's editor, and Irene Steyskal. Pupils of the Gladys Hight School of Dancing will appear. Hugh Dickerson, with Allan Grant at the piano, will lead the singing.

News of The Tribune Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

Correcting Alkilinity.

November 18, 1934.

THERE seems to be no end to the tests that can be made with live stock, field crops, flowers, vegetables, trees, and other animals and plants that are produced on THE TRIBUNE'S experimental farms, one at Yorkville and the other at Wheaton. Testing appears to be catching on both farms. Today John Wallner, head gardener at the Wheaton farm, entered the experimental field by launching a test to see what can be done about a diseased condition, known by technical horticulturists as chlorosis.

Three years ago Mr. Wallner noticed that two white oak shade trees on the lawn were affected by this disease. It causes the leaves to lose between the veins their dark green color, turning a pale yellow. The veins remain green. Apparently the trouble was aggravated this summer during the dry weather. It also recently showed up on certain varieties of chrysanthemums growing in the greenhouse.

Mr. Wallner believes the discoloration of the foliage on the trees is due to the use of water from an artesian well, which causes the soil around the roots of the trees to give an alkiline reaction. Oaks, he says, require an acid soil.

He also finds the same condition on some of the chrysanthemum plants that have been watered exclusively from the artesian well.

"My problem is to keep the soils acids around the trees and the chrysanthemums," said Mr. Wallner "There are various ways of doing it but I will make my tests by working into the soil some wood shavings and some manure taken from the dairy barn where the cows are bedded. The shavings will help to make the soil acid. I may also use a solution of aluminum or ammonium sulphate. I will apply these materials all around the oaks from the trunks out as far as the tips of the branches spread."

In one test in the greenhouse Mr. Wallner will use peat moss around the chrysanthemum plants to make the soil acid. In a second test with the chrysanthemums he will use aluminum or ammonium sulphate.

A large old buroak about 100 yards away from the white oaks apparently is not affected by chlorosis. Mr. Wallner thinks this is due to the use of a rich soil brought in from the timber. This, he believes, has kept the soil acid. Then, too, much less water from the artesian well has been used around the buroak than has been soaked into the ground around the white oaks.

The white oaks suffered more this year than in previous seasons and Mr. Wallner attributes this to the fact that an unusual amount of artesian water was used on the lawn around the trees during the drouth, resulting in an increase in alkalinity of the soil.

GASPARRI, PAPAL SECRETARY FOR 15 YEARS, DIES

Guided Negotiations for Lateran Treaty.

ROME, Nov. 18. — (AP) — Cardinal Pietro Gasparri, wartime secretary of state for the vatican, died of pneumonia shortly after 10:30 o'clock tonight at the age of 82.

Stricken last week with influenza which crept into his lungs, the aged cardinal sank steadily during the day.

Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli, Gasparri's successor in office, visited the dying prelate during the evening. His nephew, Cardinal Enrico Gasparri, celebrated a final mass this morning at his uncle's villa and administered communion.

WORKER FOR PEACE.

Immediately upon assuming his duties as papal secretary of state, Oct. 14, 1914, Cardinal Gasparri joined the late Pope Benedict XV. in an attempt to end the world war. The secretary carried on diplomatic negotiations with the various governments.

With the elevation of Pius XI. to the papal throne in 1922 and the continuation of Cardinal Gasparri as secretary of state, the latter inspired and directed a new active policy of the Catholic church, throwing the full force of the church into the effort to establish permanent peace.

Working ceaselessly Cardinal Gasparri effected a reconciliation between the Vatican and France. Though a foe of Fascism and dictatorships, Gasparri was chief negotiator of the Lateran treaty which made the Vatican an independent state and restored good relations with the Italian government.

Revises Canon Law.

Pope Pius prevailed upon Gasparri to stay in office until completion of the Lateran treaty, but in December, 1929, Gasparri resigned and was succeeded by the Cardinal Pacelli.

Gasparri was born at Visco, in the diocese of Norcia, Italy, May 5, 1852. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1877 and shortly afterwards was given the chair of canon law in the Catholic institute at Paris, where he remained eleven years. While in Paris he published many treatises on canon law and marriage. Raised to the bishopric he was delegated in 1898 as papal nuncio to Peru, Ecuador, and Bolivia.

Returning to Rome, he was appointed in May, 1907 as an assistant at the pontifical throne and in December of the same year was created a cardinal. Pope Pius X. entrusted Cardinal Gasparri with the colossal undertaking of modifying and codifying the canon law. He worked at the task constantly for more than 12 years and when time permitted in later years.

WIFE OF PRESIDENT VISITS FAMILY ON SUBSISTENCE TRACT

Tupelo, Miss., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt paid a visit today to Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Barron and their two children, James Jr., 11 and Mary, 9, in their subsistence homestead colony cottage near here.

She went to the cottage immediately after the President and his party arrived here today.

"Mrs. Roosevelt, being a mother herself, asked me the names of the children," Mrs. Barron said after the visit. "She said the arrangement of the home was very nice.

"She wanted to know about the lights and sewage disposal and was interested in the arrangements of the house. One of the first things she asked was: 'Where's the refrigerator,' but that hasn't been installed yet."

RUSSIA PUSHES RED DOCTRINE TO COAST OF ALASKA

Soviet Expansion Involves American Territory.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1934: By The Chicago Tribune.]

MOSCOW, Nov. 4.—[By Carrier and Mail].—The present soviet drive into Asia, which includes mass immigration, industrialization, and militarization of the vast Siberian territories, is of definite and direct interest to Americans.

Primarily the Russians are interested in preventing the Japanese from advancing the boundaries of their Manchukuo empire into far eastern areas now controled by the soviets. But the soviet "plan" in the far east not only includes far-reaching development schemes along the Mongolian and Manchurian borders, but includes the extension of the socialist system to the extreme borders of northeastern Asia—only 54 miles across Bering strait from the American territory of Alaska.

Reds Take Data on Area.

Not that the Russians have any immediate intention of extending their system across Bering sea to the sparsely settled and undeveloped Alaskan territory, but it is of interest to know that they already have compiled a considerable literature containing the results of numerous investigations into the resources and possibilities of the lands bordering on the Asiatic side of the strait and lands to both south and north. Five scientific expeditions were sent out this year.

Also, one finds numerous museums scattered about this country containing specimens of mineral and animal products, with much scientific data pertaining to possibilities for exploitation. Numerous teachers and missionaries have been sent to these regions to explain the soviet cult to native inhabitants, the Guilyaks of Sakhalin Isand and Kamchatka, cousins of the Alaskan Esquimaux, the Samoyeds, Ostyaks, and Chukchas of the region farther north, and of most importance, to the Yakuts, most numerous Arctic tribe [300,000] which occupies a vast empire stretching westward from Bering sea to the Lena river.

Set Up Soviet Republic.

This region has been organized into a soviet republic known as Yakutia, with the capital at Yakutsk on the upper Lena river northeast of Lake Baikal, with which it is connected by a recently constructed road. Aside from the road which connects with Irkutsk on the trans-Siberian, the Russians have established contact with these territories by sea from Vladivostok and by the northern route through the Arctic ocean from the White and Kara seas of the northern European coast.

One soviet icebreaker, the Chelyuskin, which was sent from the White sea through the Arctic to the far east, met disaster in the ice floes north of Bering strait last summer. American aviators from Alaska assisted in the rescue of the survivors.

But the Russians succeeded in sending another icebreaker, the Krassin, entirely around from Kamchatka to Leningrad. In addition they have sent several others on expeditions into the Lena and other rivers which empty into the Arctic.

Travelers Barred from Area.

Most of this area is marked on the soviet maps as a forbidden zone for venturesome foreign tourists or explorers. One alleged reason is that the bolsheviks are establishing settlements at the mouths of these northern rivers and on the islands peopled by political prisoners or "class enemies." Another reason is that the Russians allegedly have discovered a reasonably safe northern sea passage to the far east.

Of most importance, however, is a new railway called the Great Northern, which they claim to be constructing entirely across northern Asia and which they boast will ultimately be extended to Bering sea. This road will reach the Sea of Okhotsk in the vicinity of Nikolaevsk, at the mouth of the Amur, and will be connected with the trans-Siberian by a branch running up the Amur to Khabarovsk, capital of the soviet far eastern province.

Plan Huge Development.

With the exception of northern Sakhalin Island, where there is a rapidly expanding oil development and coal mining industry, there has as yet been little actual development. The Reds talk a great deal about supplying far eastern markets with timber from these regions and thus supplanting the Americans and Canadians in this trade. But their literature generally abounds in reports about unlimited supplies of gold, platinum, silver, quicksilver, and other precious and semi-precious minerals, including copper, zinc, and lead. Of the fisheries and fur resources there apparently are supplies equaled only by those on the American Alaskan and Aleutian Island territories to the east.

The soviet leaders have succeeded in stimulating an interest closely resembling religious enthusiasm in what they term the "socialization" of this frontier region. They have accomplished this by widespread propaganda, particularly among the members of the Young Communist league and the Volunteers, youths of both sexes, extending up from the grades through high school to the universities.

It also is of interest to learn that all of these tens of thousands of young bolsheviks know all about Alaska, that the territory once belonged to Russia, and that one of the late czars made a very bad bargain when he sold it to the United States in 1867 for $7,200,000.

SNOW IN MOUNTAINS OF CALIFORNIA; RAIN CAUSES SEVEN DEATHS

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Roaring in from the ocean, a storm brought heavy snowfall in the Sierra Nevada mountains today and seven deaths and a score of injuries were laid to the blinding rain in northern California.

The weather bureau said the storm would extend north to Puget sound and south through the California valleys.

Some forty automobiles were marooned in the high Sierras, west of Grass valley, tonight as snow blocked a highway dedication caravan headed by Gov. Frank F. Merriam.

The machine bearing Gov. Merriam managed to break througr the swiftly piling drifts. Trafic officers said that highway crews should free the others by morning.

Twenty-eight inches of snow already had fallen at Donner Summit and 10 inches at Tahoe City. One inch of rain fell in San Francisco within six hours.

At Los Angeles, the weather bureau reported .60 inch of rain yesterday afternoon and last night, with more forecast.

BAR GETS $50,000 GRANT TO HELP IN UNIFICATION PLAN

Carnegie Fund Boosts U.S. Organization Idea.

A grant of $50,000 to the American Bar association to expedite its three year campaign for a unified national bar and, ultimately the improvement of the nation's laws and their administration has been made by the Carnegie foundation. Announcement of the fund was made yesterday from the association's headquarters, 1140 North Dearborn street, through Scott M. Loftin, president of the association.

The unification plan, which aims at solidifying the various lawyers' guilds by concentration on a common national bar program was devised at the association's national convention in Grand Rapids, Mich., in 1933, and since has been further developed by committees of attorneys in many sections of the country.

Five Planks in Program.

The program consists of five planks: Better criminal law enforcement; higher standards of admission to the bar; protection of the public against practice of law by unqualified laymen; an improved judiciary, and elimination of the shyster by enforcement of rules of professional ethics.

Jefferson P. Chandler heads a committee publicizing the plan.

At present, Mr. Loftin pointed out, the American Bar association has about 25,000 members. There are 1,430 lawyers' organizations in the United States, but there is no established coördination between them.

Point to Medical Organization.

Proponents of the unification project point to the example of the American Medical association with its interlocking membership organization. In that body members of county associations are automatically enrolled in the state and national bodies.

Mr. Chandler's committee is now conferring with committees chosen at the association's request by smaller groups of lawyers, to consider the national bar plan. From their correlated work the association hopes to develop an alliance representative of the entire bar of the United States. The Carnegie grant will greatly facilitate and speed this work, Mr. Loftin said.

Three Men Are Drowned in Mississippi; 2 Saved

Stronghurst, Ill., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Three men were drowned today when the boat in which they were returning to the Illinois side of the Mississippi river near here broke in two during a storm. Two others in the party, which had been hunting on an island, were saved. Those drowned were Guy L. Brown, 45, Kewanee, branch manager for the Illinois Commercial Telephone company; Earl Beardsley, 55, Stronghurst shoe merchant, and Albert Berg, 40, Stronghurst mechanic.

BOY, 4, IS FOUND; WOMEN FACING KIDNAP CHARGE

Chattanooga, Tenn., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Missing from his home in Lexington, Ky., since Thursday night, 4 year old Jackie Gibbons was found here today in company of a young woman, who told police officers that the boy followed her away and that she "became afraid" and let him accompany her. A kidnaping charge was placed against her.

The woman gave the name of Bernice Lou Givens, 18, and said she had lived in Cincinnati.

Lawrence Harvey, who gave the woman and child shelter last night, read about the missing Jackie Gibbons in today's paper and notified police. The boy previously had told his name.

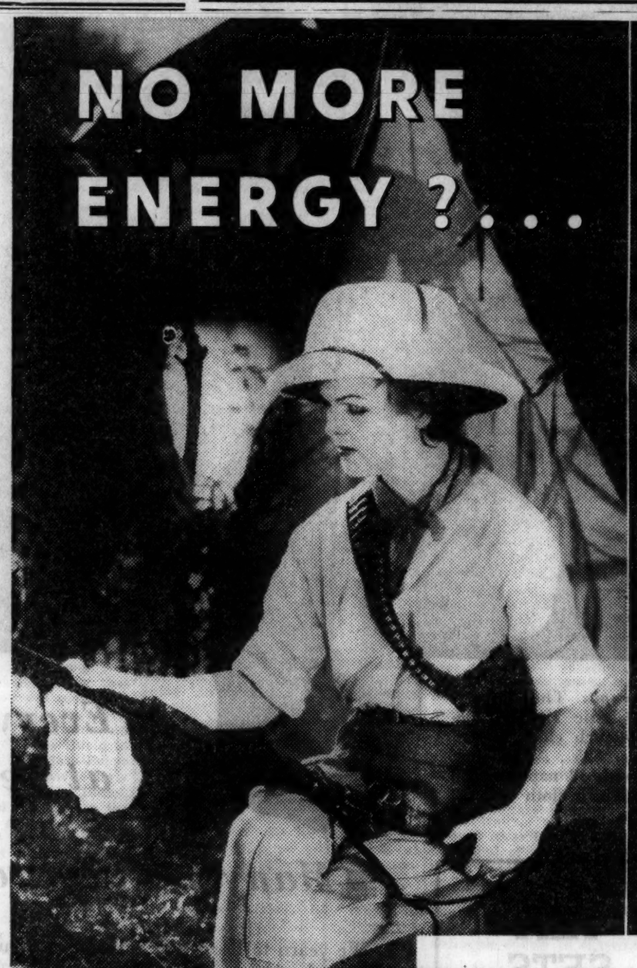
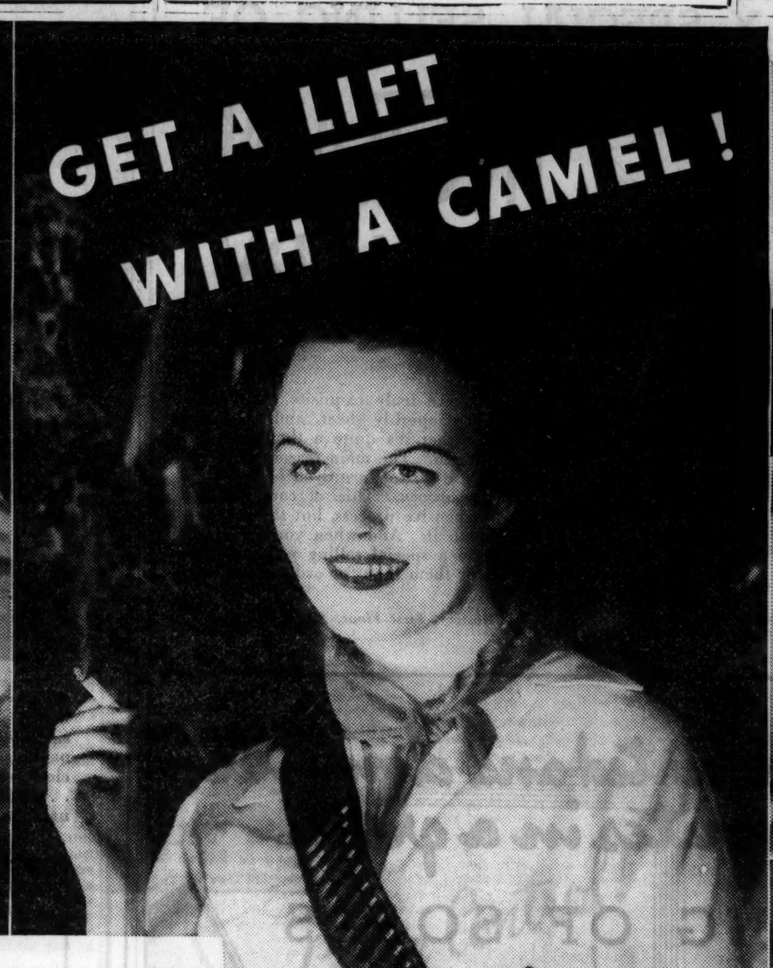
NO MORE ENERGY?...

GET A LIFT WITH A CAMEL!





● Whether their daily tasks carry them through crowded city streets, or impenetrable jungles, Camel smokers agree on the delightful "lift" they get from smoking a Camel. Mrs. William LaVarre, famous explorer, whose treks through dangerous South American jungles have taught her the vital necessity of keeping up her energy reserve, has this to say about Camels: "We took 30,000 Camels with us on our last expedition. Any time I'm tired, I just stop and smoke a Camel. It wakes up my energy in no time. Smoking Camels steadily, I find, does not affect one's nerves."

Margot Atkin to Play in U. S. Hocky Tourney

BY JUDITH CASS.

IF there's anything that Miss Margot Atkin, daughter of the Godfrey Atkins of Winnetka, can do better than conduct a Junior league meeting or raise money for the community fund, it's to hit a hocky ball. For several years she has been a star player on the North Shore hocky team and now she has been selected goal keeper of the midwest team.

In this capacity Miss Atkin will be enjoying a real Puritan Thanksgiving, for she is going east early next week to play in the national hocky tournament Nov. 28, 29, 30, and 31 in Boston. These games, which will enlist teams from all over the country, will be played on a field in Newton, at the edge of Boston.

Miss Atkin will be accompanied east by two more members of the North Shore team, who have been named members of the reserve team for the midwest. They are Mrs. Warner Washburn, who plays right inner, and Miss Lucy Jane Hedburg, whose position is center forward. These selections were made a week ago when the midwest section of the National Hocky league held its tournament in Madison, Wis. In this tourney the North Shore team beat St. Louis 4 to 0 and tied Madison.

Miss Hedburg, Miss Annie Mason of Winnetka, and Miss Marjorie Street of Chicago drove last Saturday to Richmond, Ind., where Miss Hedburg participated in a hocky game between the North Shore team and Earlham college.

Virginia Nicolson to Wed Orson Welles.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo M. Nicolson of Wheaton announce the engagement of their daughter, Virginia, to Orson Welles, reads the interesting announcement we are asked to make this morning. Rumors that the young couple were married Saturday in New York surprised their friends here over the week-end, but that news was a little premature, for they are not to be married until late December.

Mrs. Nicolson returned yesterday from New York, where she went to see her daughter, who is in New York assisting Francis Carpenter in the production of a new play that is to open on Dec. 17. Mr. Welles, whose guardian is Dr. Maurice Bernstein of Chicago, is to open in "Romeo and Juliet," with Katharine Cornell in New York on Dec. 20, and he and his fiancée plan to be married soon after that.

Miss Nicolson, who is the elder of the two pretty daughters of the Nicolsons, was graduated from the University School for Girls last June, and during the summer studied art with the Woodstock theater festival, in which young Mr. Welles was one of the stars. It was then the romance started between the young girl, who had decided that a stage debut was more to her liking than a social one, and the young actor, who already had been acclaimed by public and critics alike in this country and in Ireland. Mr. and Mrs. Nicolson and their subdeb daughter, Caryl, will go to New York for the wedding and undoubtedly there will be other Chicagoans who will make a trip east for it.

Prentiss L. Coonleys Give Raccoon Hunt.

From the Berkshires comes word of a novel party held last Friday night by the Prentiss L. Coonleys, who used to reside in Lake Forest but who now live at Folly Farm in Great Barrington, Mass. It was a raccoon hunt amid the scraggly pines and hemlocks of Lone Pond mountain overlooking their estate. A pheasant supper was served first at the farm, and then in the full of the moon the chase for the raccoon was on. The party was given for Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Cox and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Braman of Old Chatham, N. Y., and among the hunters were the Misses Alice and Eleanor Coonley and a group of their friends.

Mrs. John de Koven and her sister, Miss Eleanor Larrabee, have returned to their North Dearborn street residence after a month at the Martin Inn in Stockbridge in the Berkshires.

The wedding of Miss Marion McKinley, daughter of Mrs. Anthony McKinley, and William J. Sennott Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Sennott of Evanston, will take place at 4:30 o'clock the afternoon of Dec. 1 in the rectory of Holy Name cathedral. Just the immediate families will be present at the ceremony and a small informal reception will follow at the Drake hotel.

Miss Marjorie Hunter of Rockford, Ill., will be Miss McKinley's only at-

Gideon Bloodgood Cracks Down

Walter Frazier as Gideon Bloodgood, the villain; Miss Peggy Hambleton, and F. Parson Warren in one of the stirring scenes of "Under the Gaslight, or Virtue Has Its Own Reward," to be presented Thursday and Friday evenings in Guild hall of St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

A REAL fire scene with flames leaping five feet high probably will set the audience to swooning and screaming Thursday and Friday nights when "Under the Gaslight, or Virtue Has Its Own Reward," is presented in the Guild hall of St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church as a feature of the St. Chrysostom's women's guild and auxiliary annual holiday sale. In contrast to this blazing inferno is the snow scene which will be arranged backstage by either Miss Eleanor Holden or Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr.

Mr. Winterbotham is taking no fewer than three parts, for he is conveniently killed off in the first act, leaving him free to assume, in turn, the rôles of a fireman and a sherif. Robert C. Orr will have three parts also. Miss Catharine Noyes will portray the villain's daughter, and Harold Simonds, the choirmaster and organist at the church, is the hero.

Gideon Bloodgood, the villain [Walter Frazier], and his co-actors are benefiting from the direction of Samuel Otis, who has taught them all the picturesque gestures of the actors of the old school.

Martinelli and Thomas Sing Their Best in "Pagliacci"

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Electric tension, flashing successes, débuts, last minute changes that usually worked as brilliant strategy sums up the week-end of the Chicago Grand Opera company. Of the successes, the first place goes to Giovanni Martinelli, whose Canio in "Pagliacci" was the finest he has ever performed in this part of the country. It was magnificently sung, it was portrayed with fine fervor, it had the real thrill of the great performance.

And second to him was John Charles Thomas as Tonio, whose position among the baritones about corresponds to Martinelli's among the tenors. Here, too, was singing that in tone and expression was something to raise the pulse beat and renew faith in opera as great entertainment. And there was a first class Silvio in Mario Fiorella and a first class Beppe in Giuseppe Cavadore, and particularly a first class Nedda in Hilda Burke, who, by the way, had sung Liu in the "Turandot" of the afternoon. Incidentally "Turandot" had its changes, for Leo Kopp stepped in unannounced to conduct, and did it extraordinarily well.

After "Pagliacci" came "Cavalleria Rusticana," reversing the usual order, and presenting other newcomers. Anna Turkel made her Chicago debut at Santuzza, displaying a voice of striking dramatic brilliancy which, however, was not always under complete control. John Pane-Gasser, who appeared with the company several times last year, sang Turiddu with a nearly ideal voice for the part, and one which a few performances ought to work out into a fine rendition. There were three more excellent artists in the cast, Joseph Royer as Alfio, Ada Paggi as Lola, and Mari Barova as Mama Lucia. Frank Laird Waller made his first appearance as conductor, presenting evidences of a fine sense of the melody, color, and drama of the piece.

Vincenzo Celli, the Chicago dancer who has made a reputation in Italy, appeared with Berenice Holmes and a group of lithe young nymphs of the dance at the Blackstone theater yesterday afternoon in a program arranged for Italian music old and new.

This should not be his only appearance in Chicago, for he has something of distinct merit. He is a talented and developed dancer, with an excellent idea of form and design in outlining his dances, a taste for color and lighting, and he had more than competent assistance from his associates.

Meanwhile Stell Andersen, a pianist in whom to take delight, was giving a recital at the Studebaker theater. Without ever becoming thunderous at the keyboard, she has a wide range of expression, great good sense at projecting the intention of her composers, and a touch of velvet.

Laura Mayer, also a pianist, gave a recital at Kimball hall. Heard in works by Haydn and Chopin, she showed that she was well trained, accurate, poised, and cool.

Cartoon Fantasies in Color to Be New Movie Attraction

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Walt Disney, the papa of Mickey Mouse and the modest maestro responsible for the current popularity of all motion picture cartoon comedies, thinks the American film public is waiting to welcome something in the cartoon line a little different and possibly a little more arty than anything to date. In fact, Disney is venturing a sizable sum in turning out some finely made color cartoons which are not cartoon comedies at all but rather can be described as cartoon fantasies.

His first such release is "The Goddess of Spring," of which the public gets the first glimpse at Radio City in New York, a color strip based on the mythological story of Proserpine's visit to Pluto, the king of Hades.

Instead of comedy with slapstick flavor, there are color, action, rhythm and subtle comedy twists.

"We want to see if the public will accept straight fantasy," Disney says thoughtfully, "and maybe we will get entirely away from flat comedy in this new kind of entertainment." Disney will, of course, retain Mickey Mouse and the other staple features of his cartoon comedy output, but if the film fans like his new effort, he may turn out an eight reel color fantasy dedicated doubly to enjoyment and to art.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"I HATE the sea!" the Captain said,
"I hate it very much!
If I'd my way I'd ride around
In trolley cars and such.
And if, perchance, my ship goes down
While we are out at sea,
If you think I'll go down WITH her,
A nit wit, sir, you be!
I'll take good care I'm clear of her
While yet she is a-float,
And there's no passenger who'll beat
Me into a life boat! . . . [Don't print that," sotto voiced the Capt.]
"You hate it? But how came you, then,
Sir, for to go to sea?"
The captain sighed a mighty sigh,
A mighty sigh heaved he.
"My father's whiskers, sir," he said,
Were the cause of it all.
Because, you see, those whiskers in-
To Father's soup did fall.
Through no carelessness of his own
Did Father's beard so lush
Fall in the soup. Ah, no! You see,
His elbow I did push! . . .
And so, in wrath he drove me out,
And so I ran to sea——!
But O, I HATE the sea!" he groaned,
"I HATE THE SEA!" growled he.

And WHY, in particular, does the captain hate the sea? Because, you learn, of his passengers—the heterogeneous crowds who go cruising for pleasure, forgetfulnes, gain, evil, health, or what have they!

"LOOK at 'em!" grits the captain to reporters who have been hanging joyfully on his misanthropic musings. He and the press men are standing on the bridge watching the sea-going folk stream up the gang plank.

Looking, you make the acquaintance of a queer lot whose doings are to be the sum and substance of your entertainment—and the captain's agony—till the boat docks again. Yes—the "Grand Hotel" formula. I know it. So am I. . . .

Despite excellent acting—Walter Connelly even manages to make you believe in the captain, which was a stunt, my hearties!—the film is an involved and not very interesting mess that's quite apt to inspire the query, "What it all about?"

If You're Artist at Heart Your Handwriting Shows It

BY MURIEL STAFFORD.
[Copyright: 1934: By Muriel Stafford.]

Perhaps you are more of an artist than you realize! Your artistry may find an outlet in simple things such as the arrangement of flowers in a bowl or a blending of colors in your daily costume. Yet no matter how you restrain or repress your artistic tendencies, they surely will find expression in your handwriting.

JOHN T. McCUTCHEON.

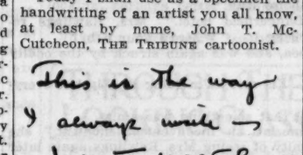
I remember a young lady who tried to mislead me by saying that I was certainly wrong in regard to her artistic tastes, that she had none whatever. When I persisted that it was very apparent in her handwriting she finally confessed that she was testing me out. As it happened she was making her living as a most successful interior decorator.

Very often an artist prints everything he writes and invariably you will find most of his capitals printed. Usually they are all printed. Whenever you find printed capitals you can be sure that the writer has a sense of the artistic.

Artistic people have wide and beautiful proportioned margins. The very spacing of an address will be a work of art.

As a rule, the writings of artists have been heavy and rather inclined to the left. I have tried to decide why that should be and I have come to the conclusion that artists are more interested in ideas and things than most people. Their minds rule them, because great artists have great minds.

Today I shall use as a specimen the handwriting of an artist you all know, at least by name, John T. McCutcheon, THE TRIBUNE cartoonist.



Most of the capitals, as you can see, are distinctly printed, especially the capital T in the signature. Of course you can not judge margins from this reproduction, but I assure you that they are very wide. The letters are small with keenly pointed tops, indicating a love of detail and excellent concentration. Originality is evident in the many original letter formations.

Intuition is shown in this handwriting, as in the handwriting of all great artists and writers. In fact, there are many literary indications as well as artistic indications in this particular handwriting.

Front Views and Profiles

ZORA NEALE HURSTON, the young Negro woman who wrote "Jonah's Gourd Vine" and who is lecturing before the Renaissance society at Mandel hall this evening, says that the folk tales of the Negroes may be divided into four classes. There are the exaggeration stories, the "ole missy-ole massa" stories, the animal stories such as those of Brer Rabbit, tales of creation. Last time she was in town Miss Hurston gave an example of the exaggeration story, which was much better told in her soft, drawling voice than in type. The story concerned some folks who were telling tales about the darkest night they had ever seen. One Negro said he had heard a noise in the woodpile on a black, black night. He got up and took his gun and went outside the cabin and shot in the direction of the noise. He couldn't see to aim, as it was too dark, but he shot, then went inside and went back to bed. He couldn't get to sleep, however, because he heard a noise outside that disturbed him. It was a kind of a humming noise that went m-m-m-m-m-m, and it went on for hours. What do you think it was? It was that bullet a-moanin' because it was so dark it couldn't find which way to go. That's how dark that night was.

SIGN on neighborhood cinema [positively the last one to be quoted in this department]:

"The Most Precious Thing in Life Always 15c."

But, if I remember the title of a favorite song, "The Best Things in Life Are Free."

THE other evening when Nathan Flaxman went to the Mount Sinai Service club benefit musical at the Aragon ballroom he arrived late, and hastily squeezed himself into a small bridge chair. The seat was between two young women who were sitting on similar small steel chairs, and as he settled back he muttered:

"I don't mind, but do you shake when you laugh?"

A FRIEND went to the French Casino the other evening, and as he passed the bar an elderly gentleman stopped him.

"Good evening, colonel. It's nice to see you," he said. The gentleman addressed, who had never seen the other man before, contented himself with saying good evening. A half hour later, as he was sitting at his table, the old gentleman passed by with a second man, and, seeing him, spoke, uttered a pleasantry or two, then introduced the man with him. "This is Maj. Blank, colonel," he said.

They passed on, in the direction of the bar, and a half hour later again passed the table of my friend with a young man added to the party. The old gentleman stopped a third time. The young man said soothingly:

"Never mind, mister. You were old once yourself."

Colors of New Hats to Make Style History

Off-the-Face Models Will Soften Features.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Following the headlines and hatlines keeps the swiftest hat collector breaking speed records. The last boxes contained some rather breath-taking new ideas for fashionable shoppers that ought to revive anyone's courage. Topped with one of these new lids, you could face any all-female audience with admirable equanimity, for they change you as nothing else but a hat can.

The colors alone will make fashion history—all off shades imaginable, but not the dusky, dingy pastels of other years. This time it is clear strong colors, even though they seem a bit queer. Thin pastel green, a wood violet, orangy corals, citrus lemon, and soft blues. The materials are knockout and timely, soft satins, supple taffetas that are stitched for sole decoration, soft felts, and soft velvets that are adroitly draped and molded to fit the head.

Get ready for some new off the face hats; vastly different off the face models that flatter and soften the features. They are clever things, skillfully moulded to the head and then framed with a smoothly cut face framing brim.

There is one of tobacco brown felt that looks like a baby bonnet from the back, and ever so sophisticated full face, for the outstanding brim has been cut out so that the sharp points accentuate the face line. Then there is a huge spicy green stitched taffeta with a pointed crown that is turned down and caught about two inches below the point. The wide brim turns dramatically up the left side.

Still another turban is new and different because, it too, fits the head more smoothly and with much more distinction than former turbans. Two large ear effects give it height and swank and two big silver balls hold the rabbit ears in place. These exciting new creations are now on display in a smart French salon in a Chicago store, in all the luscious new pastels for the Palm Beach vacationers as well as all street shades for immediate wear.

The Forgotten Honeymoon

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Rhoda Cornboise's engagement to Maj. Ralph Stornack is arranged by her ambitious mother. Rhoda is in love with Colin Briarley, who is in jail for the murder of a Canadian solicitor in a London night club. Colin was alone at the table with the Canadian when the lights went out and he was struck in the throat by a tableknife. Chief witness against Colin was Maj. Stornack, who was the solicitor's host. Rhoda met Stornack when he called to express his regret for the testimony he had to give at her lover's trial. Jack Caermaen, an old pal of Colin's, is the warder. He plots Colin's escape by taking Colin's place as prisoner, allowing Colin to use his week's vacation. Nobody looks closely at prisoners, he explains, and warders are frequently changed. Rhoda elopes with Colin on the eve of her marriage to Stornack. They spend a brief honeymoon in Wales. Then Colin returns to prison. Rhoda returns home and feigns a lapse of memory. Her mother besieges her to marry Stornack, who is still willing. He and his confederates know she has inherited the fortune of a Canadian relative. The solicitor had come to London to tell her of it. Stornack calls on Caermaen and they quarrel. Jack suspects Stornack of the crime for which Colin was convicted. Rhoda, who is expecting a baby, leaves home and stays with friends of Caermaen's, the Rawlings, in London. Her mother follows with a court order, placing Rhoda under her charge. Caermaen and his solicitor plan to investigate Stornack. Mrs. Cornboise takes Rhoda to France, where her son is born. Her mother sends the baby away. Rhoda arranges to see him and have him properly cared for. She and her mother return to London. Caermaen arranges to get Colin out of prison again for a few days to have him identify a confederate of Stornack's. Thinking Rhoda is still in France he plans to fly there. Rhoda, with her mother, calls on Mrs. Rawlings. Colin had just left there for the aerodrome.

INSTALMENT XXV.

RHODA MEETS HER HUSBAND.

"Why, Mrs. Rawlings, you must be ill!" said Rhoda.

"No—I'm quite all right. I'm very pleased to see you," faltered Mrs. Rawlings and invited them into the little house. "It was such a shock at first! It certainly did make me feel queer but it will pass off in a moment."

Rhoda was only partly reassured. There was, she thought, something strange in Mrs. Rawlings' manner. But perhaps it was only shyness of her mother, who stood formidably by the fireplace, refusing to sit down.

"We're staying at the Dangerfield hotel," Rhoda explained. "And in a few days we're going back to Cornboise Hall."

"The Dangerfield hotel. The Dangerfield hotel." Mrs. Rawlings repeated it twice as if she were memorizing it. "Where's your baby?"

"I left him in France," said Rhoda, and was again struck by the oddity of Mrs. Rawlings' manner.

"O! You left him in France . . . I'm sorry I'm being so silly but everything does seem strange."

Mrs. Cornboise, too, had perceived that something was amiss.

"I think perhaps we have come at an inconvenient moment," she boomed. "You may have an opportunity of seeing Mrs. Rawlings again later on. We will wish you good morning, Mrs. Rawlings."

She strode through the little hall to the door and Mrs. Rawlings made no attempt to stop them. Bewildered, Rhoda turned back and put her arms round Mrs. Rawlings' neck.

"Are you all right? What is the matter?"

"Get back to that hotel and wait," whispered Mrs. Rawlings.

As Rhoda stepped into the taxi Mrs. Cornboise gave the address of a well known outfitter in Oxford street. When the taxi arrived Rhoda accomplished a very convincing faint. She came out of the faint before there was any real danger of Mrs. Cornboise calling a doctor.

"Croydon aerodrome quickly!" she ordered.

Mrs. Cornboise smothered her exasperation and told the taxi man to drive back to the hotel.

Back in the hotel Rhoda made a rapid recovery. She refused to go to her room but sat in the lounge, midway between the glass doors and the telephone, while her father pressed her with inquiries about her health.

She was utterly at a loss to interpret Mrs. Rawlings' warning. But there had been no mistake in the intensity of that command. She supposed that a telephone message would come and wondered how she could receive it without her mother knowing.

An hour passed—and then Mrs. Rawlings herself appeared.

"O dear, there's that dreadful woman again!" exclaimed Mrs. Cornboise. "William, if she's troublesome you will have to get rid of her."

As soon as her visitors had gone Mrs. Rawlings had rushed to the telephone and called Croydon aerodrome. With some difficulty she had eventually got in touch with Colin, just as he had been about to start. Then he had told her what to do—and had even suggested to her how to do it.

"It's a funny thing, Mrs. Smith, that when you were in my house this morning I forgot to tell you about those laundry bills. I didn't like to write while you were away because it seemed a small thing to worry you about. As you see, it's only a matter of a few shillings."

She handed Rhoda a couple of bills pinned together. Between the two bills was a sheet of paper on which was written: "Go to Croydon aerodrome at once. He is waiting for you there."

Her heart gave a great bound, for she could not misunderstand the message. Then, knowing that she could not detach the note under her mother's eye, she handed the bills back.

"Daddy, will you please give Mrs. Rawlings eight-and-threepence."

Mrs. Rawlings played her part and thanked Mr. Cornboise for the eight-and-threepence. With an understanding glance at Rhoda, she hurried away.

Colin was waiting for her at Croydon aerodrome. The thought seemed to crowd out all others. For several minutes she was unable to grapple with the problem of how to get away.

"Do you feel up to a little lunch?" her father asked solicitously.

"I'm fearfully hungry," she said. They got up and went into the dining room. They sat down and the waiter handed her a menu. Rhoda got up.

"I haven't a handkerchief. I'll be back in a minute."

There was a taxi rank just outside the hotel and she nodded to the commissionaire.

"Croydon aerodrome quickly!" she ordered.

She had escaped. They had not seen her go—could not possibly know where she was going. So she thought.

It takes more than half an hour to drive from Kensington to Croydon through the trafic.

Rhoda was in a state bordering on nervous exhaustion when the taxi finally stopped at the aerodrome and Colin himself flung the door open.

"O, Colin! I couldn't really believe that you would be here."

There was the taxi man—there was the porter whom he had brushed aside.

"O, I've left the job in good hands for three days!" grinned Colin.

"Splendid! I do hope you've thought of something amusing for us to do. I've been awfully bored lately."

Five minutes is a long time to take in merely getting a handkerchief.

"Rhoda isn't quite herself today!" said Mrs. Cornboise. "I think I'd better go up and see if she's feeling poorly."

Within a couple of minutes she was downstairs. She strolled through the glass doors to the commissionaire.

"Did my daughter go out just now?"

"Yes, madam, she took a taxi."

Mrs. Cornboise took five shillings from her purse and handed it to the commissionaire. "What address did she give the taxi man?"

"Croydon aerodrome, madam."

Back in the hall Mrs. Cornboise caught her husband's eye and waved to him to join her. He came hurrying out of the dining room.

"Anything the matter? Is she ill?" he asked anxiously.

"A great deal is the matter, William. Rhoda has rushed out of the place by herself and taken a taxi to Croydon Aerodrome. What are you going to do about it, William?"

Now Mr. Cornboise was a man of massive intellect. But in any domestic problem he invariably failed to grasp his wife's starting point.

"I really don't think it is necessary for us to do anything at the moment," he said. "If she needs money she will send us a telegram."

Mrs. Cornboise took a deep breath while she struggled for patience.

It's Futile to Expect Child to Be Immaculate

Basic Cleanliness All That Should Be Demanded.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"The child of 6 should be responsible for his personal cleanliness," is a statement I heard a woman make quite recently. O me, O my—I thought to myself—did that person ever have one or more healthy, lively, full-blooded youngsters about the place? Wouldn't you hate to have a boy, we'll say—most girls are a little different—who always kept posted as to whether his face, hands, and clothes were clean and his hair combed?

Here's a wail:

"My Dear Mrs. Bevans: Your article last Friday, "Boys Fuss About Dressing Up," described the phase I am trying so hard to overcome. Having five daughters, three of whom are grown, this small 9 year old son, who can't see the sense of keeping clean or half way respectable in appearance of his clothes—well, he just 'gets in my hair.' I thought my girls were rather reckless about their appearances, and dirty hands and soiled dresses worried them not at all, but now I rather feel they were not so bad after all."

In answering a letter like this the good old personal angle enters in—as in fact it always does. Some people like not only cleanliness but the constant appearance of cleanliness in their children. Others are satisfied with actual cleanliness and only the periodical appearance of it. The latter is my choice. The degree to which that happy medium will be carried out depends upon the child, the mother, and the supply of clean clothes and hot water!

What might be a happy medium of cleanliness for the "inbetween" boy or girl—because it is neither the young child nor the adolescent who, as this mother said, "gets in our hair" most in this respect?

The periodical appearance of it consists of clean clothes and hands and face for school—clean face and hands for every meal—and clean clothes or one clean garment—shirt or dress—for the evening family meal together. Fingernails need a stern parental eye! This much, I think, we have to make a firm but good natured stand for—though sans haggling, for the inbetweens need much tolerance.

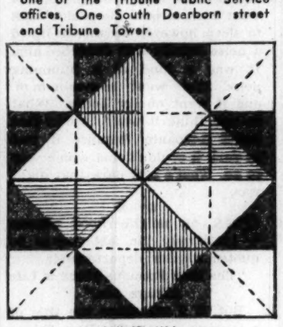
Windmill Quilt Design Based on Triangle Pattern

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.



WINDMILL.

BY NANCY CABOT.

A variation of the fundamental four patch, the "Windmill" block is made from a single triangular pattern. For the benefit of the uninitiate, the four patch block is cut into four squares. By cutting the squares into right triangles, the windmill effect is easily achieved. "Windmill" is one of those blocks born and bred in every community, hence has no definite history.

tendant, and John Harmon Sennott will serve his brother as best man. After a fortnight's wedding trip Mr. Sennott and his bride will be at home at 543 Aldine avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wolfe are giving a cocktail party this afternoon for Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel H. Owings, who are leaving Chicago Nov. 27 for a trip around the world. Mrs. Wolfe, as vice president of the Junior league, became president when Mrs. Owings resigned because the trip she and her husband are taking will keep her away for six months.

Mrs. Francis Johnson, Mrs. George Rasmussen, and Mrs. Harry H. Shearson are entertaining at tea at the Casino this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock for Mme. Theilade and Mlle. Nini Theilade, première danseuse of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" company.

Mrs. Eugene Cary Jr. will be hostess at a stocking shower and tea this afternoon for Miss Barbara Graf, who will be married to Charles S. Connell on Dec. 1 at the Fortnightly. It will be a sort of housewarming in Mrs. Cary's new apartment in the Marshall Field Garden apartments.

Mrs. Americus F. Callahan, Mrs. Henry B. Zangwoll, and Miss Ebba Sundstrom will pour at a tea Mrs. Gerhardt Franz Moyne will give this afternoon at her residence, 1448 Lake Shore drive, for Mae Doellin, Schmidt, soloist, appearing with the Chicago Symphony orchestra Nov. 29 and 30.

Dr. Joseph B. De Lee Speaks at Tea Today.

Dr. Joseph B. De Lee will discuss the work of the Chicago Maternity Center at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the South Shore Country club at a tea the South Shore Service league of the Maternity Center is giving. Mrs. Frank D. Hanson, assisted by Miss Ann O'Connell and Miss Catherine Healy, is chairman of arrangements.

The finance committee of the Margaret Etter Creche will meet for luncheon at Mrs. Louis Buss' apartment in the Lake Shore Drive hotel tomorrow to discuss plans for a benefit the committee will give on Dec. 8 at the Bal Tabarin.

Another luncheon meeting on tomorrow's calendar is that of the Chicago Mount Vernon Alumnæ association, to be held at The 900. Miss Lucy Jane Hedburg is president of the association.

Mrs. Thorne Speaks at Benefit Tomorrow.

Mrs. James Ward Thorne is giving several lectures all over the city on her famed miniature rooms which she exhibited during A Century of Progress. At 2:30 o'clock tomorrow she will give an illustrated talk in the rooms at the Oak Park club, where she has been invited by the women's board of the Presbyterian hospital. At 3 o'clock next Monday she will speak at Ferry hall in Lake Forest and all of Lake Forest and the north shore will be crowding the doors of the school to hear her. It will be a benefit for the Allendale Home for Boys.

Mrs. Roy Sturtevant is chairman of the board of the home. Some of the board members are Mrs. C. Morse Ely, Mrs. Albert B. Dick, Mrs. James R. Offield, Mrs. M. Scott Bromwell, and Mrs. Rensselaer Cox.

The monthly dressmakers' sale of the Rummage shop will be held on Thursday of this week instead of the last Thursday of the month, as it usually is, because of Thanksgiving. Mrs. D. Mark Cummings is chairman of the sale.

Now that Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Chinnock are settled in their large new apartment at 4642 Woodlawn avenue, they are issuing invitations for a housewarming from 4 to 7 next Saturday afternoon. Providing he has had his nap early, young John Farr Chinnock, the latest addition to the Chinnock family, may be introduced to a few very special guests.

Junior Club Members to Have Reunion Dance.

The Edward W. Hageys, John L. Fortune Jr., John W. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Peacock III., Warren R. Howe, and Joseph Halla Jr. are some of the members of the old Junior club who will attend the organization's revival dance Saturday night at the Belden-Stratford school. The club originally was made up of students at both the Girls' and the Boys' Latin schools.

With its series of dances limited to four instead of six, the North Shore Fortnightly club will begin its fourth season of dances Saturday. The dances will be given at the Evanston Country club. The other parties are scheduled for Dec. 15, Jan. 19, and Feb. 16. Arthur B. Selbold Jr. is chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Sims have moved into a new apartment at 1209 Astor street, where they are now about completely settled. Mrs. Sims and her sister, Miss Caroline McNair, have already made plans to return to their beloved Arizona this winter. They are planning on taking a house in February in Phoenix, where they will spend a month or two. Frank McNair, their father, and Mr. Sims will spend a part of the time with them.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Harold L. Ickes, wife of the secretary of the interior; Mrs. Henry A. Wallace, wife of the secretary of agriculture, and Mrs. Daniel C. Roper, wife of the secretary of commerce, alternated this afternoon at the tea given by Miss Grace Roper, daughter of the secretary, in the Roper home to the trustees, founders, and sponsors of the Town Hall of Washington, a new development.

The chargé d'affaires of Bulgaria and Mme. Petroff Tchomakoff gave a reception this afternoon in compliment to the former's sister, Mlle. Petroff, who has arrived to spend the greater part of the winter with them. Mlle. Petroff is a lady in waiting to Queen Giovanna of Bulgaria.

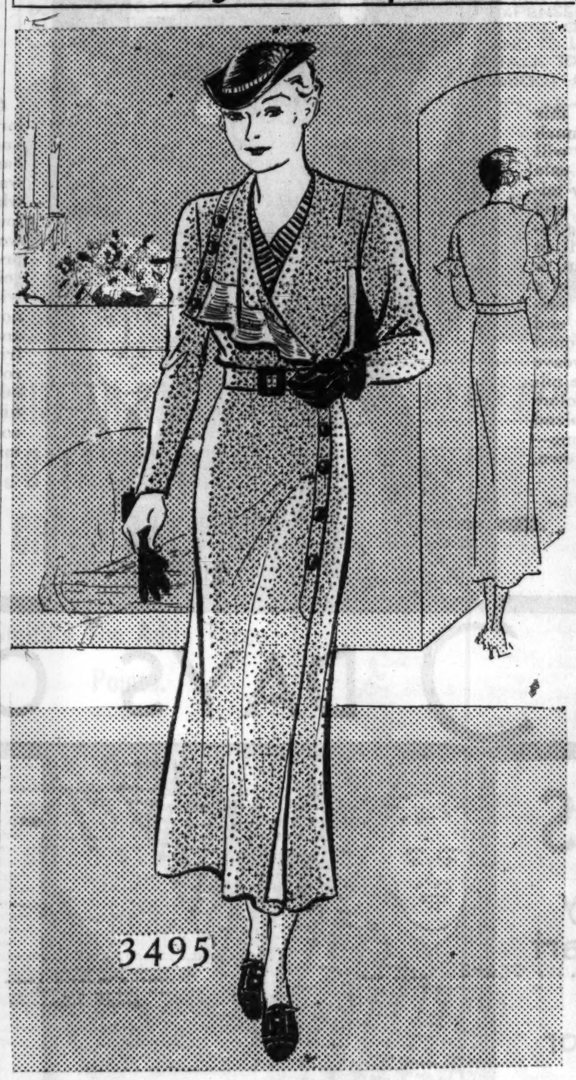
Heavier Figure Complimented



WOMAN'S DRESS.

Designers are busy these days creating the smartest clothes with problems of heavier figures in mind, so the woman with a mature figure need no longer envy the clothes her slimmer sister wears. Today's dress has long, slenderizing lines, including a new wrapped skirt that gives an illusion of height and slenderness. The surplice vest is becoming, besides lending a flat, long line much appreciated by women of fuller figures. A lightweight woolen, Canton crêpe, satin, or pebbly crêpe will make up well.

The pattern, No. 3495, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure.

Success Depends on the Mixing Method.

The Fourth Chicago Tribune School of Cookery goes to the Aragon ballroom tomorrow for the final week. Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, famous home economics expert, in co-operation with Miss Mary Meade, Tribune Cooking editor, will conduct the sessions, which will continue Nov. 20, 21, 22, and 23. All schools will begin at 12:30 o'clock.

BY MARY MEADE.

In grandmother's day the making of a cake meant almost inevitably the bringing forth of the lard pail. Since that era we've experimented with butter, oils, solid vegetable and animal fats, and whatnot, finding them all good. And now once more cooks are rediscovering the old truth—that countless foods, including cakes, may be made successfully and deliciously with lard, if we're up on our method of mixing.

You may prefer a flavorful fat for your cake making. If so, lard's not for the likes of you. But if, to balance the budget, you are interested in letting other ingredients perform the flavoring, you will find in pure lard inexpensive and tasteless fat which has been proved to have the highest shortening value of any.

Several other good qualities speak for lard. It's easy to work when just removed from the refrigerator. No chips and splinters. It remains sweet and fresh if kept cool. Although it has no flavor of its own, it seems to bring out right pleasantly the natural flavor of pie crust, doughnuts, or cake. It's easily digested.

Three sorts of lard may be bought on the market today—kettle rendered leaf lard, kettle rendered lard, and prime steam rendered lard. Prime steam rendered lard is the type we usually buy. It's whiter, smoother, and more creamy than the others. It is practically flavorless and keeps well.

Since lard takes on passing odors keep the container tightly closed and in a cold spot. Also, since lard is 100 per cent fat, if you use it in cake as a substitute for butter, use only four-fifths cup of lard for each cup of butter called for. Just fill up the cup with lard, level it off, and remove three tablespoons of it. There's your four-fifths cup. Remember, too, that lard is saltless. One-fourth teaspoon salt for each cup of flour, when lard is used in a mixture, is a good rule to follow.

So now for the rules of lard cake mixing. We'll offer the ingredients first, then go a bit at length into the mixing.

Simple White Cake.

1-3 cup lard
2 cups cake flour
2½ teaspoon baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
2 eggs, separated
1 cup sugar
⅝ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon almond flavoring

Sift together the flour, baking powder, and salt. Cream three-quarters cup of the sugar with the lard and with two tablespoons of the milk. Beat the egg yolks slightly and add to the remaining milk. Add the flour mixture and the milk alternately to the creamed fat and sugar. Let the flour form the first and the last addition. Now beat the egg whites until stiff but not dry. Add the remaining sugar to the egg whites and beat only until all the sugar disappears. Fold these egg whites into the cake mixture. Add the flavoring carefully and turn into a greased loaf cake pan or into two small greased layer pans. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about forty minutes or until done.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

MIDDLE RANGE BIDDING.

I have received many requests, both from teachers of the Sims system and from readers of these articles and of "Money Contract," to go more fully into the bidding procedure of hands which should be bid only for a partial score. I do so very gladly, because I have long realized that this department of bidding has been unduly neglected. Even in "Money Contract" it was not possible to devote much space to it within the limits prescribed. Your inquiries show that you appreciate the importance of part scores, not only for tournament play, where they are as important as game and slam hands—perhaps more so, as they result in fewer tied scores—but also in rubber play. At the time it may not seem very important whether you went down fifty at a contract for three-odd when two could have been made, or whether the opponents were allowed to make two hearts when you could have bid and made two spades, or three clubs, or taken a set of one to bid them beyond their limit; but if a computation were made at the end of the year it would be found that the points thus saved or gained would be the equivalent of many rubbers. Even those of my readers who never play under match-point scoring I therefore give this advice: "Handle your middle-range bidding with care and be as critical and analytical of the results you obtain on these hands as you are when game or slam is involved. You cannot neglect these part-score hands and be a fine bidder of contract."

Two Theories of System Bidding.

Observation of the bidding methods of my numerous opponents in different events and in different communities has given me this impression: Most of them make the game bid in a major suit the central point of their bidding, tending to treat the lower and higher contracts as quite subsidiary, though I must add that most of them also love to gamble on slams. I might put it in another way. They seem to regard the early bids as mere stepping stones which should lead to game; when game is seen to be impossible they treat them with scorn and more or less leave them to their own devices—often not abandoning them at the right stage or in the right contract. Slam bids are considered as supplementary to the game bid—spurred on by a bid or bids beyond the game level as a kind of afterthought based more on general optimism over high cards than on careful elimination of losers and knowledge that there is no fatal duplication of values in the partnership's army of twenty-six cards.

I do not underrate the tremendous importance of game bids, especially in rubber play. Undoubtedly, it is absolutely sound to concentrate on your game bidding, as this is the source of mass production of points. If it were necessary to select one of the three groups of bids [partial score, game, slam] for preferential treatment, it being necessary to subordinate the other two, then I agree that the game bids would deserve the right of way. Your game bidding must be sound and effective—that is vital. However, this efficiency should not and need not be obtained at the expense of your partial score and slam bidding.

My Point of View.

I have been playing the games of the whist family for about forty years against the best players in many lands. I believe that the basis for building a bidding system must reside in the cards themselves, not in the scoring schedule applied to them at any one period. I am convinced that the same bidding principles must apply to contracts for eight, nine, ten, eleven, twelve or thirteen tricks, otherwise they cannot be sound in themselves.

At this day all bidding theories have to be applied under conditions which require a contract of three odd in no trumps, four in the majors, five in the minors to score game [when there is no previous score]. Let us assume that our law makers enact that two no trumps, three in a major and four in a minor shall score game; or that four no trumps, five in a major, six in a minor shall be required, or any combination of these. My system will not require any basic change in order to cope with any such altered conditions. Naturally, signoffs would function a little differently, and the leeway principle would change its level, but not its nature. The essentials would all be the same; it is only the application that would need some adaptation to new scoring conditions. Unless I felt that this were true of my system as it is today, I would not consider that it is essentially right and sound, however well it may be functioning under the conditions now actually prevailing.

Y. W. Agency Aided by Community Fund Helps Girls to Jobs

A total of 2,103 industrial girls were interviewed and 165 placed in jobs last year by the Industrial Information service of the Y. W. C. A., 101 South Ashland boulevard, Miss Winifred Frost, director of the service, announced yesterday.

The service in financed through the community fund, which is now campaigning for $3,000,000 for the benefit of this and 129 other private charities. The service was established principally for the aid of the girl who is looking for a factory job.

"Too often girls wear themselves out making the rounds of factories where there are no possible openings for them," Miss Frost explained. "We try to find definite job opportunities by contacting the factories and being able to tell a girl where not to go as well as where to go."

The bureau keeps a record of seasonal, temporary, and permanent factory openings, showing the type of workers needed, the standards of hours and wages, and the working conditions. In addition, it offers the unemployed girls opportunities for recreation, sports, classes, and interest groups.

Charm Is Latest Goal for Women Who Would Be Lovely

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Let's talk about charm for a while. It's the trend toward which beauty judgment is heading. Women have become fine examples of physical care. They can do so much for themselves in the way of hair beauty, hand beauty, and complexion, better silhouettes, everything. I think we can take a week to bring home the messages of charm, to try to find out just why it is that some women, who may be beauties, don't click and why some of them do so without beauty. What is this thing that Barrie, the great writer, called a sort of bloom on a woman, but which we moderns might be more inclined to call polish? The polished grace, the polished manner, the polished gesture, the polished woman?

Let's think of the most charming woman we know, the one about whom people exclaim: "Isn't she a charming person!" What it is that she has that other women, perhaps equally good looking, perhaps better looking, have not?

In other words, let's see where all this beauty care is getting you. I know that it isn't always a man that goads a woman on to personal upkeep. It may be a purely economic demand. Your job requires the well-groomed look. It may be pride in self. It may be the desire to look as well as other women, or better. But, generally speaking, beauty pursuit has love in some form as its driving force. Am I not right? A husband, a sweetheart, a hoped for sweetheart, some one who is going to, or is, bringing fulness to your life? It must be a man, if you're a normal girl or woman. So tomorrow I'll take up this subject of charm and just what seems to be the reason some girls have all the luck and others so little.

Until tomorrow, then!

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

If it's true—and we have a hunch that it is—that the only thing worse than looking like a frump is feeling like one, the small touches that contribute to the admirable sensation of being a darling of the gods are worth their weight in gold.

We were reminded of this the other day when we fussed around with some new bath scents that are, in their way, comparable to Roman luxuries. Fripperies, of course, according to one point of view, but practically necessities from another.

The flat little boxes containing vials of bath oil in different scents—one suffices for a tubbing—are not mere luxuries. Since a bath without perfuming the water is as uninteresting as a date without a beau they become something more.

One set of the oils is as romantically charming a collection of fragrances as you could collect. You can use rose on Monday, jasmine on Tuesday, orange blossom on Wednesday or, according to your mood of the morning choose violet, verbena, or lavender. A perfume bath dissipates your consciousness that you must catch the 8:40, that you must have your heels straightened and that you'd better pay something on the dentist's bill. And, anything that does that serves a real purpose, doesn't it? It may be a weak form of escape, but it's pleasant.

Or, if you want to face facts and be all aware of the good and the bad all of the time, you can choose the group of woodsy fragrances—bay, sandal, spruce, cedar, juniper, pine or, for a softened mood, a delicious blend called "woodscent."

In either case, you'll want these delightful bath elaborations. You'll like them for yourself—and if you have some gift selections coming up, your friends will think you're a good present picker. They're in a local shop.

Knowing Loneliness Afflicts Others, Too, Is a Cure for Pangs

BY DORIS BLAKE.

A cure for loneliness, Julia? And Jane and Anne and Mrs. A, Mrs. B, Mrs. C., and all the other lonely women who ask for the cure?

Let's say in passing that it's the commonest symptom in the world, this aching void, the feeling of being shut off, alone, misunderstood.

If there is a cure for it, the better part of said cure lies in a complete understanding of the fact that others are just as lonely and unhappy as you are, folks you'd never suspect of being shut up within themselves clamoring for sympathetic contacts!

Women complain of the loneliness of their lives, some of them married women. They do not allow sufficiently for the loneliness of the man nearest to them, nor of any other members of an intimate family circle, or group of friends. The girl complains of her loneliness of spirit, forgetting that that boy she knows may be just as lonely.

The cure, we think, in so far as human beings with their complicated emotions and moods are concerned, is to recognize that yours is no exceptional case of loneliness. The other person may be just putting up a braver front. Troubles shared in common are easier to bear. Knowing that this lonely spirit is a widespread ailment, serves to humanize the individual, makes him and her more understanding of moods of depression, isolation, and so on. It should make him and her want to do something to relieve another's feeling of isolation. Make the advances. Talk with people.

That, we think, is the best remedy for one's own lonely moods.

Gains of 15 to 20 Lbs. in Few Weeks Not Uncommon with Kelp-A-Malt, New Concentrate of Natural Minerals and NATURAL IODINE
Kelp-A-Malt introduces a new and entirely different natural way of adding weight, building firm, solid flesh. First, its 13 natural mals nourish the digestive glands which produce the juices that digest fats and starches, the only way to get the weight-making good out of your food.
More important, however, is its NATURAL IODINE which normalizes the internal glands that control body weight. When over-active, unregulated, they destroy tissue as fast as it can be formed—and you stay skinny. Let Kelp-A-Malt prove that it can gain weight for you. Antiseptic Toothpaste Needed to Restore Natural Sparkle and Whiteness to Teeth, Say Authorities

Quickly Removes Cause of Discoloration With wonderful Results

Now if you're one of those who think your teeth are naturally dull, discolored and unattractive, know this: Modern science has discovered a quick way to give your teeth the lustre and whiteness they should have. Bright teeth that will give you a magnetic smile.

It is an antiseptic toothpaste—called Kolynos—that cleans and whitens teeth as nothing else can. Try it and results—quick results—will delight you.

Use Kolynos as you would any ordinary toothpaste with this one exception: Don't wet the toothbrush. Use Kolynos on a dry brush.

You'll see an improvement after the very first brushing. Soon your teeth will look brighter and whiter than you probably believed possible. Here is the reason:

As Kolynos cleans and polishes every single tooth surface, every tiny crevice—it quickly removes the "bacteria-plaque" that causes teeth to look dull, discolored and stained. In just a few days, you'll learn what thousands know. Kolynos will give your teeth a clearness, sparkle and whiteness—natural whiteness—that is wonderful to see. Buy a tube of Kolynos and start using it today.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 18.—Summoning all that latent power which makes them national champions, the Chicago Bears scored 10 points in the last eight minutes of play this afternoon at the Polo Grounds to overcome the New York Giants' early lead and win by a score of 10 to 9. It was the Bears' tenth straight victory and kept them tied for the National league lead with Detroit.

The Bears' first points came on Beattie Feathers' run for 12 yards around left end to a touchdown with 7½ minutes of the fourth quarter gone. Reliable Jack Manders was called in to kick the extra point. Then with less than a minute remaining, the Bears had another opportunity to use Manders because Link Lyman recovered a Giant fumble on the New York 33 yard line.

Manders Kicks Another.

Manders and Bronko Nagurski crashed irresistibly for a first down on the Giants' 22 yard line. On third down, because the final gun was likely to bark at any second, Manders with Brumbaugh holding essayed a place kick while standing on the 23 yard line. It sailed straight and true over the cross bar for the winning points, leaving gasping the crowd of 45,600, largest of the year in New York to date, either for college or pro football.

The Giants' 9 points were earned by a touchdown and a safety. A 59 yard drive down field, ending on the first play of the second quarter, brought the touchdown. Ken Strong crashed through the center of the fighting Bear line for the final 3 yards, and then place kicked the extra point.

Buss' Mistake Costly.

The Bears' safety, giving New York its other 2 points, occurred in a peculiar manner on the opening kickoff of the third period with the Bears receiving. Strong's long kick landed in the end zone, but took a wild bounce back into the playing field. Tackle Art Buss, thinking a touchback had been recorded, picked up the vagrant ball, carried it into the end zone, and leisurely touched it down. Under the rules it was a safety.

While the Bears, contrasted to the Giants, appeared lethargic in the early stages, there was no question of their power or desperation at the end. A loud speaker announcement had the Detroit-St. Louis score twisted, giving the lead to St. Louis. With defeat apparently impending, the Bears out on the field heard the correction, that the Lions were far ahead, and saw their tie for first place as well as their unbroken sequence of twenty-eight victories vanishing. Their rally was the answer.

Play About Even.

Statistics also indicated the even character of play. The Bears made 10 first downs and the Giants 11. The Bears gained 183 yards from rushing, mostly in the second half, to 118 yards for the Giants. The Bears completed only two of twelve forward passes for twelve yards, and the Giants four out of five for twenty-three yards.

The Bears started this victory march after an exchange of kicks in the fourth quarter. Feathers returned Richards' poor punt thirteen yards to the Giants' 46 yard line. Ronzani registered a first down a. the Giants' 32 yard line. Nagurski crashed right through center for 20 yards. Then Feathers, behind great interference, ran around left end for a touchdown. There had been only five plays, one a grounded pass, in those forty-six yards. Manders, of course, kicked the point.

Bears Get Break.

Back and forth went the ball in exchange of kicks, with the Giants about to win by two points, when the Bears got a break which meant the ball game. Lyman recovered Krause's fumble on the Giants' thirty-three yard line. Manders and Nagurski made first down in four attempts. There was a minute and fifty seconds to play. Manders, then Nagurski were held to a joint gain of five yards. Then, standing on the twenty-three yard line, with Brumbaugh holding, Manders place kicked the winning field goal.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 18.—Further evidence of the Cardinals' advancement to a state of maturity as National Professional Football league players was revealed in the mud here today when the Chicago team defeated the once haughty Green Bay Packers, 9 to 0, before 3,500 at State Fair park.

Homer Griffith, handsome crooner from California's night clubs, provided the margin of victory early in the third period when he returned a punt 58 yards down a puddle flecked gridiron for a touchdown. Bill Smith, an end, made the victory secure in the fourth period with a field goal from the 15 yard line.

Dominate Second Half.

After being held in their own territory in the first period because of the inability of their backs to hold their feet in the mud and by Hank Bruder's kicking, the Cardinals dominated play in the second half. They penetrated into Packer territory several times and their defense held the Packers beyond midfield on all except three occasions. Only once did the Packers get as far as the Cardinals' 30 yard line.

Backed down to the goal line in the last minute of the game, Green Bay opened up on passes. Griffith batted one of these out of Hinkle's hands and Phil Sarboe, Cardinal quarter back, fielded the ball on the fly and returned to the Packers' five yard line as the game ended.

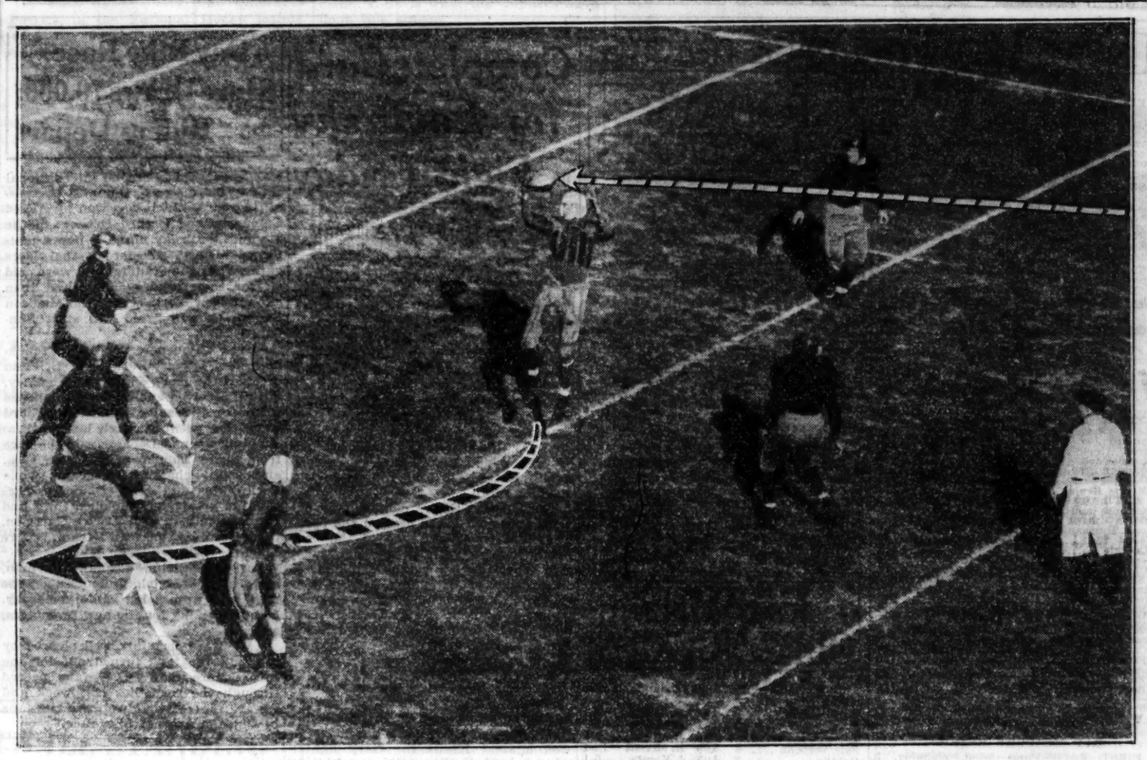
Griffith's run that scored the Cardinals' touchdown was a snaky, mud spattering dash. After catching Hinkle's high punt which Lavie Dilwig, Packer left end, overran Griffith weaved in behind Dilwig, took the ball along the sideline and cut back down the middle of the field. Interference formed around him and left no. a Packer within 25 yards of the ball carrier as Griffith sprinted over the goal line. Dave Cook missed the try for the extra point.

Fumble Leads to Field Goal.

Late in the fourth period an exchange of punts gave the Packers the ball on their own 26 yard line. Herber lost a yard on a buck and the Packers lined up punt formation with Hinkle, their kicker, back. Hinkle took the pass from center and started his three steps for the punt, but instead of kicking he attempted to hand the ball to Bruder. The ball slipped away during the exchange and two Cardinal linesmen fell on it on the 20 yard line. Mikulak picked up five yards through center, but Griffith failed to gain and then threw a pass wild. On fourth down Smith dropped back to the 23 yard line, and, with Griffith holding, place kicked a field goal.

The Packers were inclined to play a safe game and found their occasional attempts to deviate from this safety first policy stopped by the Cardinals' line. The Cardinals led in every department of the game, outplaying the Packers in all except the first quarter.

SEVEN POINTS FOR YALE—HEADACHE FOR PRINCETON



Larry Kelley, Yale's right end, leaps into the air to catch a pass from Quarter Back Jerry Roscoe on Princeton's 25 yard line in the first quarter of Saturday's game at Princeton. The play started on the 45 yard line, Roscoe passing straight down the field, as indicated by white dotted line, to Kelley, who had cut back toward the middle of the field. After catching the ball, Kelley darted to the left while Train, the Yale left end (player in white helmet in left foreground), swung back to block the two Princeton backs. As Train and other Yale players took out the Tigers' secondary, Kelley, running as indicated by the black dotted line, dashed 25 yards to the far left hand corner of the field to score the touchdown that beat Princeton, 7 to 0. The players in white helmets and light colored jerseys are Yale players; those in dark jerseys Princeton men. [Acme Photo.]

ST. MARY'S JOLTS SANTA CLARA OFF UNBEATEN LIST

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 18.—(AP)—St. Mary's continued its mastery over Santa Clara, 7 to 0, by virtue of a fumble recovered behind the Santa Clara goal line in their annual football game played in a driving rain today. The break came as Santa Clara attempted to kick out of danger in the third period.

More than half of the crowd of 60,000 remained to see the Gaels make the winning play. Flese's punt went out of bounds on the Santa Clara 4 yard line and Sobrero went back to punt out. He fumbled the wet ball and Pennino, Gael end, fell on the ball behind the goal line. Kellogg kicked the extra point.

St. Mary's fumbles in the first half gave Santa Clara three chances to score, but each time penalties or the stout Gael defense halted the threat.

Santa Clara had entered the game favored to beat the Gaels for the first time in 10 years. The defeat dropped Santa Clara from the list of this year's undefeated elevens.

Wham! Four More Unbeaten Football Teams Bite Dust

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Pittsburgh, 31; Navy, 7.
Wisconsin, 7; Illinois, 3.
Yale, 7; Princeton, 0.
Colgate, 13; Syracuse, 2.

Thus did the scourge of unexpected defeat erase undefeated leaders from the roll for the national football title last Saturday. In at least two of these games defeat was not anticipated. Princeton and Illinois had been favorites to whip Yale and Wisconsin.

Minnesota, 35; Chicago, 7.
Alabama, 40; Georgia Tech, 0.
Rice Institute, 25; Texas Aggies, 6.

In this fashion did these three undefeated elevens continue in the restricted class of major elevens with a claim to national honors.

Most important in the Western conference Saturday was Wisconsin's victory over Illinois. Perhaps the return of Pat O'Dea, Badger immortal, inspired the Wisconsin eleven. Regardless of reason, the Illini today join those teams which have been beaten. The defeat drops Illinois from what seemed was a certain share of the Western conference championship. Illinois previously had beaten Ohio State, 14 to 13, and Army 7 to 0.

Illini Have Close Calls.

Illinois had skated on thin ice repeatedly, not only against Ohio State but against Michigan, 7 to 6, and the Wolverines, who now have been whipped five times in conference play since the Illinois game, have suffered overwhelming conquest by Minnesota and Ohio.

Illinois might have won. Wisconsin's touchdown came from an intercepted forward pass, a "break" similar to Wisconsin's return of the opening kickoff against Michigan, which game the Badgers won, 10 to 0. But Illinois, an excellent passing eleven, well versed in modern tactics, always labored under the handicap of lack of weight and insufficient reserves. Illinois may find solace in other hard fought victories. It cannot detract from the play of Wisconsin—an inspired opponent which fanned the dying embers of defeat into a consuming blaze of victory.

Yale conquered Princeton in the featured battle in the east. Although Princeton, smarting under the criticism that its schedule was not as difficult as that of others, might have been expected to show its best form, the Bulldogs' stubborn defense checked Princeton offense in vital moments, and one touchdown, a first period forward pass, provided victory.

Pitt Marches On.

Pittsburgh, a mighty team, which has fallen only before Minnesota, 13 to 7, dropped Navy's hopes decisively. The size of the score was the only surprise. And Colgate, beaten only by Ohio State's versatile eleven, 10 to 7, whipped speedy but light Syracuse, 13 to 2.

From the ruck arise Minnesota, Rice, and Alabama. None today will question the strength of the mighty men from Minnesota. Pressed only once, and then by Pitt, the Gophers have played spectacular football based on superlative blocking and tremendous power.

Those Title Claims.

Saturday Minnesota ran over Chicago, 35 to 7. The Gophers proved again their claim to greatness. A victory over Wisconsin this week and no adherent of Minnesota will grant that the Gophers are not superior to Purdue. While the Boilermakers conquered Fordham Saturday, 7 to 0, the Rams of New York already had lost twice. And Purdue has been beaten by Rice institute and Notre Dame. But if the Boilermakers defeat Indiana this week their record of four victories in the Big Ten will entitle them to a tie for the title.

Alabama, although playing only a southern schedule, has proved its strength. Saturday the Crimson Tide defeated Georgia Tech, 40 to 0.

Rice institute, conquerer of Purdue, 14 to 0, has marched through the

RANGERS DEFEAT EAGLES IN FIRST HOME GAME, 5-0

New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The New York Rangers, playing their first home game in the National Hocky league season before a near capacity crowd of more than 14,000, handed the St. Louis Eagles a 5 to 0 defeat tonight for their first victory.

The Blue Shirts avenged a defeat they received in St. Louis, scoring in every period and having the better of the argument from start to finish. The Eagles, a bit worn from last night's game in Boston, displayed only a few scattered flashes of real form and tired badly toward the finish.

A trio of speedy Ranger rookies, Bert Connolly, Lynn Patrick, and Charley Mason, gave the Rangers a flying start in the first period and the home team never was in danger. Connolly and Earl Seibert led the scoring with a goal and an assist apiece.

BID TOMORROW ON FOUR PITCHING STARS FOR CUBS

Hubbell, Mungo, French, Schumacher Sought.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Officials of the Chicago Cubs, fortified with the bulging Wrigley wallet, will go into a huddle with the New York Giants, the Pittsburgh Pirates, and the Brooklyn Dodgers in Louisville tomorrow and will lose little time in making it known that they mean it when they say they are more determined than ever to give Chicago a world championship team.

It is known that the Cubs have made bids on the following stars, with the hope of landing at least one and possibly two of them:

Van Mungo of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who won 18 and lost 16 last season.

Larry French of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who won 12 and lost 18, but who is coveted because he is an experienced lefty.

Conferences All Set.

Shooting pretty high, most fans will opine, but the owners of the gents listed in the foregoing are receptive at least to the extent that formal conferences have been arranged on the eve of the three day baseball convention in Louisville, with assurance that important business is afoot.

The Cubs have been after French for three years, and Mungo for a year, but they never did any more than dream about Hubbell and Schumacher until after the big blowup of the Giants in the closing days of last season. Reports of fist fights involving Hubbell, Schumacher, and Manager Bill Terry have been spiritedly denied by persons of some authority. It now is held probable that there probably were no actual fisticuffs, but just the same there never have been any really vociferous claims that the Giants quit their 1934 work one big happy family.

Giants Willing to Listen.

The Giants are far from destitute, but the club is not rolling in wealth. There are other circumstances which have made talk of a deal involving either Hubbell or Schumacher far more than hot stove speculation. At any rate it is certain that formal offers have been made and the Giants, by making tomorrow's date at the Brown hotel in Louisville, have indicated they want to listen.

The Brooklyn club is said to be hard up. Last spring, when it was thought Mungo would win about 30 games, the Dodgers modestly asked $200,000 for him. This was a silly quotation, of course. If the hard up Dodgers now want to sell Mungo for a reasonably high price they can get it from the Cubs tomorrow.

Cubs Need This Fellow.

French is a young, hard working, and highly intelligent Californian whom the Cubs have believed for several seasons would fit into the Cub scheme of things. If obtained by the Cubs he will be a regular starting pitcher. He will be used judicially and not dropped into games indiscriminately as he was in many of the 49 encounters for the Pirates last season.

It is said the St. Louis Cardinals will not sit in on tomorrow's big powwows, giving rise to the reports that the often rumored deal for the Deans is either off or already closed. According to sources close to the Cubs the Chicago team never has made a formal offer for the sensational brother team, though the club is ready to bid at any time that there is intimation that the pitching brothers are being placed on the market.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Those excellent hocky players, the Toronto Maple Leafs, last night proved themselves a bunch of old meanies when they wrecked the home opener of the world champion Blackhawks by winning, 5 to 0, before a crowd of 15,200 who assembled for the big occasion just in time to avoid a cloudburst.

The folks, having happily missed getting their raiment soaked, did not have to wait long to have their spirits dampened, however. After participating in a beautiful memorial service for the late Chuck Gardiner, captain of the Hawks and leading goalie last year, who died last June 13, and after having witnessed the raising of the Stanley cup pennant, the near capacity gathering for fourteen minutes watched its heroes force the play. But during the next five minutes they saw much to depress them—three Maple Leaf scores in a span of four minutes.

Fifth Goal Brings Moans.

The second period was a swell battle in which no scores were made. In seven minutes and two seconds of the third period the Leafs scored their fourth goal, and in 12:07 they rang up No. 5. This one brought concerted cries of "We want Taffy!" the plea being for the presence of Abel, holdout defense player.

The game wasn't as bad an exhibition of hocky as one might suppose, thanks to the aggressiveness of all the Hawk forwards and the hard play of the Leafs even after they knew they had the verdict in the bag.

Lorne Chabot, as successor to the idolized Gardiner, naturally was in a tough spot, but it must be said the shower of tallies was not his fault. With Abel, Lionel Conacher and Roger Jenkins gone, the Hawks seemed to have forgotten to employ any defense men. In the scoring of the five goals not once did a Leaf forward suffer so much as a polite tag in the ribs as he progressed toward Chabot's boots. Such inept defensive work rarely has been seen on a major league rink.

Kilrea Starts Scoring.

That first goal, the one that would have been enough to win, was scored by Hec Kilrea in 14:05 of the first period. Before the Hawks could collect themselves Kilrea again scored on a pass from Clancy in 16:15. And again while the Hawks still were almost panicky, Cotton scored on a pass from Blair in 18 minutes after taking the puck down himself and passing to Blair and receiving a cut on the head before taking Andy's pass.

In the last period Jackson scored on a pass from Conacher in 7:02. Conacher had taken the puck the length of the ice without opposition. A little more than five minutes later Jackson again scored on a pass from Conacher. This one, however, was the result of a scramble near the Hawk net.

Morenz Shows Speed.

The only one of the Hawk newcomers who came up to expectations was Howie Morenz, who played with all the speed and aggressiveness that made him hocky's greatest star until a season or so ago. Gottselig, Thompson, Cook, March, McFadyen and other holdovers played hard, though their speed was cut down by the miserable condition of the ice. The ice was not offered as an alibi for the blistering, however. The slush also slowed down the opposition some.

ALL IS WELL IN BARBER SHOP AT MADISON AGAIN

A Few Points on Gridiron Make Difference.

BY FRENCH LANE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Nov. 18.—Your correspondent saw him twice.

Once he was shaving a rotund fellow in the Park Hotel barber shop. As he stropped his blade the rotund fellow, back for the homecoming, began to show a keen interest in things. He sought conversation.

"How's the fishing in these lakes?" he asked.

"I reckon there's not much to it any more. Game department turned a lot of sturgeon loose in 'em and the sturgeon are eating up the pike, the bass, and the perch. Don't see anybody even with a good sized string of 'em any more."

Pretty Bad, Pretty Bad.

The expression on the barber's face was resigned and forlorn as if, despite the sad state of present day fishing in Wisconsin, by sheer force of will he would carry on.

"Well, then, how's the duck shooting this fall?" inquired the rotund customer, who by this time had revealed that his cheese business had prospered so much this year that he was finally able to come back to a homecoming and do things up right.

"Duck shootin'? Well, there ain't any, I reckon," replied the barber.

"Mallards and teal and canvasbacks that once enjoyed a stopover on our lakes when they flew south quack-quack and honk-honk at us, but that's all they do. They make nonstop flights from St. Paul to Peoria."

Alas for Football Team.

"That's strange. We had pretty good shooting around here in my day," said the old grad.

Still hungry for information he changed the subject to football. The Badgers' homecoming game was then only some 24 hours away.

"How about the game tomorrow? Think we'll beat 'em? How's Coach Spears getting along?" he asked.

"Beat 'em? Say, our boys have forgotten how to win and I hear some talk around that Spears is on his way out. The old boys are getting tired of coming back here to see the Badgers lose just another football game. It's not like it used to be."

I left the barber shop, doubtful if anything could be done to save Wisconsin, the Badgers, and Doc Spears from utterly going to the dogs.

Here He Is Again!

This morning your correspondent saw the barber again. There was no barbering to be done on the Sabbath, so he was on the sidewalk in front of the shop. To a group of out-all-night Badger homecoming celebrants he had just demonstrated rather vigorously how Allen Mahnke had made the touchdown run some hours earlier that enabled the Badgers to beat Illinois.

There wasn't a pessimistic wrinkle in his face on this occasion.

I edged him over into a corner for a talk with him.

"How's the fishing around here in the season?" I asked.

"Fishin'? Say, this is the best fishin' county in all Wisconsin! Game department turned some sturgeon loose in our lakes a few months back and then had to come back an' take 'em away. Lakes were so full of pike, pickerel, bass, and perch there wasn't room for a single sturgeon."

Boy, Those Ducks!

It was a cloudy morning and cold weather was threatening. It seemed like a good day for a waterfowl hunt.

"How's the duck shooting this fall?" I queried.

"Ducks?" he said. "The lakes are covered with 'em—green heads, fat mallards, teal, and canvasback. Everybody going out after them this year bags the limit before breakfast. Go get your gun and try it."

Still, I wanted to get his views on football, on the Badgers and on how Doc Spears was getting along as the Wisconsin coach. The duck shooting could wait.

It was easy.

Watta Team, Watta Team!

"How did the Wisconsin boys look against Illinois yesterday and how's Doc Spears getting along?" we asked.

"How did they look?" he said as he glanced up in amazement. "They not only looked it, but were the best team in America—a little slow hitting top speed this year, maybe, but let anybody's team try and beat 'em now!

"And Spears—good old Doc! He's the toast of the town. I just heard some of the oldtimers and the students talking about raising his salary for next year and——"

60,000 MINNESOTA ATHLETES TO VIE IN RELIEF GAMES

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 18.—(AP)—More than 60,000 Minnesota auateur athletes will participate this winter in a statewide sports program to be conducted by the recreational department of the Minnesota state emergency relief administration.

This will be the first time such a program on a statewide scale has been attempted in the United States, George K. Tuttle, former Minnesota football star, supervisor of the division, said today. It will terminate in the twin cities, where final tournaments will be held during February and March.

"The state will be divided into districts for the various eliminations," Tuttle said, "and district tournaments will be held to select entrants for regional tournaments. Winners of the regional events will be entitled to participate in the finals, to be held in St. Paul and Minneapolis."

Tuttle explained that the athletic programs of the SERA recreational departments would be held in cooperation with the local parks and playgrounds departments. As part of the general winter sports activities 1,000 skating rinks will be maintained throughout the state. Programs will be sponsored in curling, sled races, tobogganing, skiing, broomball, handball, indoor baseball, outdoor carnivals, ski meets, and snow molding contests.

Two Boxing Shows Offered Fans Tonight

Pete De Grasse, New York featherweight, will meet Winfred [Moon] Mullins of Vincennes, Ind., in the 10 round topliner at the Midway arena, 6115 Cottage Grove avenue. The other card, at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, will feature Rubin [Bus] Breese, Kansas City lightweight, and Orville Drouillard of Canada.

Mullins will be De Grasse's second Chicago opponent. A week ago he gave Leo Rodak his hardest battle as a pro. Mullins is an aggressive, hard hitting fighter. Supporting matches have been arranged as follows:

Le Roy [Sailor] Born vs. Johnny Lulu [6], 137.

Joe Morro vs. Young George Dixon [5], 147.

Eddie Jackson vs. Jackie Dallas [4], 133.

Breese and Drouillard will be clashing for the second time. Last month they fought an eight round draw at the Coliseum. It was the first fight Breese failed to win in his six starts in Chicago. Supporting encounters match Jack Gibbons with Ray Pelkey [6], Young Joe Gans with Frank White [4], Eddie Stiegal with Sammy Alfano [4], and Irish John Golden with Frank Keevil [4].

Alabama Gains Coast Support for Bowl Game

Pasadena, Cal., Nov. 18.—(AP)—While the Rose bowl dripped in the winter rain today the west's football followers visioned another visit there on New Year's day of Alabama's Crimson Tide.

There was, of course, nothing official about it, but the fact remained that the southern team stood out with Minnesota, leader of the untouchable Big Ten, as the outstanding untied and unbeaten eleven eligible for the invitation.

Yesterday's stirring upsets served to make remote the chances of the east's being represented for a second successive year. Yale did the Pacific Coast conference a favor when it defeated Princeton and denied the Tigers a second opportunity of rejecting another bid to come west.

Would Like Minnesota.

There was no question that Stanford, potential western representative, would like to have Minnesota, which only has to beat Wisconsin for a completely successful season. The Big Ten alumni, led by the Gopher delegation here, were beating the drums for a third successive year in an effort to gain recognition from the faculty representatives of their schools, who alone can lift the post-season barrier standing in the way of Coach Bernie Bierman's squad.

Defeat of Princeton was not the east's biggest Rose Bowl blow, since it was unlikely the Tigers would come anyway. The reversals suffered by Syracuse and Navy were the knife thrusts which hurt the section's chances most.

Chance for Colgate.

Still there was some hope seen in Colgate's 13 to 2 victory over the previously unbeaten Syracuse aggregation. Turned back only by Ohio State, Coach Andy Kerr's Red Raiders still had a fighting chance.

Pittsburgh, beaten only by Minnesota, also had an outside chance, along with two tied but unbeaten teams in the southwest, Louisiana State and Rice.

Alabama still must defeat Vanderbilt to keep its slate clean. Colgate plays Rutgers and Brown yet, and Pittsburgh faces Carnegie Tech. Huey Long's L. S. U. eleven meets Tulane. Rice has Texas Christian and Baylor on its schedule.

Stanford needs only to win from its bitter rival, California, next Saturday to win the western honors. If defeated, Stanford would have to take its chances with several others of the topnotch teams in the Pacific Coast conference, including Washington State and Washington, but even then probably would win the vote.

Brundage Speaks Today at Commerce Luncheon

SCHACHT LEAVES SENATORS; WILL GO WITH RED SOX

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Baseball's notorious burlesque clowns—Al Schacht and Nick Altrock—have played their final act. Their long fun-making partnership has been dissolved.

Al has chosen to cast his baseball future with the Boston Red Sox. The Washington Senators have released him so he might follow Manager Joe Cronin to Boston as third base coach.

For a decade the dark, slender, tall Schacht and the chubby Altrock have thrown Washington baseball fans into convulsions of laughter by pre-game antics. Al and Nick have teamed to produce chuckles and roars on the vaudeville stage, at world series and in the movies.

Strangely enough, Schacht and Altrock—so the story goes—have not spoken off the diamond in years. For reasons never explained, they were said to have quarreled. But that never affected their crazy chatter and funny capers on the diamond.

Altrock will remain with the Senators, but the release of Schacht leaves a coaching job open in Washington. Reports today pointed to Joe Judge, Roger Pekinpaugh, and Bib Falk, who was with Bucky Harris, the new Senator manager, in Boston. Judge, who played first base here for years, apparently has the inside track, but it is possible that Peck and Bib may also be signed.

OLD TIME ATHLETES MEET.

Complete Card for Levinsky Fight Friday

Promoters James C. Mullen and Nate Lewis have arranged supporting bouts for the 10 round main event between Art Lasky and King Levinsky at Chicago Stadium Friday. The 10 round semi-final will bring together Charley Massera, Pittsburgh, Pa., heavyweight, and A. Ettore of Philadelphia. A pair of contests at eight rounds will involve Tony Souza, stablemate of Lasky, and Jack Kranz of Gary, Ind., and Tony Cancela, Tampa, Fla., who is in the same stable as Levinsky, and Eddie Simms of Cleveland, O. Jacob [Buddy] Baer, brother of Champion Max Baer, will meet Frank Ketter for four rounds in the opening scrap.

The Massera-Ettore conflict may develop into one of the best on the card. They are considered two of the best young heavyweights in the east. Massera especially has established himself as capable of extending any of the leaders in his division. Levinsky barely whipped him at New York a few months ago, and he has battled Steve Hamas to a draw and has beaten Maxie Rosenbloom.

Souza Boxes Brilliantly.

Souza has demopstrated superb boxing in workouts with Lasky at Trafton's gymnasium. If he boxes as well against Kranz the Gary fighter will lose. Kranz knocked out a Detroit heavyweight, Eddie Anderson, in one round last week to display hitting power previously none thought he possessed.

Ketter is expected to give Buddy Baer a severe test. Buddy, who has engaged in only a few professional combats, all of which were knockout conquests, has received several large financial offers to meet the head men at his weight. His handlers have refused them until such time as they believe he has obtained sufficient experience.

Wins First Bout by Knockout.

Buddy had not boxed much until his elder brother, Max, became champion by knocking out Primo Carnera last June. He went on two tours with the titleholder and boxed approximately 25 exhibition bouts with various lumberjacks. It wasn't until nine weeks ago that he had his first fight. Then he knocked out Tiny Abbott in the first round, showing considerable ability in so doing. In addition to lessons given Buddy by Max, Les Kennedy, veteran California boxer, has taught the young giant many tricks.

Champion Baer will arrive from Brownsville, Tex., by airplane tonight or by train tomorrow morning.

BRIDGE PLAYERS OF INDIANAPOLIS WIN U. S. MEET

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Bridge players from Indianapolis today won four of the five honor places, including first place, in regional pair championship play, conducted by the United States Bridge association.

F. R. Buck and W. J. Pray, former national pair champions, won first place with 256½ points and an average of 210. Second place went to Louis Bernard and J. E. Freeman of Cincinnati with 252½ points.

Three Indianapolis pairs took the next three positions. Capt. and Mrs. C. H. Calais, 234 points; Dr. L. D. Commiskey and H. B. Beanblossom, fourth with 232, and Mrs. Harlan Hadley and Mrs. E. J. Ittenbach, 228.

North Dakota Gets Safety to Beat St. Thomas, 2 to 0

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Playing under weather conditions more appropriate for baseball than football, North Dakota University defeated St. Thomas, 2 to 0, today. The Nodaks gained their two points on a safety in the first minute of the game and later repulsed three St. Thomas drives to retain their margin of victory.

Women Poloists to Meet at Fort Worth Next Week

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Two women's polo teams will play at El Ranchito polo field next Sunday afternoon. The feminine poloists, headed by Mrs. Spencer Tracy, wife of the screen actor, are members of the Pacific Coast Women's Polo association.

6 Day Bike Race Here Draws 70,000; Riders Depart

Chicago's thirty-second international six day bicycle race, the most successful in years, which was won by Alfred Letourner and Gerard Debaets in the Stadium Saturday night, is now a matter of history. Yesterday the riders gathered at the Stadium and were paid off for their week's efforts and then left for New York, where the Madison Square Garden grind will start Sunday, Dec. 2.

Alfred Letourner, the little Frenchman, and Gerard Debaets of Belgium received the lion's share of the money, but all received enough to recompense them for the aches, pains, and hard work they went through last week.

Letourner and Debaets won the race from Bobby Thomas of Kenosha, Wis., and Tony Schaller of Chicago, while Cecil Yates and Jerry Rodman, local Chicago youngsters, finished third and Franz Deulberg and Leroy Garrison, the German-American team, were fourth.

Carl Stockholm, Frankie Harmon, and Harry Mendel, promoters of the race, also wore a big smile yesterday. Mendel, talking for the new promoters, said:

"We were certainly well pleased by the way the fans turned out for the race. More than 70,000 fans passed through the turnstiles last week and we are pleased that we gave the fans of Chicago a great bike race."

Y. INDUSTRIAL QUINTETS OPEN PLAY THIS WEEK

Forty-one teams will start play this week in the Y. M. C. A. Industrial Basketball league. Games will be played in four gymnasiums, North Avenue-Larrabee, Division Street, Lawson, and Central. Both the Lawson and the Central division play their games on Monday, Division Street on Tuesday, and North Avenue-Larrabee on Wednesday.

In the North Avenue-Larrabee division, the teams are: Kraft-Phenix Cheese, John Sexton company, Union Special Machine, National Tea company, Montgomery Ward and company with two teams, Wilson Western company, and Revere Copper and Brass. Division Street teams are: J. Greenebaum Tanning company, R. J. Kittredge company, Wieboldt Stores, Westinghouse Electric Elevator company, Monarch Lether company, Du Pont company, and Birtman Electric company.

In the senior division of the Central Y. M. C. A. the First National bank has two teams while single teams represent the Northern Trust company, Chicago Title and Trust, Harding's restaurants, Carson Pirie Scott wholesale and retail divisions, and Washburn-Crosby.

St. Bede [Peru], 32; St. Thomas [Rockford], 0.

St. Mel and Leo yesterday scored victories on muddy fields to win sectional titles in the Catholic High School Football league. St. Mel scored in the fourth quarter to defeat St. Philip, 6 to 0, at St. Philip field, and Leo came from behind to win from De Paul, 13 to 7, at Shewbridge field.

De Paul scored in the first three minutes against Leo when Fritz Lipinski raced 77 yards through a broken field. Matt Tonelli then kicked the extra point. With two minutes of the first half remaining, Leo scored on Bowen's 36 yard pass to Capt. Byrne. The latter caught the ball on the four yard line and fell into the end zone. The try for the extra point was no good, and De Paul led, 7 to 6.

Title Game Next Sunday.

In the fourth period Leo marched to the De Paul 19 yard line. Bowen shot through center for seven yards and Hinckley went through to the one yard line. Hinckley again pounded the line for the deciding touchdown and Leo became the east division champion.

De Paul came back and worked the ball to the Leo 13 yard line, but a pass fell incomplete as the game ended.

Leo and St. Mel will meet next Sunday for the Catholic league championship, for the right to face the Public league titleholder in a charity game at Soldier's field, Dec. 1. Lineups:

MOUNT CARMEL, 6; ST. RITA, 0.

Mount Carmel defeated St. Rita, 6 to 0, at St. Rita field before 12,000. The victory enabled Mount Carmel to finish in second place in the east section. Pietraszewski threw a 35 yard pass to Lynn in the second period to account for the only score of the contest, which was played on a muddy field.

With five innings of the game remaining, St. Rita reached Mount Carmel's 15 yard line after putting together five first downs. Pyrz then attempted a pass to Johnson, but Post intercepted the ball on the three yard line to end the threat. St. Rita completed twelve forward passes and made nine first downs. Mount Carmel made good on two of nine passes and accomplished eight first downs. Lineup:

MAROONS LOOK TO ILLINI GAME AS SEASON TEST

Patterson Likely to Play Despite Injury.

Very little championship talk will surround the forthcoming Chicago-Illinois football game, now that the Illini have been beaten, but to the Maroons, at the least, the match will be the most important of the year. Since the Michigan game five weeks ago, Maroon alumni have had the prospect of beating Illinois in the back of their collective mind, for they choose to regard the Illini as their dearest rivals.

The Chicago players emerged from their bruising encounter with Minnesota in satisfactory shape physically, with the exception of Capt. Eli Patterson, who sustained a wrenched shoulder in a melee following a fumble by Pug Lund late in the second quarter. At first it was feared that Patterson would be out of the Illinois game, his last for Chicago, but his injury had improved yesterday to the point where he is at least a possibility. Maroon followers who made the trip to Minneapolis ascribe part of Chicago's second half crumbling before the Gopher running attack to Patterson's absence.

In its last three games Chicago has scored only four touchdowns against fourteen for its opponents. Nevertheless there is real hope for a Chicago victory. Maroon fans expect that Chicago's running game will be a match for the Illini aerial attack.

ILLINI IN GOOD SHAPE.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Despite the hard fought battle against Wisconsin, the Illini emerged in excellent physical condition, all things considered, although several regulars will require rest for a few days. If there are no accidents in practice this week it will be possible to present the strongest front against Chicago, when a desperate struggle is expected.

The Illini were naturally downcast as their dream of a championship vanished, but after a layoff for the regulars tomorrow, Coach Bob Zuppke is confident players will buckle down to their task resolutely and make a strong bid to defeat Chicago and win the highest conference ranking for Illinois since 1929.

Ed Gryboski, consistently performing guard, is expected to be in condition in a few days after convalescing from hives which attacked him on the eve of the Wisconsin game. Crain Portman will be available after a rest.

N. U. SEEKS TONCHDOWNS.

After existing on a diet of one touchdown or less per game, Northwestern's Wildcats are in a "touchdown hungry" mood as they eye the season's final game with Michigan at Ann Arbor Saturday. As a consequence they will descend upon the Wolverines with every intention of piling up enough touchdowns to carry them through the winter.

The new slogan in the Wildcat camp is to "make every quarter a first quarter." This slogan gains significance when it is recalled that in six out of seven games this season the Purple has gotten off to a lead in the opening quarter and in every instance except the Marquette and Wisconsin games they have seen this advantage erased in subsequent periods. Such was the case in the Iowa, Ohio, Illinois, and Notre Dame games.

There will be no practice for the Wildcats today and Coach Dick Hanley announced yesterday that all scrimmage will be eliminated from the workouts during the remainder of the week. Most of the regulars are bruised and weary from Saturday's contest and will require a week of rest to be ready for the Michigan game Saturday.

IRISH GAIN CONFIDENCE.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Confident and encouraged by its comeback which resulted in a 20 to 7 victory over Northwestern yesterday, Notre Dame will play its traditional game with Army at Yankee stadium in New York next Saturday.

The victory over the Wildcats left the Irish with a record of four victories against three defeats. Thus they cannot possibly do worse than they did last year in losing five games, tying one, and winning three. They must play Southern California's rejuvenated Trojans at Los Angeles Dec. 8 in the season final.

Coach Elmer Layden, on his return to the campus today, said that "Notre Dame will be confident against Army Saturday. Army is the favorite and will be in better physical condition because of its easy game with Citadel yesterday. It's hard to pick the winner in this traditional game, but we'll give Army a real battle."

Michigan and N. U. Alumni to Hold Luncheon Today

Members of the Northwestern university and University of Michigan Alumni Clubs of Chicago will meet at luncheon at noon today at Mandel's tea room for a pre-game get-together. The Wildcats and Wolverines will play next Saturday at Ann Arbor in the final game of the season. John Schommer, Big Ten football and basketball official, and Gen. Thomas Hammond will be the principal speakers. Thomas Underwood, president of the Michigan club, and Tom Hayward, president of the Northwestern alumni organization, will preside.

Army Officer Dies After Collision in Polo Game

Columbus, Ga., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Capt. John W. Blue, instructor in the infantry school at Fort Benning, died at the post hospital today of injuries received in a practice polo game at the camp an hour earlier. He suffered a fractured skull when thrown to the ground as his horse collided with one ridden by Lieut. James Mathews. Capt. Blue had won prizes in international horse shows. He was a native of Raleigh, N. C.

Garibaldi-Sharman Bout Tops Cicero Mat Program

Ralph Garibaldi, St. Louis, Mo., light heavyweight wrestler, and Hy Sharman, Detroit, Mich., will meet in the main event of the wrestling show tonight at Cicero stadium, 19th street and 52d avenue. The match has been set for one fall with a 90 minute time limit. Kay Hoffman opposes Buck O'Neil and Bobby Novak faces Dick Gerber in preliminary bouts.

Four Football Leaders Take It on the Chin

southwest, beating Texas, 20 to 9, and Texas won frome Notre Dame, 7 to 6.

On the Pacific coast Stanford remains the leader. But Stanford, probable western selection in the Tournament of Roses game, has its record marred by Santa Clara's 7 to 7 tie.

Temple also has a tie to dull its claims, a 6 to 6 tie by Indiana, which Saturday barely nosed out Maryland, 17 to 14.

Here's Gopher Record.

So much for mere results. On its record Minnesota must receive acclaim. Here is what the Gophers have done this season:

Minnesota, 56; North Dakota State, 12.
Minnesota, 20; Nebraska, 0.
Minnesota, 13; Pittsburgh, 7.
Minnesota, 48; Iowa, 12.
Minnesota, 34; Michigan, 0.
Minnesota, 30; Indiana, 0.
Minnesota, 35; Chicago, 7.

Despite the records of Rice, Alabama, and Stanford, and not forgetting other excellent teams which have faltered once, the scarlet and gray of Ohio State might flutter in the title breeze except for the one point defeat by Illinois. Ohio State's attack stopped Colgate and by his placement in that game Capt. Regis Monahan of Ohio did as much as he could to atone for the missed point after touchdown which cost the Buckeyes a tie with the Illinoi. Incidentally, Monahan has kicked 21 points after touchdown in 24 attempts this fall.

Cornell Springs Surprise.

Saturday's score sheet was replete with thrilling games between elevens already counted out in sectional play. Among them was Columbia's 13 to 12 victory over Pennsylvania. Navy is the only team to have beaten Columbia. Cornell surprised with a 21 to 6 victory over Dartmouth, whose only previous loss was to Yale, 7 to 2.

Saturday's Western conference schedule of five games centers on Indiana at Purdue and Minnesota at Wisconsin. Minnesota is an overwhelming favorite. Purdue likewise should win unless Indiana exercises its strange power to upset the Boilermakers. Illinois must recover morale to dispose of Chicago. Ohio State should run over Iowa at Columbus. Northwestern doubtless hopes for victory at Ann Arbor, having beaten Wisconsin. However, the Wildcats, licked in the second half by Notre Dame, 20 to 7, have only a slight margin in offense which may be nullified by Michigan's defensive line power. Defeat will keep the Wolverines on the bottom of the Big Ten standings.

PABSTS WIN 3 GAMES; TIE FOR CLASSIC LEAD

By winning three games from Edelweiss while the Monarchs were winning two out of three from Vrba Motors, the Pabst Blue Ribbons last night went into a tie for first place in the Classic Bowling league matches at the Lorraine alleys. Les Fuller and Dick Winsberg of the Monarchs each shot 642. Scores:

Wonderbolts Triumph Over Maccabees, 2-1

BY OFFSIDE.

The Wieboldt Wonderbolts, aided by a goal backed in by their opponents, yesterday defeated the Maccabees, 2 to 1, in a soccer game at Kuppenheimer stadium. It was the first meeting of the teams, the former of the major division, and the latter of the professional league.

Early in the game, Lilly of the Wonderbolts crossed, but Henney of the Maccabees backed the ball into the net for a Wieboldt goal. The Maccabees soon tied the score when Art Waldron drove a shot past Hjulian. Shortly before the half ended, Neilson, star center, beat the Maccabee goalie on a close in shot to account for the Wonderbolt's second score.

Each team had several scoring opportunities in the second half, but Goalies Fisher and Hjulian batted aside all attempts. Lineup:

173 YARD RUN TO COACH TIRES OUT SUB; COLLAPSES

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 18.—(AP)—The longest run of Marquette university's 38 to 0 victory over Creighton in Omaha yesterday will never get into the record books, Coach Frank Murray of the Golden Avalanche reported upon his return home today with the team.

It was a 173 yard dash, and was made by a fourth string quarter back.

Late in the game, with Marquette safely ahead, Murray decided to use everyone in uniform. Finally he got around to Fritzie Glojek, 135 pound scrub who had made the trip as a reward for never having been late for practice in two years.

Fritzie was sighted holding the yard sticks on the 30 yard line on the opposite side of the field. Murray sent for him. The little fellow, who had never been in a game, started sprinting for the seat of strategy—the long way around.

Seventy yards up the sidelines he scampered, 53 yards across the gridiron and 50 yards back down the border to Murray. He received official word of his selection and collapsed, all in from his run. He recovered in time to play the last two minutes.

Pearson Wins South Side Table Tennis Championship

Paul Pearson won the men's south side table tennis championship last night, beating Billy Willard, 21-10, 21-12, 21-10, at the South Shore table tennis parlor. In the junior tournament final, Warren Ferguson defeated Wayne Kempf, 19-21, 23-21, 21-15, 16-21, 21-18.

IRON MEN RELAX.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Yale's iron men and their team mates, relaxing from their great victory at Princeton Saturday, attended the Bears-Giants game this afternoon, or at least those without other engagements did so. Some chose to return to New Haven on a morning train.

At their local hotel headquarters, Eli alumni thronged to pay congratulations both to the team and to Coach Ducky Pond and his assistants. Most of their enconiums went to Jerry Roscoe and Larry Kelley, who were responsible for the winning touchdown, to Stan Fuller whose long and acurate punting was such a factor, and to Capt. Curtin for his aggressive line play which figured in stopping the two Princeton attacks within Yale's 10 yard line.

Coach Pond's reply to congratulations was mostly facial—that is, smiles. Otherwise, it was orthodox. He was proud of his boys. They had it in them and showed it. Every man of the eleven deserved full mead of credit. Princeton was a great squad and it was an honor to defeat such opponents. Harvard is next and will prove a mettlesome opponent for whom work will start Tuesday.

Yale in Climax.

Perhaps no football eleven except Yale, Harvard, or Princeton could lose three early season games, be considered no bargain at any price, and then climax its season as Yale now promises to do, with early reverses forgotten and the 1934 edition of Elis likely to go down in gridiorn annals as one of Yale's greatest.

That is because of the tripartite rivalry, traditional and real, which we of the middle west do not thoroughly sense as we gauge our elevens by their conference standing and their claims, if any, to the Big Ten title.

Yale, almost discredited in ability, even if alumni and students were still loyal, by just one victory recovers lost prestige and its players become heroes. Harvard alone stands in the way of a successful season despite setbacks from Columbia, Army, and Georgia.

Too Much Blue.

At Princeton last night all was blue. Tiger players, expecting to add Yale to its list of victims to round out two unbeaten seasons, saw eleven blue jerseys in their way all afternoon whenever they attempted to go places. They felt blue and discouraged as they took dinner at Osborne training table before being whisked away to Lawrenceville to rest physically and mentally.

Coach Fritz Crisler was disappointed but philosophical, saying:

"Yale played a great game from start to finish. Their efforts clicked and ours did not. Naturally we are disappointed because there were so many things that might have happened but did not happen.

"But that's football. The score was Yale, 7; Princeton, 0, so all credit to Yale. We now face the task of meeting Dartmouth next Saturday and of overcoming what might be a letdown after this contest."

MILFORDS WIN SWEEPSTAKES.

The Milfords shot 2,920 last night to win the third North End Traveling league sweepstakes at the Bryn Mawr alleys. The Butterfingers had 2,915 and Budweiser 2,905.

FRANK WIELAND, NOTED SURGEON AND WRITER, DIES

Heart Disease Is Fatal to Fraternity Leader.

Dr. Frank Wieland, well known Chicago surgeon, medical writer and leader in college fraternity affairs, died suddenly in the bathroom of his home at 1706 East 56th street early yesterday morning, apparently of heart disease. He had been in ill health for the last year, associates said.

DR. FRANK WIELAND.

Dr. Wieland arose shortly after 2 o'clock and went into the bathroom. A few minutes later his son, John Wieland, heard him fall to the floor. The surgeon was carried to another room, but he died before recovering consciousness.

Professor for a Time.

He was born in Mount Gilead, O., March 4, 1869. He came to Chicago after preliminary education in Ohio and obtained his M. D. degree at Hering Medical college in 1896. Hering college later was merged with the Hahnemann Medical college, which stood at 2814 Cottage Grove avenue, but which is no longer in existence. In 1904 Dr. Wieland was professor of genito-urinary surgery in Hahnemann college.

Dr. Wieland was married in 1896 to Miss Anna Goorley of Mount Gilead. He gained a reputation in industrial medicine through many years' service as medical director for Montgomery Ward & Co. He contributed regularly to medical journals, devoting his articles to the surgical field in which he was an authority.

On Staf of Henrotin.

Active in college fraternity affairs, Dr. Wieland was the founder and first president of the Interfraternity club of Chicago. He was also president of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity from 1901 to 1907. The fraternity recently donated $10,000 for an operating room in the new Henrotin hospital as a memorial to Dr. Wieland. He was a member of the staf of that hospital from 1919 on.

He is survived by his widow and two sons, John of Chicago, and Robert Stafford of Philadelphia. Funeral services will be held at 4:30 p. m. today in a chapel at 6110 Cottage Grove avenue. Burial will be in Mount Gilead.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Old Fashioned Gentleman

SMITTY—ON THE FENCE

COURT TO ATTEND DE YOUNG RITES TODAY IN HOME

The Rev. George H. Thomas, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal church, will have charge of the funeral services today for Justice Frederic R. De Young of the Illinois Supreme court, who died on Friday after a brief illness, relatives announced yesterday. The services will be held at 2 p. m. in the family home at 4805 Kimbark avenue.

Justice De Young will be buried in Oak Lawn cemtery. The body will be attired in the judicial robe, following a custom for Supreme court justices who die while in office. The present members of the court will attend the funeral in a body. Present also will be former members of the court and many high state and local public officials as well as prominent citizens of Chicago and Illinois.

Bernard Barthel, Brewery Architect, Is Dead at 68

Bernard Barthel, 3341 North Hamilton avenue, 68 years old, brewery architect, died yesterday after a short illness in his home. He was born in Leipzig, Germany, and came to Chicago in 1892. Surviving are his wife Julia and a daughter, Mrs. Julia Rochow. Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the chapel at 2058 Belmont avenue, with interment at Mount Emblem cemetery.

Worker Crushed to Death in Edgewater Apartments

Richard Mitchell, 21 years old, 1556 Juneway terrace, a house man at the Edgewater Beach apartments, 5555 Sheridan road, was crushed to death yesterday afternoon when an elevator in the building descended on him while he was at work in the basement elevator pits.

WIFE OF FORMER JUDGE FETZER DIES; LONG ILL

Mrs. Emily S. Fetzer, wife of former Municipal Judge William R. Fetzer, died yesterday in her home, 1531 East 67th place, after an illness of more than a year.

Mrs. Fetzer was born 57 years ago in Montreal, Can., and came to Chicago when she was five years old. Until recent years she was active in political and lodge work.

Surviving Mrs. Fetzer, beside her husband, are three sisters. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday in the Midway Masonic temple, 6115 Cottage Grove avenue, hall No. 1, with cremation at Oak Woods cemetery.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

This is positively the last word on the late lamented world series. Henry Ford revealed the other day that shortly after the series broadcasts he received a letter from a gracious lady in Arizona congratulating him on his personal performance at the microphone. She concluded her letter with "And I want to thank you, too, Mr. Ford, for the splendid description of the game you gave. Your voice came through perfectly."

Though almost everything happened during the broadcasts of the baseball classic we have positive assurance from Ford's representatives that he did no broadcasting whatsoever from the baseball park. The listener may have been confused by the fact that Ford Bond was one of the announcers and occasionally he was referred to by his first name by another mikeman.

Bess Flynn, who plays the part of Mother Moynihan in "Painted Dreams" at W-G-N, has taken a position of script writer, director, and editor at the Hanff-Metzger advertising agency. In her new connection she will write and produce "The Little Church Around the Corner," heard over WMAQ at 11:15 a. m. Tuesdays and Fridays.

Helen Hayes is likely to be starred in a series of plays over the Columbia system early next year. The present plan is to have her occupy the half hour immediately following Eddie Cantor when he goes to work for CBS. Cantor is slated for the 7 to 7:30 spot on Sundays and the same sponsor has reserved the 7:30 to 8 o'clock period also.

Cardinal Hayes of New York will be heard over WMAQ and WBBM tomorrow when he delivers the sermon at the silver jubilee ceremonies commemorating Cardinal Mundelein's 25th anniversary as a bishop.

SIMON GOLDBLATT DIES; FATHER OF MERCHANTS HERE

Simon Goldblatt, retired grocer and father of the owners of Goldblatt Brothers department stores, died in Miami, Fla., after a brief illness, according to word received by the family here yesterday. He was 69 years old.

Mr. Goldblatt was born in Russian Poland, and came to Chicago with his wife, Hannah, 35 years ago. After his retirement Mr. Goldblatt made his home in the Belden-Stratford hotel, 2300 Lincoln Park West. Last August Mr. and Mrs. Goldblatt celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in a party attended by 400 friends and relatives. Two months ago they went to Miami for a winter visit, and Mrs. Goldblatt was with her husband at his death.

Surviving Mr. Goldblatt, beside the widow, are eight children, 15 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. The children are Maurice, Nathan, Louis, Joseph, and Alex, all associated in the Goldblatt Brothers stores, and Mrs. M. Handelsman, Mrs. K. Handelsman, and Mrs. Rose Gordon.

Funeral services are to be held at 1 p. m. Wednesday in Humboldt Boulevard temple, 1908 Humboldt boulevard, with burial in the Jewish Waldheim.

F. C. M'CLELLAND IS DEAD; AUTHOR AND EDUCATOR

Frank C. McClelland, 70 years old, for twenty years teacher of business training in Chicago schools and author of several books, died yesterday in Clearwater, Fla., as a result of chronic bronchitis. Mr. McClelland, formerly state superintendent of schools of Nebraska and later superintendent of schools in Sioux Falls, S. D., was retired by the board of education in 1931. He is survived by two sisters, Mary L. McClelland, 411 Fullerton parkway, and Mrs. Elizabeth Palmer, Washington, D. C. Funeral services and burial will be held on Wednesday afternoon in Mount Pleasant, Ia.

LEE MANTLE, 83, ONCE MONTANA SENATOR, DIES

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Lee Mantle, 83, former United States senator from Montana, died at his home here today from a heart attack. A contemporary of Marcus Daly and W. A. Clark in Montana's copper mining, Mantle held extensive interests there and in Arizona.

Born in England, he came to the United States in 1862. He was a telegraph operator for the old overland stage line. Settling in Butte, where he lived 43 years, he became active in politics and in 1895 was elected United States senator on the Republican ticket.

Previously he had been mayor of Butte and had organized and published the Butte Daily Intermountain. He was president of the Montana world's fair commission and was a member of the Silver Bow, Montana and Rocky Mountain clubs.

THOMAS HESDON OF CARSON PIRIE STORE IS DEAD

Thomas Hesdon, 75 years old, 7419 Clyde avenue, died of heart disease yesterday in the Jackson Park hospital. He collapsed while attending services in the St. Philip Neri church, 72d street and Merrill avenue. Mr. Hesdon, for fifty years an employé of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., was superintendent of the store's delivery department and was active in the State Street Employés' association. He was at church with his daughter, Mrs. Florence Sharkey, with whom he lived. His wife died eight years ago. Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow in the family residence, with requiem mass later in St. Philip Neri church. Burial is to be in Mount Olivet cemetery.

Frank A. Morgan, Former Lyceum Bureau Head, Dies

Frank A. Morgan, 7216 Jeffrey avenue, former head of the Mutual Lyceum bureau, died yesterday at a rest home at 10361 South Wood street, after an illness of several years. He was 72 years old. Until his retirement several years ago, Morgan was active in music circles. He was born in Keokuk county, Ia., and attended Drake and Yale universities.

MRS. J. G. BARBER KILLS SELF IN EVANSTON HOME

Mrs. Marjorie Barber, 38 years old, wife of Justice of the Peace James G. Barber of Evanston, shot and killed herself yesterday in a bedroom of her home at 2623 Thayer street, Evanston. She left a note for her husband blaming ill health for her act.

Mr. Barber said, however, that his wife's grief over the death of their young son, James, a little more than a year ago, was the chief cause of her suicide, although she had been suffering from sciatica for some months.

Mrs. Barber stood in front of a full length mirror and shot herself in the right temple. Mr. Barber and a daughter, 14 years old, were in the back yard when they heard the pistol report. They found a .38 caliber revolver on the floor beside Mrs. Barber.

She was taken to the Evanston hospital where she died a short time later. She is survived by one other daughter, Dorothy, 18 years old, who is away at school. An inquest will be held today.

Joseph Morton Wild Rites Will Be Today in West

Funeral services for Joseph Morton Wild, 52 years old, former Chicago electrical engineer, will be held this afternoon at Long Beach, Cal., his home, where he died on Friday after an illness of several months. Mr. Wild was born in Chicago. Surviving are his widow, Marie, a daughter, Miss Rose Melville Wild, a sister, Mrs. Rose Schneeberger, and three brothers, Arthur and Harry, all of Chicago, and Capt. Horace B. Wild of New York, an aviator.

EUROPE'S HUGE POOL OF HIDDEN GOLD IS RISING

Treasury Silent on Belgian Loan.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—(AP)—New disappearances of foreign gold into Europe's huge pool of "unreported" holdings were disclosed by the federal reserve board today as capital money experts kept a weather eye on gold bloc nations abroad.

A pointed reference by the board that "since the end of August there appears to have been some increase again in unreported gold holdings" in western Europe—attributed generally to hoarding by individuals and commercial banks or buyings by British equalization fund—was received as further tangible testimony that this country is eager to prevent any new disruptions of international monetary relations which have settled to a fair stability in recent months.

Goal of Policy.

Improved commercial relations were the obvious goal of present treasury policy, which began by letting down the bars on capital exports and more recently has indicated stabilization fund activities in Belgium to support that nation's gold monetary unit, the "belga."

Both treasury and federal reserve officials maintained the policy of secrecy which from the start has surrounded operations of Secretary Morgenthau's 2 billion dollar stabilization fund. But official reserve board figures showing the system's 12 banks have a $15,765,000 "loan" on foreign gold were regarded by observers as ample hint that Washington had bought gold in Brussels to supply dollar exchange to stem the recent capital flight out of Belgium.

Belgian Gold Arrives.

Added evidence that the reserve banks loans on gold had been extended to the National Bank of Belgium was found in the landing Saturday of $2,229,800 of gold from Belgium. What the reserve banks listed as loans was interpreted here simply as a temporary bookkeeping arrangement developing into an actual purchase when the gold has arrived and been transferred to the treasury—the only legal owner of monetary gold in the United States.

Belgium's recent monetary distress and a cabinet turnover in France have served to raise doubts of Europe's gold bloc stability. But the situation was not judged sufficiently threatening here for Morgenthau to forego a southern vacation during President Roosevelt's own absence in Warm Springs.

Addition to Holdings.

The reserve board said that from England's suspension of the gold standard in 1931 to the end of 1933 "nearly 2 billion dollars of gold is estimated to have gone into unreported holdings in western Europe." It added:

"These holdings include gold hoarded by individuals and commercial banks and held by the British exchange equalization fund. From March through August of this year about $350,000,000 of this unreported gold was returned to central bank reserves.

"Since the end of August there appears to have been some increase again in unreported gold holdings."

Further reviewing recent gold movements, the reserve board said:

"Toward the end of October, however, exchange on Paris, Amsterdam, and Brussels fell to a level at which gold shipments were profitable; and early in November gold exports were under way from all three centers."

More Cash Outstanding.

Looking at the internal condition of currency in the United States, where all gold has been gathered into the treasury, the board found there was still $600,000,000 more cash outstanding in large size bills than when hoarding began in October, 1930.

"Money held in hoards," it said, "has been for the most part in the larger denominations. In the three months following the banking crisis in 1933 there was a rapid return flow of currency of the higher denominations.

"Since June, 1933, the demand for currency of the lower denominations, used most actively in daily transactions, has increased, while the volume of currency in denominations of $50 and over, which constitute the bulk of hoarded money, has declined considerably.

"Notwithstanding the reduction since March, 1933, the reported circulation of paper currency of denominations of $50 and over on Sept. 29, 1934, was $600,000,000 larger than in October, 1930, before the hoarding movement began."

Denied by Belgium.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Reports published in the United States regarding an alleged loan by federal reserve banks to the Central Bank of Belgium were denied tonight by officials here, who said they were entirely untrue.

Col. George Theunis, premier-designate of Belgium, apparently was not progressing so well as he had expected today with his attempts to gather a new cabinet and guide the nation out of an economic crisis. He announced this morning the list would not be ready for another 24 hours. He said in a statement:

"The stability of the franc at its present level was the basis of discussions so far with all the personalities I met. All agreed to this necessity, and there were no reasons to doubt their sincerity. The conversations so far have been encouraging, but nothing definite has yet been done.

"I want to shape a complete and precise program of action on the main points concerning finances, taxation, and economies and need another 24 hours before concluding."

More French Gold.

CHERBOURG, France, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The steamer Von Steuben sailed for New York today with gold worth 15,000,000 francs [$900,000].

U.S. to Merge Gold Clause Cases in One

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—(AP)—So important does the government consider gold clause suspension suits now before the Supreme court that it not only will ask that all the cases be consolidated, but Attorney General Cummings personally will argue them.

Solicitor General J. Crawford Biggs disclosed tonight that he would present a motion to the Supreme court tomorrow that all the gold litigation now pending be consolidated for hearing on Jan. 8.

Cummings ordered this step in an effort to secure a quick decision from the high court. The issue involved is the legality of the joint resolution passed by congress June 5, 1933, which abrogated gold clauses in all contracts—public and private.

Cummings' appearance will be his first before the tribunal since he became attorney general.

About 100 Billion Dollars Involved.

Department of justice officials estimate that perhaps $100,000,000,000 is involved in the suits. They are based on this contention:

A man who held gold bonds when the dollar was devalued expected to be paid off in gold. But instead he got currency worth only 59.06 per cent as much as it was before devaluation.

A portion of the government's argument is that the purchasing power of the currency did not depreciate anything like that amount, and that furthermore the greater good of the greater number should have paramount consideration rather than the interests of the few. It likewise contends that the constitution gives congress power to "regulate" the value of money.

Not since the legal tender cases of the Grant administration, officials said, has there been an action comparable in scope and importance. The Supreme court in those actions held the issuance of greenbacks legal.

Four Cases in Courts.

There are a number of cases now in the courts. One results from the reorganization of the Missouri and Pacific railroad. It challenges the validity of the abrogation of gold payment clauses in private contracts.

Another is between Norman C. Norman of New York and the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. Norman, holder of a B. & O. bond, wants payment in the equivalent of gold.

Two other cases are entitled Perry versus the United States and Nortz versus the United States. In the former the petitioners ask payment in gold or its equivalent of a Liberty bond. Similar payment is desired by the latter petitioner, one time holder of gold certificates. Both these cases question the validity of the congressional abrogation in so far as it applies to government contracts.

PATHE EXCHANGE THIRD QUARTER PROFIT LARGER

Profit of Pathe Exchange, Inc., for the third quarter of this year amounted to $72,353, after all expenses, taxes and depreciation, but before interest charges, according to a report released yesterday by Stuart W. Webb, president. This compares with $64,463 in the preceding quarter and $51,971 in the first quarter of the year.

For the 39 weeks ended Sept. 29, profit before interest charges amounted to $188,787, compared with $508,881 in the corresponding period of last year. Current assets as of Sept. 29 totaled $1,044,758, including cash of $270,454. Current liabilities amounted to $184,873.

"In the third quarter there was a material improvement in the amusement industry, in which Pathe shared," Mr. Webb said. "A number of new contracts have been entered into by Pathe, but as yet the effect of these is only partly reflected in the earnings."

He said that a meeting of the stockholders to act upon the proposed reorganization will be held early next year.

Sunray 9 Months' Profit Equal to 9 Cents a Share

Net profit available for dividends of Sunray Oil company in the first nine months amounted to $158,748, equal to more than 9 cents a share after provision for preferred dividends. In the same period last year the company reported a loss of $198,187.

Nothing Paid by 6 Banks in 3d Quarter

No further payments to depositors are shown in the final six reports issued last night by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett on the condition of Cook county closed banks on Sept. 30.

One bank, however, the Wiersema State, since then has raised its returns to 20 per cent by a 5 per cent payment of $42,719 on Nov. 3. At the end of September available cash was only $15,752, but further collections were made to permit the distribution. The last quarter showed receipts of $26,350. Attorneys took $2,500 and other expense was $4,000, thus adding $20,000 cash, including that reserved. Losses and remaining assets indicate fair to good future prospects.

The West Side Trust and Savings is to pay its first "dividend" shortly through a loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Woodlawn Trust Makes Progress.

The Woodlawn Trust and Savings bank, for which an RFC loan has been asked, made good progress toward its first repayment during the September quarter.

A 10 per cent payment of about $400,000 to West Side Trust depositors is expected from the $1,650,000 loan already approved. From the face amount of the loan will be deducted $641,486 still owed the RFC and the First National bank, as well as reserve for secured claims and the amount realized from sale of securities since application was made for the advance. The bank's receipts for the quarter were $24,000. Attorneys took $2,700, interest consumed $16,000, prior claims took $8,300, and other expenses $15,000. Cash thus was reduced $18,000. Loss record good, outlook not so good.

Reports on other banks follow:

West Lawn Trust and Savings—No returns. Receipts only $383. Cash down $5,500 after paying attorneys $4,200 and other expenses of $1,700. Loss record good; good margin of book value assets over remaining liabilities.

West Town State Position.

West Town State—Returns still 30 per cent. Attorneys paid $5,000. Protection of assets cost $28,620 and other expenses took $7,600. Receipts of $70,850 thus netted $29,600 to boost available cash to $68,700. Good step made toward $139,000 needed for another 5 per cent. Loss record good; margin of assets over liabilities presents fairly good outlook. RFC loan asked.

Westwood State—Returns still 15 per cent. Receipts $4,450, but cash [all in trust] cut $950 after paying $4,250 secured claims, $850 to attorneys, and $300 expenses. Excellent loss record; fairly good margin of assets over liabilities despite borrowed money to be repaid.

Woodlawn Trust and Savings—No returns. Paid $3,750 preferred claims, $8,000 to protect assets, and $5,450 expenses from receipts of $74,700.

CHICAGO'S BUSINESS STEADY LAST WEEK; RETAIL TRADE GOOD

There was little change in Chicago business last week, although there was a slight upturn in downtown retail circles, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce. Seasonal buying supplied the main impetus to retail business.

Few changes were reflected in wholesale trade, with hesitancy in rural buying due to grain competition from Latin America offsetting aids of the AAA to agricultural consumers, the review says. Mail order activities were stated as good, with the new deferred payment plans of some large houses bringing real results.

Manufacturing experienced a more buoyant week, the review states, with orders from automobile companies and greater activity among producers of electrical utensils contributing most to the increased demand.

LOEW'S REPORTS 1934 NET INCOME TOTALS $7,477,897

Loew's, Inc., huge motion picture holding company, reported yesterday that its net income for the fiscal year ended Aug. 31, 1934, was $7,477,897 as compared with $4,034,290 for the fiscal year ended Aug. 31, 1933. Gross income of the company amounted to $96,877,672 as compared with $84,938,654 in the preceding year. After payment of dividends and adjustment of investments in corporations formerly partly owned $3,966,740 was carried to the surplus account, which on Aug. 31, 1934, stood at $37,667,062.

Total current assets, including $12,527,645 cash and government securities, totaled $42,282,192 on Aug. 31 as compared with total current assets of $36,429,926 at the end of the preceding fiscal year, including $11,238,204 cash and government securities. Current liabilities amounted to $6,975,800 compared with $5,923,981.

MANUFACTURERS ASKED TO DECIDE NEW DEAL POLICY

Called to New York Conference.

New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Every manufacturer in the United States was urged today to attend a "national industrial congress" called to draft "constructive recommendations" for presentation to President Roosevelt.

Invitations to this important conference were sent out through the National Association of Manufacturers by 50 leading business men, including John J. Raskob, former chairman of the Democratic party.

At this gathering, which will convene in New York on Dec. 5, the position of American industry toward the New Deal will be definitly decided, the invitation committee stated.

Problems Confronting Country.

"Industry has before it at this time a duty of imposing proportions that must be met squarely," read the invitation.

"Recovery problems confront the country, they demand the best thought and help of all the people. Elected officials who invited assistance are entitled to the full assistance of industry in working out a sound basis of cooperation which will restore economic stability.

"The major question is not what has been done in the past but what new steps are necessary to bring recovery."

Questions Needing Answer.

Questions the industrialists have set for themselves to consider include:

What in the future should be the relation of government to business?

How is the gigantic problem to be met to relieve distress and at the same time not plunge the nation into bankruptcy or threaten its credit?

How is the new flow of private capital into legitimate investment to be stimulated?

What new moves to curtail unemployment are practical and feasible?

"With a view to analyzing soundly and from the perspective of the welfare of the nation as a whole," wrote the 50 leaders, "we urge manufacturers to assemble at this congress of American industry."

Invitations to Leaders.

Invitations to address the gathering have been sent to Donald R. Richberg, Prof. Raymond Moley, Prof. Neal Carothers of Lehigh university, and former Gov. Walter J. Kohler of Wisconsin.

The 50 insisted in their invitation "this is the time for industry to formulate a program upon which it can stand unitedly. It must be drafted in a full spirit of helpfulness with the government in the mutual desire to eliminate unemployment by stimulating private enterprise."

Power Output Large Despite Trade Slump

Maintenance of a comparatively high total output of electricity in the United States despite depressed business conditions of the last five years is attributed largely to the initiative and resourcefulness of utility operators in promoting the use of electricity. The operators themselves are particularly pleased with the success they have enjoyed in holding up residential consumption.

To meet lessened demand caused by "doubling up" of families as public purchasing power dropped, campaigns were launched to extend the uses of electricity in the home. Even during the doldrum days of 1931 and 1932 the demand for residential electricity dropped less than other divisions.

Refrigerators Helpful.

Of most importance have been the strides made in the sale of electric refrigerators. Sales in one middle western town, for example, were such that demand during the summer, usually an off season for utilities, was almost as much as during the winter.

The radio is placed second in importance as a stimulus in the residential field, although electric ranges and water appliances have played a major part in some sections.

One successful selling campaign was "More Light—More Sight." Under it, local utilities measured the light in individual homes upon request, and if it was under minimum requirements the customer was advised on means of correcting the situation.

The most favorable factor in the view of utility operators is that the number of users had increased despite the fact that total consumption of residential electricity has dropped below the peak.

Campaigns Help Some.

Commercial business depends almost entirely upon the general business situation. Electrical consumption decreases automatically when there are more vacant stores and offices. Nevertheless, campaigns to stimulate better lighting conditions, have, in a small way, acted to check the drop.

Progress also has been made in stimulating industrial consumption, although this branch of the utility business varies almost directly with general industrial activity and has been considered independent of efforts of utility operators.

In New York state, for example, one company succeeded in showing insurance companies that lighting conditions are an important factor in accidents. It induced them to make concessions in employé compensation rates if the insured company had proper lighting facilities.

The downward trend of total output of electricity in this country was checked in the spring of 1933. Sharp increases followed, continuing almost unchecked through last summer. Production has held steady since then.

The advent of air conditioning, all types of which use some electricity, is another item of cheer in utility headquarters.

Steel Makers Take Cheer as Orders Grow

There is a stronger sentiment in the iron and steel markets, says the magazine Steel. This is attributed to increasing activity in raw materials, heavier steelworks scrap purchases and larger commitments for practically all finished steel products. Operations are stated as being ½ point higher at 28 per cent of production capacity.

"The sharpest rise was in the Wheeling district, up 15 points to 54 per cent, due mainly to the resumption of 18 sheet mills idle more than four months. Operations still are above the corresponding period of 1933, and, as then, moving upward, in contrast with the precipitous descent at this time in the four preceding years"; the journal states.

Auto Plants Increase Orders.

The review continues that specifications from automobile manufacturers are expanding moderately. There have been no suspension of shipments previously released such as was intimated might develop from the President's suggestion that production be leveled out, the magazine states. General Motors orders are reported to be slow, due to its plan to spread introduction of new models and also to Chevrolet's indecision as to certain parts. Last week output held to 16,000 cars.

"An industrial truce of the type the President proposed recently appears near consummation in steel," the review says. "Producers seem willing now, as in most instances in the past, to treat with representatives of their labor on a proportional basis. They object, however, to a closed union shop. The truce should minimize the danger of labor trouble in steel."

Large Orders Awarded.

Among recent awards listed is the order of Sun Oil company, Philadelphia, for 5,300 tons of steel pipe for a Philadelphia-Newark, N. J., line, placed with German interests. Los Angeles has awarded 3,800 tons of welded steel pipe, while at Pittsburgh 5,000 tons of skelp has been purchased and at Philadelphia 1,000 tons have been bought for casing and oil line pipe.

Structural steel awards for the week are placed at 16,000 tons. The article continues that bids were opened and early awards are expected on 21,000 tons for the Grand Coulee, Wash., dam and on 18,000 tons of reinforcing bars for the Fort Peck, Mont., dam. Work by the Chicago sanitary district is said to require 10,000 tons of bars, while Milwaukee will need 4,000 tons for a filtration plant. Spain is reported as inquiring for 200,000 tons of structural steel for a bridge.

Pittsburgh, Chicago Expand.

Besides the rise in operations at Wheeling there was a gain of 1 point to 21 per cent at Pittsburgh and ½ point to 31 per cent at Chicago. Cleveland was 5 points lower at 38 per cent of capacity, eastern Pennsylvania ½ point lower at 20 per cent, and Buffalo down 2 points at 24 per cent. Detroit remained at 48 per cent, Youngstown at 31, New England at 40 and Birmingham at 25 per cent. It has been reported in steel circles that operations at Youngstown will rise to 35 per cent at the beginning of this week, which would be the highest point in five months. A year ago the rate was at 29 per cent.

The magazine's scrap composite is up 25 cents at $9.92 a ton, due to advances at Pittsburgh and Chicago. The iron and steel price composite is 2 cents higher at $32.15, while the steelworks index remains at $54.

AVERAGE THIRD QUARTER STEEL LOSS $6.10 A TON

New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—An average loss of $6.10 on each ton of steel produced in the third quarter was incurred by the steel industry, according to an estimate made by the American iron and steel institute. In the second quarter there was an average profit of $2.65 per ton produced.

The estimate is based on financial reports made public by seventeen companies representing approximately 85 per cent of the steel ingot producing capacity of the country, indicating a total deficit for the entire industry during the third quarter of $25,000,000.

In the second quarter it is estimated that the industry had a profit of $24,600,000. In the first nine months the indicated deficit was $8,300,000.

Despite greatly lowered production in the third quarter average hourly earnings for all steel company employés amounted to 72.7 cents, an increase of 3 per cent over the second quarter levels.

Weekly Tobacco Index Average Shows Increase

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—According to H. A. Stich, tobacco analyst, the index of weekly average tobacco prices, based upon the 1926 average of 27 cents a pound as 100, rose last week to 98.5.

UTILITY SHARE SELLING A DRAG ON STOCK MART

Power Issues Hit by New Troubles.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 18.—The stock market for the last week has been going through a sort of treadmill performance; that is, displaying great activity but getting nowhere at all. The average daily turnover has been the largest in months, amounting to 5,121,130 shares on the abbreviated week, and yet the combined averages finished yesterday barely half a point from their close on the preceding Saturday.

The greatest change on any single trading session of the week was .54 of a point, and in none of the other four and a half sessions—Monday being Armistice day recess—did they move as much as a quarter of a point. The net change, slight as it was, marked a recession.

Sell Utility Shares.

Selling of utility shares accounted in a large measure for the market's poor performance. The power and light stocks have been having their troubles for a long time, chiefly on the score of rate reduction moves or threats in various parts of the country, but here in the last few days some extra measures of bad news have come their way. These include the order by the communication commission for an investigation of the American Telephone company's contracts with Associated Bell companies, a report by the New York power authority suggesting a possible 40 per cent reduction in consumers' rates and a move by the New York city authorities to increase the emergency tax on utilities doing business in this city.

Then, President Roosevelt's visit to and praise of the Tennessee valley projects did not exactly help the cause of the utility group. Some traders evinced fears that the American Telephone directors would not maintain the corporation's $9 annual dividend rate at their meeting next Wednesday, but well informed quarters refused to take these misgivings very seriously.

See Selling by Trusts.

Many brokers, indeed, were inclined to blame the liquidation which carried the stock, one of the market's aces, down 10¼ points in three days and shaved more than $212,000,000 from its total market value in the week on investment trusts out to lessen their commitments. The shares, which were selling a week ago at 112½, closed yesterday at 101¼. At one time during Saturday's session the price dipped to within a fraction of par. Two years ago the stock sold down to around 70.

Silver shares continued to encounter some selling on talk of possible stabilization instead of fresh inflation and a few preferreds and miscellaneous issues behaved badly enough to give the last a generally ragged appearance most of the time. Elsewhere, however, the market held up well.

CORN DOMINANT IN GRAIN TRADE; DERTH IS ACUTE

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Emergence of corn as the market leader on the Chicago Board of Trade was the outstanding feature of last week's trading. Some grades of corn are now selling in the cash market on a par with wheat, an abnormal outgrowth of the severe curtailment this season in production of all grains and particularly of corn.

The advance last week lifted the price of the early delivery of corn 4½ cents a bushel. In wheat futures the biggest gain registered also was 1¼ cents a bushel in the December future.

Never in the annals of the grain trade, historians say, has the country faced a situation in corn comparable to that prevailing today. Normally the most stable farm crop, this year the country must go through the year on half rations. The estimated crop of 1,360,000,000 bushels is only slightly more than half what is considered normal.

Haul Corn to Arid States.

The terminal markets are unable to get corn in the country, which is going to the feeders and truckers who haul it into the states where the shortage is most acute. In other years a movement of corn to market followed the season's harvest but the prices prevailing in the country today effectively shut off the terminal markets.

With big shortages existing in hay, oats, and barley the usual substitutes for livestock fodder are not obtainable. But wheat, which is usually too expensive to use as livestock feed, this year is being extensively utilized for this purpose.

Week's Range of Prices.

	High.	Low.	Nov.17.	Nov.10.
WHEAT.				Close
December	1.01⅛	.98⅞	1.01¼	1.00
May	1.01	.98⅝	.99⅝	.99¼
July	.95¼	.92⅝	.93⅝	.93⅛

CORN.
December	.84½	.79⅜	.84⅜	.79⅝
May	.84⅞	.81⅜	.84¾	.81½
July	.83⅞	.81⅛	.83¼	.81½
Season's range—December, 84½@56¾c; May, 88¾@75c; July, 83⅞@75c.
OATS.
December	.53¼	.50⅞	.53	.51¼
May	.50⅝	.49	.50⅜	.49⅝
July	.46⅞	.45¼	.46⅝	.45⅝
Season's range—December, 58⅜@41¾c; May, 59½@45¼c; July, 53@41c.
RYE.
December	.72⅞	.69¼	.72¼	.70
May	.76¼	.72⅜	.75¾	.73
July	.77¼	.72¾	.76⅝	.73⅜
Season's range—December, 90⅝@65½c; May, 95¾@69c; July, 77⅝@69¼c.

The weakness in foreign wheat prices is the real cause of the hesitation in wheat here. Heavy hedging of the new Argentina crop has depressed prices in Liverpool to a point near the year's low price and prevents any real upturn in prices here or in Canada.

REGISTRATIONS FOR SEPTEMBER TOTAL $36,003,991

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Registration by eighteen companies of $36,003,991 of new securities became effective in September under the securities act, the securities and exchange commission announced today, bringing the total effective issues since Jan. 1 to $528,494,524 by 175 companies.

The September total, it is understood, was kept down somewhat by the close scrutiny which the commission is giving to large numbers of applications involving mining issues and investment trusts.

U. S. SECURITIES, FOREIGN LIENS FEATURE TRADE

Both Divisions of Bond Market Advance.

New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—United States government securities and foreign dollar loans furnished the principal lever for the last week's bond market.

Federal issues turned upward under the leadership of the guaranteed federal farm mortgage and home owners' loan bonds which developed strong and active tendencies. Home loan 2¾s reached a record high. Only the home loan 4s failed to record substantial advances on the week. There are expectations this member of the group may be called soon.

Reach New Peaks.

In the foreign section nearly fifty loans established new peaks for the year, with the heaviest trading in the Argentine and Australian divisions. The buoyancy of a large number of foreign bonds was attributed partly to reports of conversion plans in some of the countries as well as switching from investments in gold standard countries which may be forced to shelve the metallic base. Bonds of Poland, however, were intermittently weak on rumors that interest on these might, in the future, be paid in dollars instead of in variously calculated currencies.

Holders of prime investment corporate loans, as well as the government issues, were highly encouraged by the statement of President Roosevelt that the question of the abolition of the lending powers of the Home Owners' Loan corporation next year were under consideration. The administration has indicated its desire that private agencies take over this phase of the recovery program.

The financial sector was also cheered by the President's address in which he disapproved additional taxes to finance unemployment insurance and apparently set his face against what he termed "fantastic" schemes for social reform.

Secondary Liens Irregular.

Secondary corporation issues were highly irregular throughout, some of the utilities and rails declining rather sharply before receiving support. The carriers reflected the warning of Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the RFC that lending would not be so free in the future. Some of the rails came back later when Jones announced he would approve a loan to the Milwaukee.

The utilities, of course, were affected, along with the stocks, by the report of the New York state power authority advocating a cut in power rates of nearly 50 per cent. The utility department, also, was not aided by the order of the communications commission for an investigation of the American Telephone affiliations with the Bell system.

The decline of Standard Oil of New Jersey debentures to around their call price at 102 was explained on Friday when the company announced it was retiring the entire issue of $90,000,000 on Feb. 1, next. This will be the largest corporate refunding operation in several years. Funds for the conversion will be obtained privately.

PWA REPORTS PROFIT OF $370,681 ON BOND RESALES

Washington, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The Public Works Administration today added up a $370,681 profit on bond resales and accepted it as a sign of "resumption on a widening scale of private financing of construction for public purposes."

The profit was made on $19,599,142 of bonds bought to help finance nonfederal PWA projects. Most of it came from the disposal by the Reconstruction Finance corporation of 69 issues of municipal bonds at $14,788,200 for a profit of $373,166. Five issues previously had been sold for $903,000 at a premium of $11,795, but the profit was reduced by a $14,280 loss on three railroad issues of $3,604,000 on which interest was waived for the first year.

The total realized was brought to $19,599,142 by resale or maturity of $271,000 of other obligations.

Further PWA allotments, failing an additional appropriation at the next congress, must come from the revolving fund supplied by bond resales. Not only has the $3,700,000 appropriation been exhausted, but approximately $10,000,000 of bond sales proceeds also has been allotted.

W. B. Pitkin to Address Manufacturers' Meeting

Walter B. Pitkin, author and psychologist of New York, will be one of the speakers at the annual dinner of the Illinois Manufacturers' association on Dec. 11, it was announced yesterday. He will speak on "The Chance of a Lifetime." Alfred P. Sloan Jr., New York, president of General Motors corporation, will speak on "Industry's problems."
